AT THE VERGE OF WAR IN BREAK WITH BERLIN

SPAIN CARES FOR U. S. INTERESTS IN BERLIN; RUPTURE IS COMPLETE

Wilson Confident People Will Sustain Him in Challenge to Germany on Unrestricted Sea Warfare Just Proclaimed.

COUNTS CONSEQUENCES OF MOMENTOUS STEP

Washington, Feb. 3.—Diplomatic relations with Germany have been broken off. President Wilson in a personal address to a joint session of congress at 2 o'clock this afternoon, publicly announced the American government's answer to Germany's declaration of ruthless submarine warfare.

Ambassador Gerard has been instructed to ask the German foreign office for his passports. Passports have been sent to Count von Bernstorff.

Spain will take over the diplomatic interests of the United States in Berlin. Germany's diplomatic interests in the United States will be assumed by the Swiss legation.

Severance is Complete.

Ambassador Gerard's instructions are to close his embassy as well as all the consulates in Germany. All embassy attaches, consuls, consulate agents and their staffs are to be brought out of Germany. This makes the severance of relations more complete than is usual in such cases.

At the Verge of War.

Confident that the entire country is behind him and assured of the united support of congress, President Wilson after his conference yesterday with his cabinet and senators came to the conclusion that there was only one course for the United States to pursue.

Breaking off diplomatic relations brings the United States to the verge of war. Never in the history of the world have two first-class powers severed their diplomatic relations without hostilities following. President Wilson in taking the momentous step has counted the consequences carefully, as have his advisers.

Germany, all her officials have openly said, had counted the cost of a break with the United States and was prepared to pay it in the hope of shortening the war.

When the president returned from the capitol last night he apparently had made up his mind that nothing remained but breaking off relations. At once he began preparing the address which he delivered to congress. No announcement of the break was made at the white house, as that was reserved for disclosure to the public in the address to congress. Secretary Tumulty would only say that the president would address congress this afternoon.

Various Angles to the Break Issues

Newport News, Va., Feb. 3.—The coast guard cutter Yamacraw has gone alongside the German prize ship Appam, and it is thought the German prize crew will be taken off it. Two torpedo boat destroyers joined the super-dreadnaught Arkansas off the Virginia capes on emergency duty.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Measures seeking to protect the United States against conspiracies that may result from the rupture with Germany will be considered at a special session of the senate judiciary committee after the president's address to congress. The committee was urged to consider the measures as quickly as possible by the administration.

New York, Feb. 3.—Word reached the police today that coincident with the publication of the news of the rupture with Germany the Austrian freighter Himalaya, which has been lying in Newark bay awaiting, of New York harbor, has been put out of commission. The report had it that the piston heads and other parts of the engines had been attacked by

STATE LEGISLATURE VOICES CONFIDENCE

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—The lower branch of the state legislature today passed a resolution expressing confidence in President Wilson and the congress.

A committee composed of Representatives McGonagle, Houghton, Miller, and Howard county, Durham and Cravens, drafted the resolution. Acting on the recommendations of the committee the house postponed indefinitely the Miles bill to repeal the law permitting Sunday base ball in Indiana. The senate was not in session.

WOMAN IS KNOCKED DOWN BY AN AUTO

Elizabeth McGee, 1241 West Berry street, sustained a badly bruised and sprained arm when she walked against a moving automobile on West Berry street, Saturday morning. George Zehnder, 1622 North Harrison street, was driver of the car.

Zehnder reported that he tried to avert striking the woman but that she walked directly against the side of the machine. She was assisted into a doctor's office, near at hand, and later taken to her home. Injury will not prove serious, it is believed.

WARMER WEATHER COMING. Relief in Sight From Bitterest Chill in Five Years.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 3.—After experiencing the bitterest cold in five years, Chicagoans today received with relief the weather bureau's forecast, issued last night indicating that an end to the cold wave is in sight. Below zero temperatures were predicted for today, however, but it was not expected that the mercury would reach 10 degrees, yesterday's low level.

First American Ship Sunk to Bring Declaration of War, Says Mr. Flood

Washington, Feb. 3.—Secretary Lansing questioned as to details said, "It is perfectly clear what has happened. I can make no further statement till after the president's address."

Chairman Flood, of the house foreign affairs committee, evidently expected the chances of avoiding war were remote.

"If an American ship is sunk by a German submarine," said he, "it will be followed immediately by a declaration of war by congress."

The news of the break was received in the house as the naval bill was being considered.

Some of the Pacific element, headed by Representative Callaway, of Texas, declared the possibility of the United States being drawn into the war

BIG ISSUES NOW OUT OF PATHWAY

Legislative Matters of Less Prominence to Get Attention.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—With a bill for a constitutional convention already signed by the governor, a statewide prohibition measure ready for final ratification as to amendments by the house of representatives, which dry leaders say will take the necessary action without delay, and with certain definite progress made by a bill extending to women the right to vote, except on constitutional issues, the Indiana general assembly today witnessed the completion of the first half of what is already identified as a memorable session.

Committee work in both houses of the assembly has made satisfactory progress during the week, according to leaders, and there is no reason to anticipate at this time, they say, the usual crush of bills toward the close

U. S. HAS DEMANDED PRISONERS' RELEASE

Insists That Berlin Free Americans Taken on Prize Ships.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The United States has formally demanded of Germany the immediate release of the two Americans who were taken prisoners on prize ships by the raiders in the south Atlantic.

In all there were 64 Americans taken from the steamers Georgie, Mount Temple and Voltaire. Sixty of the prisoners are confined in the prison camp at Duellmen, in Westfalen.

AMERICANS HASTEN AWAY FROM ENGLAND

London, Feb. 3.—A large crowd of home-bound Americans took the boat train at Euston station this morning. There seemed little apprehension of danger, as today's sailing was exempt under the German warning, it being the last one with such exemption. It turned out that the demands for transportation by Americans desiring to get away from England were less urgent than expected and virtually an entire deck with first-class accommodations on the departing steamer was not taken.

Col. Spencer Cosby, returning American military attaché at Paris, and Mrs. Cosby were among today's passengers.

URGES $500,000,000 FOR PREPAREDNESS

Washington, Feb. 3.—Senator Thomas today introduced an amendment to the house revenue bill proposing an issue of $500,000,000 non-interest bearing treasury notes to put the nation in a "state of naval and military preparedness."

An amendment was read but not discussed. The notes will be payable to persons from whom the government purchased munitions, could be used to pay taxes and would be redeemable in 1935.

COMMITTEE WILL TAKE UP MATTER WITH BOARD

A committee of three members was appointed Friday evening at a meeting of one hundred residents of Forest Park Heights which will meet with the board of works to see whether or not the apparent differences between the assessments on property similarly located can be made more equal.

New London, Conn., Feb. 3.—A tool shop on the state pier, a portion of which is leased by the Eastern Forwarding company for storage and handling of cargo for the German submarine merchantman Deutschland, was burned today. The loss was small. In the shop was metal used in the tool works.

WILSON ANNOUNCES BREAK FORMALLY IN TALK TO CONGRESS

President, in Perhaps Most Sombre Moment of American History, Invokes Guidance of God in Step He Has Taken.

OUTLINES CAUSES LEADING UP TO THE ACTION

Washington, Feb. 3.—The severance of diplomatic relations with Germany was formally announced to the country and the world by President Wilson at a joint session of congress today at 2 o'clock.

The United States now stands on the verge of war, with all the historic precedents of centuries pressing it forward.

Fervently invoking the guidance of Almighty God in the step he had taken, President Wilson detailed to the congress why the United States could not continue relations with a warring power which repeatedly invades its sacred rights and takes the lives of its citizens.

Calm, with a sense of right in what may prove the most sombre moment of American history the president stood in the historic hall of the house of representatives and with senators and representatives before him spoke the words which may carry the country into the world conflict, not for aggression and not for power, only for law and humanity.

Silent and attentive, the grim company of the nation's law makers listened with rapt attention while President Wilson told of America's course in the unsuccessful diplomatic struggle to dissuade Germany from her campaign of ruthlessness.

In concluding his address President Wilson declared that he could not even believe now that Germany intends any over act against American citizens but that if over acts are forthcoming he will again come before congress to ask authority to "use any means that may be necessary for the protection of our seamen and our people."

All neutral governments, he believes, will take the same course.

Serve No Selfish Ends.
"We wish to serve no selfish ends," the president stated. "We seek merely to stand true alike in thought and in action to the immemorial principles of our people."

"... seek merely to vindicate our right to liberty and justice and unimpaired life. These are the basis of peace, not war. God grant that we may not be challenged to defend them against acts of wilful injustice on the part of the government of Germany."

While the president was addressing congress Law Adviser Woolsey of the state department, was at the German embassy with a communication for Count von Bernstorff. There seemed no room for doubt that the communication contained his passports.

The President's Address.

The president spoke as follows: "Gentlemen of the Congress: 'The imperial German government on the 31st of January, announced to this government and to the governments of the other neutral nations that on and after the first day of February, the present month, it would adopt a policy with regard to the use of submarines against all shipping seeking to pass through certain designated areas of the high seas, to which it is clearly my duty to call your attention."

"Let me remind the congress on the 31st of April last, in view of the sinking on the 24th of March of the cross-channel passenger steamer Sussex by a German submarine without summons or warning and the consequent loss of lives of several citizens of the United States who were passengers aboard her, this government addressed a note to the imperial government in which it made the following declaration: 'The Sussex Case Note. 'If it is still the purpose of the imperial government to prosecute ruthless and indiscriminate warfare against vessels of commerce by the use of submarines without regard to what the government of the United States must consider the sacred and indisputable rules of international law and the universally recognized dictates of humanity the government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue. Unless the imperial government should now immediately declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of submarine warfare, the government of the United States will be compelled to take such steps as may be necessary to protect its citizens and its interests."

SIX KILLED, 12 HURT IN IOWA RAIL WRECK

"Q" Train Crashes Into a Broken Rail at Cromwell Station.

Cromwell Station, Iowa, Feb. 3.—Six persons were killed and twelve injured when Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train eastbound was wrecked last night by running into a broken rail near here. Five Pullman cars were thrown from the track down a forty-foot embankment into a ditch. The engine tender and a smoking car held the track. The observation car was thrown from the track, but did not turn over. The only identified dead are Mrs. John Sash, of Creston, Iowa, and a man named Schroeder, of Omaha. One man died in the station here after being removed from the wreckage and another died on the train to Creston.

Twelve seriously injured, some of whom may die, were taken to the hospital at Creston.

Many of the injured caught in the wreckage suffered intensely in the zero weather while the steel coaches were being lifted to free them.

TWO PEOPLE STRUCK WHEN GEAR FREEZES

Driver Unable to Turn Wheel and Car Runs on Sidewalk.

Two pedestrians were struck when the steering gear of an automobile was frozen until it could not be moved, and the machine dashed across the sidewalk of a downtown street, Friday afternoon.

The victims were an aged man and a girl, when the car, with steering shaft and case cemented by ice, ran in a half circle, as the machine started. Mary Burrett, 446 East De Wald street, was the girl. Her left limb was badly bruised. The elderly man, who would not give his name, complained of an injured arm. He refused assistance, it was reported.

The accident occurred on the north side of the Meyer Brothers drug store, corner of Wayne and Calhoun streets. William Dittenbaugh, driver for the Karm Brothers meat market, was in charge of the small auto truck. When Dittenbaugh started the car he did not turn the steering gear. It was frozen up. All his strength was expended in trying to turn the wheel. The car ran across the sidewalk and struck the pedestrians.

of the session. On the contrary, the expression is general that the pathway is practically cleared of "big issues" that might have proved stumbling blocks for matters of less importance, but relatively great importance. The so-called Goodrich economy and efficiency program, which deals principally with a survey of state offices, the consolidation of certain offices and the total abolition of others, will be the next subject for controversy and deliberation. The meantime there are fewer than the usual number of minor measures requiring attention and which can be disposed of without serious loss of time. It is likely that another issue will be taken on the house bill that provides for the abolishment of the office of state oil inspector when it comes into the senate, where a similar measure was indefinitely postponed by democrats in the absence of two republican senators. It is said there may be a new line up when the roll call is read on this bill in the upper house. There are a number of bills eligible for third reading in the senate next week and as they can be reached only on call, they will be definitely disposed of, Lieut. Gov. Bush stated today.

As the senate is not in session it was thought hardly probable that the prohibition bill, as it passed the senate, would be introduced in the house today. The women's suffrage bill, which was reported out of committee in the house earlier in the week, with recommendation for passage, was considered likely to be handed down on reading, although no announcement to that effect had been made before the opening of the session. It has been printed and in the members' desks since Thursday.

Bills on second and third reading were to be considered by the house.

FIVE EMPLOYEES INJURED.

NEW DRY PLAN IS SUGGESTED

Gradual Close of Breweries, Saloons and Distilleries

Proposed.

UNDER CONTROL BY STATE COMMISSION

Would Wind Up Last Establishment in Indiana by

Dec. 31, 1918.

Indianapolis, Feb. 3.—The Indiana senate passed the state-wide prohibition bill by a vote of 38 to 11 yesterday, and the cheering had hardly ceased when it transpired that a movement was on foot to draft an entirely new measure, embodying unique ideas, among them a state commission, and extending the time for the disposal of all distillery and brewery properties to Dec. 31, 1918.

An outline of the proposed measure has been submitted to Governor Goodrich and may be presented to the legislature within the next two or three days, if the consent of the dry leaders is obtained. It is a radical departure from the commission amendment suggested several days ago but never offered.

House Must Concur.

It was the supposition yesterday that the bill, as amended and passed by the senate, would be returned to the house today for concurrence. Both the dry and wet advocates expected that the amendments would be concurred in. One of the amendments prohibits the sale of whisky and wine by druggists and the other fixes the time for the law to go into effect as April 2, 1918.

What success the supporters of the proposed commission measure will have is conjectural, particularly since the dry advocates have opposed alterations so strenuously. Governor Goodrich stated to a reporter yesterday that the plan had been submitted to him in a general way in writing and that he understands that some of the leading dry advocates are inclined to favor it.

Conferences are to be held today and tomorrow to consider the plan and to attempt to reach an agreement. If it is adopted a bill will be drafted along lines that are said to be unique in this country and to represent the first step towards settlement of the liquor question under state management.

The plan as submitted to the governor would provide for the appointment of a commission of four business men to have charge of all of the breweries, distilleries and saloons with authority to operate them for the benefit of the owners and to liquidate the property for their benefit as soon as possible. The time limit placed on the commission for disposal of all of the properties would be Dec. 31, 1918.

No Liquor Shipped In.

The bill would provide for the beginning of prohibition in Indiana within thirty or sixty days after the close of the legislature in that all of the properties would be placed in the hands of the state for control and operation. The commission would have authority to close any property in its own initiative. The bill would provide for the taking of an inventory of all of the property used in the liquor business.

The receipts would be paid into the commission and distributed by it to the proper sources in the liquidation of the properties. It would provide also that no liquor should be shipped into the state after the taking effect of the bill, which would be soon after the adjournment of the legislature and that whatever liquor is sold in Indiana before complete prohibition becomes effective shall be manufactured by Indiana concerns.

The plan has been suggested as means of giving the men engaged in the business a chance to realize more fully on their properties, which must be closed permanently within the next two years. It has been submitted to prominent men, who say that it would prove the most satisfactory settlement of the prohibition question and would be fair to the prohibition advocates as well as to the men engaged in the liquor business.

Conference Is Arranged.

It is understood that under the plan it would be proposed that probably half or two-thirds of the saloons in Indiana, which are numbered at 148 the next few months as the commission would have such discretion. A well known attorney called on the governor yesterday afternoon and stated that arrangements were being made for conferences with the leaders of the dry forces and that there is reason to believe that the plan would meet with their approval.

It was said also that the plan has been outlined to Superintendent Shumaker, of the Anti-Saloon league, and others connected with that organization. It has been considered by prominent distillers and brewers and has been agreed to by some of them.

5,500 Saloons Involved.

A prohibition law will wipe out 3,500 saloons and several breweries and distilleries. Thirty-four of the ninety-two counties of the state already are dry by local option and two others have only one saloon each. The saloons of the state are numbered at 148 the next few months as the commission would have such discretion. Of the 3,500 saloons, which represents the count of the Indiana Brewers' association, 725 are in Lake county and 561 in Marion county. Two hundred and twenty-three are in St. Joseph county.

The Lakeside Aid society meets at the home of Mrs. G. B. Porsch, 863 Edgewater avenue, next Tuesday afternoon.

FIRST AMERICAN SHIP SUNK TO BRING DECLARATION OF WAR

interests of the respective governments.

There should be no sequestration or confiscation of private property either in the United States or Germany, although it may be taken for use under certain circumstances.

The International Shippers.

The ninety-five or more German merchant ships tied up in American ports since the beginning of the war, may be used by the United States, but the German owners ultimately must be compensated. The ships scattered in the ports of continental United States, Porto Rico and the Pacific island possessions including the Philippines comprise some of the best known ocean liners and aggregate 628,837 gross tons. Only in case of war is there possibility of their being absolutely confiscated and even then such action is doubtful for the United States in the court of nations has been the leading exponent of the inviolability of private property.

Mails will continue to move under the Geneva convention and other existing special conventions. There should be no restriction upon the free movement of travelers between the United States and Germany, the policy of the United States to issue no passports to Americans wishing to visit the war zone unless they have pressing business there.

Individual Status Unchanged.

In fact so far as individuals are concerned the status remains practically unchanged. One of the diplomatic relations. Upon the conduct of Americans in Germany and the conduct of Germans and German sympathizers in the United States depends the attitude of the respective governments regarding them.

There is, however, one relation between the United States and Germany which ceases through diplomatic rupture. It is the humanitarian task of guarding the welfare of soldiers in the prison camps of their enemies and the care of German civilians detained in the entente countries. This vast task, which is being performed by American diplomatic representatives in England, the French camps, in Africa and in the Russian camps, extending to the icy wastes of Siberia, will have to be confined to other hands.

Likewise the welfare of British, French, Russian and other allied persons in Germany, Austria and Turkey will pass to some other neutral power. The ministering hand of the United States, which has cared for these men lost to their homes and friends, which has brought them food, clothing and medicine to cheer a desolate existence, will be withdrawn. Someone else will have to take up the cause of humanity severing diplomatic relations with the United States.

Some Earlier Cases.

The precedent for severance of relations is found in modern history only between lesser nations and between first class powers and lesser ones. The United States suspended diplomatic relations with Mexico and only recently were they resumed. It suspended diplomatic relations with Nicaragua when the dictator, Zelaya, executed two Americans, Cannon and Groce. When John Quincy Adams was president the American charge d'affaires at Rio, demanded his passports and returned to the United States without the minister's action. He sanctioned closing the legation because of wrongs to Americans in Mexico.

Under President Buchanan the American minister to Mexico suspended the relations of his legation until he could get the view of the United States on what he considered forced loans upon Americans in Mexico. Although President Buchanan did not agree with the minister's action, he sanctioned closing the legation because of wrongs to Americans in Mexico.

Other Measures Next.

After the breaking of diplomatic relations comes the possibility of other measures, which are not so amicable means of redress, which also "measures short of war." The modes of dress may include reprisals, retaliations, non-intercourse and display of force and still there may be no state of war. There are precedents of various sort and range for such action. In 1870 congress authorized President Grant to suspend transit of goods to Canada in bond as an extreme measure to prohibit Canadian vessels in American water because of the attitude of the Canadian government toward American fishermen.

In 1870 congress imposed such embargo on ships or exports as legitimate. Congress imposed such embargo on the years preceding the war of 1812 on trade with both England and France. As a rule those were pacific embargoes and prevented American ships from carrying goods to the enemy.

Non-intercourse acts can be passed by congress to stop commerce between the United States and Germany, but as the war already has put the trade at a low ebb the effect will be negligible. Such acts were prepared against Great Britain and France between 1793 and 1809.

Displays of force have been frequently used by the United States and European powers to impress the earnestness of their position. Writers on international law class the allied march to the relief of the legations at Peking as a display of force short of war.

Then the Eventually—War. When all the measures short of war have been exhausted or if the situation decided to compromise with them, comes the eventually—war itself. More than one hundred times since 1700 war has begun before it was formally declared. Only twelve times in the 216 years has war actually been declared before hostilities began. The latest notable instance was the actual opening of the Russo-Japanese war, when Admiral Togo struck a Russian fleet. Russia complained of a surprise attack but Japan pointed out she had notified Russia she was breaking off relations. "We were sure," said Japan, "that it was right to take such independent action as might be deemed best."

The Hague convention of 1907 took notice of the situation and adopted an article making it mandatory for a nation to declare war before beginning hostilities. Germany and the United States with other nations, agreed to it and also agreed that neutral powers must be notified of the state of war without delay. It provided, however, that there might be an ultimatum with conditional declaration of war. The Hague conventions and the fabric of international law have been so torn during the present war, however, that no diplomatic ventures to say how far any nation may be expected to regard itself as bound by the provisions. It might be said that almost anything is within range of possibilities. In practice a declaration of war has come to be regarded more as a call to arms than as a notification to a prospective enemy.

With the beginning of war the status of citizens treaties, consuls mails, commerce and property undergoes a change which varies in different degrees from that prevailing under a break of diplomatic relations.

safeguard the national interests and further prepare the country for the unprecedented and momentous situation in which it now finds itself.

Secretary Daniels issued an order barring all but officers and men from navy yards, ships and stations. Orders for the evacuation of foreign ports were issued through the treasury department to customs collectors and the coast guard service.

Break Taken for Granted.

The president's address to congress while guarded closely, reviews the negotiations with Germany climaxed by the note giving warning that the Berlin government had removed restrictions on submarine warfare.

The decision to break was taken for granted by many senators with whom he talked yesterday and by members of his cabinet. Although he did not give his decision in those conferences his outline of the situation gave such a serious picture that it was generally believed that he had reached a conclusion that he could follow no course but break relations with Germany.

Calm at White House.

Mr. Wilson remained in his study in the white house throughout the morning and saw no callers. It was learned he began the preparation of his address to congress shortly after his return from the capitol late the night before. The steps leading up to the break were being taken, apparent calm prevailed at the white house and state department.

Democratic Leader Kitchin told Republican Leader Mann when the house convened today that no action by congress was contemplated today in connection with the president's message to congress.

Steps to Meet Situation.

Not unmindful of the possibility of disturbances by German sympathizers, officials said steps had been taken to meet the situation.

Just at the time when the decision came a break became known. Secretary Lansing went over to the white house and had a brief conference with the president. He too, would go no further than Secretary Tumulty's brief announcement that the president would address a joint session of congress this afternoon. At the capitol, the news came like a thunder clap. Everywhere expressions of support and approval. Administration leaders in the senate who had talked with the president last night, were not surprised but were deeply moved by the climax.

Lodge Hears the News.

One of the first to hear the news was Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, republican. He said, "I will have to inform myself."

It is thought doubtful by some that the entente allies will grant any such safe passage as was granted to the Austrian ambassador. In that event the German ambassador might choose to go to South America or to Mexico.

After Count von Bernstorff had called the Swiss minister on the telephone and asked him to take charge of the embassy, Dr. Ritter hurried over to the German embassy building and the two men conferred.

After that Count von Bernstorff declined to answer questions. "Ask the Swiss minister," said he, "I am only a private citizen."

Mrs. George Dewey, widow of the admiral, called at the white house executive office and left resolutions from the women's section of the navy league, pledging unqualified support to President Wilson.

ambassador informed Countess von Bernstorff of the news. Upon returning he explained how sorry he was that the break had to come, and added: "I am not surprised. My government will not be surprised. The people in Berlin knew what was bound to happen if they took the action they have taken. However, I have simply been here to carry out the orders of my government. I have had no official information either from my government or from the United States since we received the note which brought this about."

Attaches of the embassy were called to the ambassador's library immediately and told what had happened. Many began preparing to remove their personal effects. The embassy itself quickly became silent. The clicking of typewriters ceased and clerks stopped working to talk of possibilities of war and how they were going to get back to Germany.

Nothing Else Than War.

In the mind of every person in the embassy, the ambassador's down to the street who answered the front door, there is now and always has been the conviction that the severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany could be followed by nothing else than war.

They all feel that the first American life lost as a result of the new submarine campaign will bring the war.

After sending his message to the public printer and arranging for the joint session of congress President Wilson set calmly about his routine work. Going to the cabinet room in the executive offices he signed a number of letters and commissions. Having decided on his move he awaited with confidence renewed signs that the country stood back of him. Secretary Lansing and Secretary Tumulty, the only two men who saw the president during the morning, said he was grave but undisturbed.

Something Like Manila.

"Now we must look out for something like Dewey at Manila," remarked Senator Sherman of Texas.

"The president has done the only thing that any self-respecting nation could do," said Senator Reed, of Missouri.

"I approve the president's action," said Senator Poinsett, republican. "I think the country will unitedly support it. It was the only thing to do." "We have to shoot our villainy as a nation," asserted Senator Saulsbury, democrat. "Any other course would merely be a postponement of what we are doing now."

Count von Bernstorff at once arranged with the Swiss minister, Dr. Paul Ritter, to take over the German embassy. The details of the transfer will be arranged when the German ambassador says good-bye to Secretary Lansing.

His First Experience.

Count von Bernstorff said he did not know the manner of his leaving the United States or what steps would have to be taken.

"This is my first experience of the kind," he said, "and I will have to inform myself."

It is thought doubtful by some that the entente allies will grant any such safe passage as was granted to the Austrian ambassador. In that event the German ambassador might choose to go to South America or to Mexico.

After Count von Bernstorff had called the Swiss minister on the telephone and asked him to take charge of the embassy, Dr. Ritter hurried over to the German embassy building and the two men conferred.

After that Count von Bernstorff declined to answer questions. "Ask the Swiss minister," said he, "I am only a private citizen."

marine warfare against passenger and freight carrying vessels the government of the United States can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations with the German empire altogether.

The German Assurance. "In reply to this declaration the imperial government gave this government the following assurance: "The German government is prepared to do its utmost to confine the operations of war for the rest of its duration to the fighting forces of the belligerents, thereby also insuring the freedom of the seas, a principle upon which the German government believes now as before to be in agreement with the government of the United States. "The German government, guided by this idea, notifies the government of the United States that the German naval forces have received the following orders. In accordance with the general principle of visit and search and destruction of merchant vessels characterized by international law such vessels both within and without the area declared a naval war zone shall not be sunk without warning and without saving human lives unless these ships attempt to escape or offer resistance."

"But," it added, "neutrals cannot expect that Germany, from now on, to fight for her existence shall, for the sake of neutral interests, restrict the use of an effective weapon if her enemy is permitted to continue to apply at will methods of warfare violating the rules of international law. Such a demand would be incompatible with the character of neutrality and the German government is convinced that the government of the United States does not think of making such a demand, knowing that the government of the United States has repeatedly declared that it is determined to restore the principle of the freedom of the seas, from whatever quarter it has been violated."

Assurances Accepted. "To this the government of the United States replied on the eighth of May, accepting, of course, the assurances given, but adding:

"The government of the United States feel it necessary to state that it takes it for granted that the imperial German government does not intend to imply that the maintenance of its newly announced policy is in any way contingent upon the course or result of diplomatic negotiations between the government of the United States and any other belligerent government notwithstanding the fact that certain passages in the imperial note of the 4th inst. might appear to be susceptible of that construction. In order, however, to avoid any misunderstanding, the government of the United States notified the imperial government that it cannot for a moment entertain a suggestion that respect by German naval authorities for the rights of citizens of the United States upon the high seas should in any way or in the slightest degree be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affecting the rights of neutrals and non-combatants. Responsibility in such matters is single, not joint, absolute, not relative."

Germany Made No Reply.

"To this note of the 8th of May the imperial government made no reply."

"On the 31st of January, the Wednesday of the present week, the German ambassador handed to the secretary of state, along with formal note a memorandum, which contained the following statement:

"The imperial government therefore does not doubt that the government of the United States will understand the situation thus forced upon Germany by the entire allied brutality methods of war and by their determination to destroy the central powers, and that the government of the United States will further realize that the now openly disclosed intention of the entente allies gives back to Germany the freedom of action which she reserved in her note addressed to the government of the United States on May 4, 1916."

"Under these circumstances Germany will meet the illegal measures of her enemies by forcibly preventing after February 1, 1917, in a zone around Great Britain, France, Italy, and in the eastern Mediterranean all navigation that of neutrals included, from and to England and from and to France, etc. All ships met within the zone will be sunk."

Has No Alternative. "I think that you will agree with me that, in view of this declaration which suddenly and without prior intimation of any kind deliberately withdraws the solemn assurance given in the imperial government's note of the 4th of May, 1916, this government has no alternative consistent with the dignity and honor of the United States but to take the course which, in its note of the 13th of April, 1916, it announced that it would take in event that the German government did not declare and effect abandonment of the methods of the submarine warfare which it was then employing and to which it now purposes again to resort."

"I have, therefore, directed the secretary of state to announce to his excellency the German ambassador, that all diplomatic relations between the United States and the German empire are severed and that the American ambassador at Berlin will be immediately withdrawn, and in accordance with this decision, to hand to his excellency his passports."

"Notwithstanding this unexpected action of the German government this sudden and deeply deplorable renunciation of its assurances, given this government at one of the most critical moments of tension in the relations of the two governments, I refuse to believe that it is the intention of the German authorities to do in fact, what they warned us they will feel at liberty to do."

Refuses to Believe It. "I cannot bring myself to believe that they will in fact pay no regard to the ancient friendship between their people and our own to the solemn obligation which have been exchanged between them, and destroy American ships and take the lives of American citizens in the willful prosecution of the ruthless naval program they have announced their intention to adopt. Only actual overt acts on their part can make me believe it even now."

"If this invertebrate confidence on my part in the sobriety and prudent foresight of their purpose should unhappily prove unfounded; if American ships and American lives should in fact be sacrificed by their naval commanders in heedless contravention of the just and reasonable understanding of international law and the obvious dictates of humanity, I shall take the liberty of coming again before the congress to ask that authority be given me to use any means that may be necessary for the protection of our seamen and our people in the prosecution of the peaceful and legitimate errands of the United States to do nothing less. I take it for granted that all neutral governments will take the same course."

Do Not Desire Conflict. "We do not desire any hostile conflict with the imperial German government. We are the sincere friends of the German people and earnestly desire to remain as such. We desire to see the government which speaks for the German people, which we are hostile to us unless and until we are obliged to believe it; and we purpose nothing more than the reasonable defense of the undoubted rights of our people. We wish to serve no selfish ends. We seek merely to stand true alike in thought and action to the immortal principles of our people which I have sought to express in my address to the senate only two weeks ago—seek merely to vindicate our right to liberty and justice and unimpaired life. These are the bases of peace, not war. God grant that we may not be challenged to defend them by acts of unprovoked aggression on the part of the government of Germany."

Understanding, the government of the United States notified the imperial government that it cannot for a moment entertain a suggestion that respect by German naval authorities for the rights of citizens of the United States upon the high seas should in any way or in the slightest degree be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affecting the rights of neutrals and non-combatants. DRUNKEN TRAMP NEARLY FREEZES

Found by an Automobile Party and Is Taken to North Manchester.

Warsaw, Ind., Feb. 3.—A drunken tramp, badly frozen by the chilly blasts of a north wind, was found three miles south of Silver Lake, Thursday at noon, by an automobile party. He was black from the cold and it was necessary to roll him around on the ground for several minutes before he could be revived. His hands were bleeding from cuts and bruises and when found his condition was such that it is believed that he was near death.

He was taken in the machine to North Manchester and after being given treatment and warmed up he was turned loose. After wandering around over the streets for some time he started back toward Silver Lake and persons fearing that he would again fall and probably freeze to death, started after him. As they approached the man he drew an ugly looking pocket knife and attacked the party. He was finally overpowered and locked up in jail.

It is the opinion of many persons that the man is insane and was not drunk.

WRECK VICTIM IDENTIFIED.

Van Wert, Ohio, Feb. 3.—After nearly a year it is possible that one of the men killed in the Cincinnati Northern freight yard near St. Henry, will be identified. At the time of the wreck all efforts to identify the three men failed. H. J. Schmitt, of Celina, has received a letter from Claude Watkins, of Mayeville, Ky., in which it is stated that Mr. Watkins believes one of the men killed was his brother. Identification was made through seeing photographs of the three men. Mr. Watkins will be in St. Henry some time during the week and a disinterment of the body may be made in order to establish a complete identification.

STUBBORN BLAZE.

Auburn, Ind., Feb. 3.—Fire of an unknown origin came very near gutting the residence of Mrs. P. D. West, of South Main street, early Friday morning, but for the valiant work of the city fire department, the house would undoubtedly be a mass of ruins. Mrs. P. D. West and her two sons were awakened by the smell of the smoke, which seemed to fill the house completely about 3 o'clock in the morning and the alarm was turned in.

MEASLES CAUSES DEATH.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 3.—Hazel First, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George First, residing two miles west and one mile north of Poneto, died at 2 o'clock yesterday morning after an illness of ten days. The child was taken ill with measles a week ago last Tuesday and congestion of the lungs followed. Besides the parents, a brother, Albert and a sister, Jessie, survive. The girl was a pupil in the fourth room of the Poneto school.

ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED.

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 3.—The twenty-second birthday of Kendallville court, No. 20, Tribe of Ben Hur, was celebrated here Thursday evening. One hundred members responded to roll call. R. H. Gerard, supreme chief, and P. O. Bowers, state manager, both of Crawfordsville, were the principal speakers.

RUB RHEUMATISM PAIN FROM SORE, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop drugging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and sciatica liniment, which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" has cured millions of rheumatic sufferers in the last half century, and it is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.—Advertisement.

Reynolds, city health officer has compiled the vital statistics for the month of January in Montpelier and his report shows that the Stork made a nice gain over the Death Angel. There were five births and two deaths. The number of contagious diseases far exceeded the usual average and totalled thirty-eight all of which were measles quarantines.

MRS. NANCY BROWN DEAD.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 3.—At 5:24 o'clock Thursday evening occurred the death of Mrs. Nancy C. Brown, widow of J. L. Brown, at her home on East Washington street. Mrs. Brown had been in ill health for more than two and one-half years, suffering a sudden attack of illness two years ago. On last Christmas eve she again suffered an attack and had grown rapidly weaker. Death was due to catarrhal fever.

MUST FACE MURDER CHARGE.

Auburn, Ind., Feb. 3.—Albert Madison, the Garrett negro who shot Red Wing, colored, at that place Tuesday night, will be held in the county jail until the grand jury convenes at the March term of the Dekalb circuit court, when that body will return an indictment against him for murder. Wing died at the Sacred Heart hospital, Thursday.

YEGGMAN IS FOUND GUILTY.

Albion, Ind., Feb. 3.—A jury in the circuit court here yesterday afternoon found Harry Yeggmans guilty of robbery, and the court has sentenced him to the penitentiary for a term of from two to fourteen years. Trainor was a member of the gang that raided Avilla some weeks ago, two of the yeggmans having escaped from the Albion jail and are still at large.

ESCAPES FROM ASYLUM.

Portland, Ind., Feb. 3.—Edward Turner, who recently was adjudged of unsound mind, and was taken to East Haven asylum for treatment, escaped at 4:30 o'clock Thursday evening and has not been heard from since. An effort to locate him here is being made.

115 PRISONERS AT LAGRANGE.

Lagrange, Ind., Feb. 3.—During Charles Minnich's first term of office as sheriff for Lagrange county, from January 1, 1915, to January 1, 1917, a total of one hundred and fifteen persons were imprisoned in the local jail, fifty-three the first year and sixty-two the second.

BAHLE TO SAIL UPON RECEIPT OF TRANSPORT

George Bahle, who is planning a trip to Lyons, France, stated Friday night that he had not given up the idea of going and would sail Saturday, February 10, if passports were issued him by that time. The American line steamer, St. Paul, sets sail a week from today and his passage and state room have been contracted and paid for. Mr. Bahle is to represent the Wayne Oil Tank company and the Deister Concentrator company at the international industrial exposition.

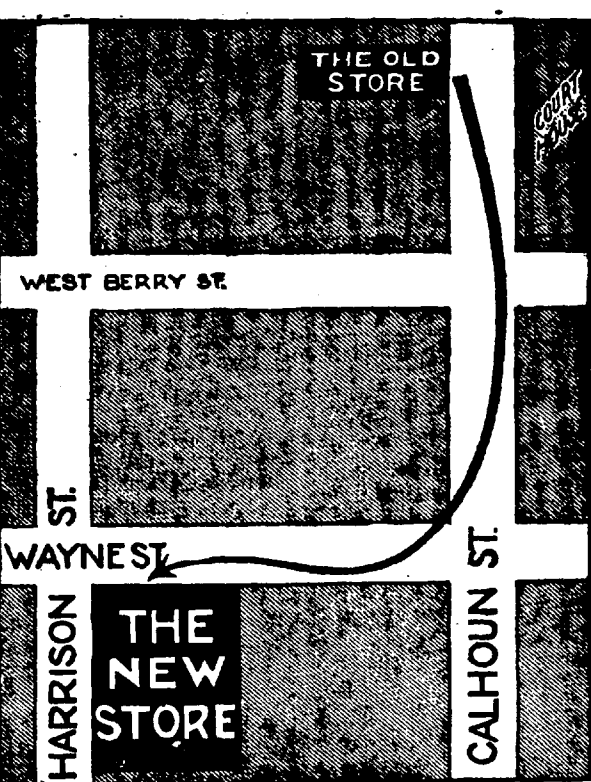

Dr. H. O. Bruggerman, also of this city, is contemplating crossing the waters at a Red Cross physician which means that safe passage will be given him. He is in Washington and cannot be reached. It is not believed that any other Fort Wayne residents are expecting to make a trip abroad.

YOUTHFUL BURGLARS UNDER $1,000 BOND

Andrew Redowski Wants to Take All Blame for Eight Robberies

Time scarred crooks, schooled by years of give and take, in the uncertain world of crime, have keenest sense of loyalty to a "pal."

Andrew Redowski, a mild eyed, brown haired little lad of 18, displayed all the valiant qualities of a finished felon in police court Saturday morning when he insisted on pleading guilty to eight burglaries in Fort Wayne and Detroit and urging that his "pal" Harry Laure, 19, go free.

Redowski, who police say is growing old in crime before his years, will have to serve sentence for burglary because he is on parole now. Laure has no record behind him and a fighting chance of his remaining free is left. Both lads are making stubborn use of that fighting chance.

To a specific charge of entering the A. B. Frank grocery store, 611 Barr street, on the night of January 21, when $27.97 were taken from the cash register, Redowski pleaded guilty. He was bound to circuit court under $1,000 bond.

Laure pleaded "not guilty" to the same charge. For an hour he fumbled his gray hat and answered pointed questions from Deputy Prosecutor Hoffman, with always a denial of having knowledge of the wholesale burglary plan of his partner.

Detective Sergeant Pappert, who was instrumental in apprehension and capture of the boys at Detroit, and who conducted the youths back to Fort Wayne, laid a heap of exhibits, in the form of a revolver, watches, cartridge belt and other articles on the prosecutor's desk.

Pappert told that Redowski had admitted entering six Fort Wayne stores and two Detroit hardware stores. Laure had disposed of part of the property and carried two of the stolen knives when arrested. Police think Laure assisted in the robberies.

Laure says he thought Redowski won the money in pool playing. He had no knowledge of the thefts, he said.

Redowski broke into a Fort Wayne second-hand store one night in July and was captured by a night watchman. He was bound to circuit court, where suspended sentence was granted. Since that time he has been leader in many small burglaries, it is thought.

Tells About "Daddy."

Mrs. Mary Switzer wept as she told about relations of her husband with a lady friend referred to by him as "Daddy." She said he had been with the "other woman" much of the time since their marriage, in November.

Mrs. Switzer charged her husband with wife desertion. He denied the allegation. He has paid $3.50 for her keeping since last Wednesday, he testified.

Switzer told that his wife had caused him to lose his job with the National Handle company. He is now employed at the Pennsylvania freight house. He was denied divorce from his wife last week.

Judge Kerr ordered Switzer to pay $4.50 a week for keeping of his wife. Switzer promised to meet the order.

Was Manicuring Nails.

William Cross, colored, 1344 Hayden street, was trimming his finger nails when his wife became frightened at the small knife he held in his hands, he testified.

Mrs. Mary Cross, the wife, testified that Cross had pursued her with a large knife on Friday afternoon and that she had been forced to seek refuge in the home of neighbors.

Police were summoned by people living near the Cross home. The husband had drawn his pay at the Bass foundry and was about to leave town, police said, when they found him in a saloon.

Cross admitted that he had been imprisoned twice in Evansville on charges of disorderly conduct. He was fined $10 and costs.

Order Police Court Cases.

Jack Case was fined $5 and costs on a charge of public intoxication. James Wells, Charles Wagner and Nelson King were released from charges of loitering.

Romans 1:16-23

16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

17 For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith.

18 For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness;

19 Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God hath showed it unto them.

20 For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse:

21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools.

23 And changed the glory of the uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1917.

Indiana Goes Dry

There's a new recruit in the steadily growing ranks of the dry states. By a majority more overwhelming than any the most ardent advocate of state-wide prohibition had dared to hope, the Indiana senate has followed the lead of the house in passing the Wright prohibition bill to put an end to the liquor traffic in this state on April 2, 1918. The remaining steps to complete the enactment—the ratification by the house of the senate amendments and the affixing of his signature by Governor Goodrich—are purely perfunctory matters that seem certain to be carried out without delay.

State-wide prohibition, the realization of a years-old dream of the temperance forces in Indiana, is especially remarkable only as to the time and manner in which it has been accomplished. It is, of course, but a new demonstration of the mighty sweep of anti-liquor sentiment that has been gathering irresistible force in practically every section of the union in recent years. It is interesting to note that the result has been attained in Indiana following a political campaign in which the liquor question did not figure as a dominant issue. Neither the democrats nor the republicans in Indiana last year in their state platforms gave utterances that could be construed as foreshadowing the culmination that has now developed. There were hints, of course, that state-wide prohibition would be asked, but until the actual sessions of the assembly neared there was no indication of the real strength of the temperance sentiment among the lawmakers or the force which was to rise up and demand action.

Then there arose the belief that the house would pass the bill, but that its fate in the senate was at best extremely problematical. There was a time, in fact, when it was believed the senate would certainly develop a majority hostile to the bill. Yet after the house had given its expected majority for the measure and the eyes of the state were turned on the senate, it was quickly apparent that the psychology of the house situation was having its effect in the upper branch. Voting on amendments seemed to then indicate that the bill would manage to carry through the senate by a vote of something like 27 to 22. Yet overnight as the final vote drew near there was a bandwagon rush that put eleven more senators behind the measure and gave it passage by twelve more votes than the constitutional senate majority.

The non-partisan character of the action is another noteworthy phase of the victory for the dry forces. It was a republican house and a democratic senate that sounded the death knell of the Indiana saloon, and the division of the vote in both branches was such as to divest the upheaval of political tinge. The character of the work in behalf of the bill was undoubtedly in large measure responsible for the elimination of political division on the question. There were no political lines in the thousands upon thousands of petitions asking the enactment of the dry bill. There were no political lines in the big assemblage of friends of temperance who descended upon the legislature during the discussion of the measure. It was an effective crystallization of the dry sentiment of the state, unaffected by any other issue whatever. It was impressive, and it manifestly aided tremendously in producing results.

Great as is the forward step Indiana has taken for the banishment of the liquor traffic, it must be realized that public opinion is not and will not be a unit in endorsing it. There are many men who sincerely oppose drastic legislation of this character, either from a belief that it is unwarranted interference with personal liberty, from the standpoint of public finances, or from the fear that illicit sale under various subterfuges will be more harmful than regulated sale under the license system. Yet the consensus of predominant thought today is plainly toward the obliteration of the traffic. Above all and over all rises the question of the weaker brother and what we owe him in the way of protection and safeguard. The public sentiment that forced the enactment of the dry law in Indiana is not a sudden spasm of virtue. It is the product of long study, close observation, calm reasoning and long suffering under the harm that liquor does and the ruthless defiance of law on the part of so many of the men engaged in the traffic. There will be those on whom the dry regime will work temporary financial hardship. Investments of many thousands of dollars must find new avenues of productive activity in order to avoid total loss. This will require some patience and no little business ingenuity. Yet it cannot be pleaded that snap judgment has been taken. There has been warning after warning of what was to come. Nothing has been made plainer during the past ten or fifteen years than that Indiana would finally do just what has now been done. This fact, we think, will be freely admitted even by the liquor forces.

The passage of the dry law will not at once completely correct all the accumulated imperfections of years. That must not be expected. There must be readjustments to meet the changed conditions. All these must be worked out, and they can be worked out. It will require time and patience and judgment as well as consideration for those who must make radical change to conform to the readjustment order of things. It cannot be done in a moment, but The Sentinel believes the result will finally be an almost universal acceptance of the banishment of the traffic in liquor as the greatest single achievement of Indiana citizens for Indiana citizenship.

A Call From Home

Letters from The Sentinel Readers

To the Editor of the Fort Wayne Sentinel:

Dear Sir:—Four years ago the republican administration of Fort Wayne had submitted to the legislature a bill changing the provisions of the cities and towns act of 1905 in regard to the right of cities to open streets across railroad property to the effect of restoring to the cities the rights that they had before that year. The bill of four years ago was by the efforts of the railroad companies, killed in the committee. Two years ago the democratic administration of Fort Wayne made another attempt by submitting a similar bill in the legislature. The measure passed the house but was defeated in the senate.

Now a number of business men and other taxpayers have organized the Clinton Street Extension association for the purpose of aiding and helping in bringing about the much needed legislation. Our former city charter gave the city the express right to open any street across railroad rights-of-way, railroad lands, depots, depot grounds, whether improved or unimproved. Under this law our city opened Fourth street across the yards of the Lake Shore railroad. The railroad company at that time appealed to the court, but was defeated.

In the cities and towns act of 1905, the words, "railroad lands, depots and depot grounds" are omitted. Whether this was done purposely or accidentally, is immaterial; it is sure, however, that the citizens of Fort Wayne have never expressed a desire to give up their rights. The necessity of relieving the congestion of the traffic on Calhoun street, especially at the downtown street crossings, makes the opening of Clinton street, under the railroad tracks very desirable, if not imperative. If said Clinton street was opened up to the railroad tracks, there would be no legal objection to the opening of the street under the railroad tracks, but Clinton street is open only to the center line of Railroad street, and from there to the railroad tracks is a space of about 120 feet which is the property of the Pennsylvania company, and which was donated to said company by Judge Hanna for depot purposes. This depot ground is the stumbling block which could be removed by restoring to the city the right which she had before 1905. City Attorney Colerick, at the request of citizens, has therefore drawn up a bill to that effect. This bill has been introduced in both houses of the present legislature. Business men and other taxpayers who believe in the advisability of a gradual elimination of all street obstructions ought to inform our representatives and senators by letter. We are informed that the bill will be discussed before the committee on cities and towns next Tuesday evening, and it is desirable that the Fort Wayne business concerns which are mostly interested in this matter, should attend that meeting.

ANSELM FUELBEL.

Political Revenues and Other Things

(Newcastle Times.)

The joke is on the brewers in a number of cities of Indiana. If not on the brewers, then it is on the wet voters of those counties. For instance, there is Marion county with its four breweries, which sent ten representatives to the legislature, all ten of them republicans, and eight of the ten voted for state-wide prohibition. And they did this in spite of the fact that one Indianapolis brewer boasted that he spent $11,000 to beat the democratic ticket, and that he got his money's worth. It now looks like he got a little more than his money's worth.

Soon after the election it is said that one of the brewers called up a well-known democrat to help him control the legislature, and the democrat replied that he would spend a lot of money to get him another job than making beer. Then there is Allen county, which sent three Fort Wayne republicans to the legislature, and every one of them voted for prohibition. During the campaign the agent of another brewery made the round of Newcastle saloon keepers and told them a deal had been made between the brewers and the republicans whereby the former would be taken care of, and for all the wet fellows to support the republican ticket. They are taking care of them—just like an undertaker takes care of his patrons. In two other large counties of the state where two breweries are located they passed the word down the line to support the entire republican ticket and six republicans were elected to the legislature and every one of them dry as a bone and all of them acting as pallbearers at the brewery funeral. Similar cases could be cited in other parts of the state. After all this the breweries make a rush for the democratic camp but find the door slammed in their faces. For once the old game of playing both ends against the middle failed to work.

It seems that the deal made between the brewers and certain republican bosses in Indianapolis last January was a well laid plot of revenge, and the brewers fell for it—took the bait at a single gulp. The revenge was for the beating the republicans received eight years ago and which they always charged to the wets. The latter seemed to have forgotten that event but the G. O. P. bosses never forgot it for a minute. They bided their time, set the trap and the liquor forces walked blithely into it, only to find that they had entered a slaughter house instead of a friendly inn. It took eight years for the G. O. P. to get its revenge, but it seems all the sweeter for the waiting.

More People Now Patronize Hospitals

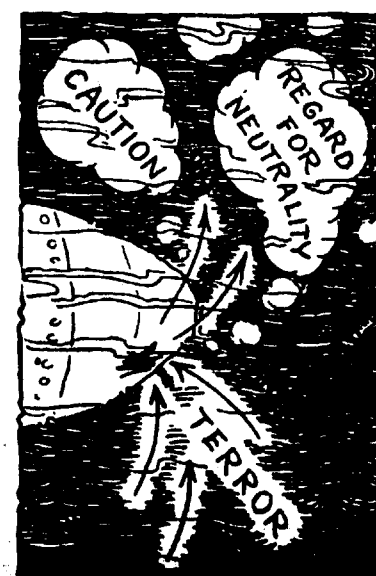

(South Bend News-Times.)

New York reports that its hospitals are overcrowded. The reason, as explained by one of the hospital superintendents, isn't that there's an epidemic raging, or any more sickness of any sort than usual at this time of year. The increased demand for hospital care is attributed primarily to the fact that so many people are now living in small apartments. At home they lacked the room, the air and the privacy of a house. So they go to a hospital to get well.

It may look like a lamentable thing. And so it is, so far as regards the cramped existence to which so large a part of our city populations are driven. A three or four room city apartment is no place to live. People should have real homes.

with space, air, light, privacy and freedom. But from the standpoint of medical care in general, it may be a good thing that people are thus driven to hospitals. It gets the public to looking at hospitals differently, and using them more freely and sensibly.

The old notion of a hospital was a grim institution where one went to have a serious operation performed, or to die of a hopeless disease. People seldom thought of going there for a trivial disease. But now we are coming to think of hospitals as pleasant, friendly, serviceable places, to be used readily whenever there's anything wrong with a member of the family that is easier to care for there than at home. We go to the hospital, we send our loved ones there, without gloomy forebodings or misgivings. And because we thus avail ourselves more promptly of the best medical facilities the community has to offer, we live longer, enjoy life more and get more work done.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

ONE DAY MISSIONARY CONVENTION MONDAY

Rev. W. H. Hanna, of the Philippines, Will Conduct Service.

On the 5th day of the month there will be a missionary convention in the West Creighton Avenue Church of Christ of this city. This will be conducted by Rev. W. H. Hanna of the Philippines who will be assisted by Rev. C. F. McCall of Japan and Rev. C. P. Hedges of the Belgian Congo. Mr. Hanna has spent fifteen years in the Philippines and knows the situation there thoroughly. He will speak briefly two or three times. Mr. McCall has spent seven years in Japan and has been an evangelist and teacher. Mr. Hedges has spent two terms in the Belgian Congo. He has done everything that any missionary is called upon to do. He has taught, he has preached, he has printed books, he has erected buildings, he has given medicine to those who were sick. He has a most interesting story to tell about the progress of the gospel in the Belgian Congo. Several ministers and laymen of the district will also speak in the course of the day. The walls will be covered with maps and charts. There will be a table of literature. This exhibit will be worth going a long way to see.

The service will open at 10 o'clock and continue until 12. The afternoon service will begin at 2 and continue until 4. There will be a meeting at night at which pictures will be shown. These pictures will illustrate the work on the fields. In the evening there will be a supper for all who care to attend. This supper will be furnished at a nominal cost. At the supper the missionaries will speak briefly. The convention will be a great event in the life of the participating churches.

ANNOUNCES A SERIES OF WELFARE SERMONS

Rev. C. Claud Travis, the pastor of Wayne Street Methodist Episcopal church, announces a series of six most interesting "Welfare" addresses to be given at the church every Sunday evening during February and March. The subjects are of vital interest and are to be handled by people who know about them. They are as follows:

Service of the Social Organism. Mrs. Anna Cole, Mrs. Mabel Whitlock, Miss Maud Gwynn, secretaries of the Young Women's Christian association.

Feb. 11—"Public Health; a Social Responsibility." Dr. Miles Porter, Jr.

Feb. 18—"The Problems of Young Women, as Related to the Social Organism." Mrs. Anna Cole, Mrs. Mabel Whitlock, Miss Maud Gwynn, secretaries of the Young Women's Christian association.

Feb. 25—"The Problems of Young Men, as Related to the Social Organism." E. W. Pierce, secretary of the Young Men's Christian association.

March 4—"Public and Private Charity." Mrs. O. E. Mohler, board of Associated Charities.

March 11—"Mental and Moral Defectives." Dr. George S. Bliss, superintendent Indiana School for Feeble-Minded Youth.

"The Soul and Its Vestures." The subject of a lecture by Mrs. Olive B. Martin before the Theosophical society Friday evening. In the course of her lecture Mrs. Martin described the appearance of a temple which ceased to be under control.

CAR TROUBLE IS ENDED.

Settlement Reached in Traction Wrangle at Wheeling. Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 2.—A conference extending over several weeks in agreement has been reached over the wage controversy between the Wheeling Traction company, and its conductors and motormen, according to announcement by the two parties. The employees demanded a wage increase of six cents an hour. The company previously had offered a voluntary bonus of two cents an hour. The terms of the agreement have not been announced.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DAY

At Simpson M. E. DR. W. S. BOVARD,

National Adult Department Superintendent of the M. E. church will be present. Every adult class member in the city should hear him at 3 p. m.

His subject will be, "Why the Sunday School," followed by a round table conference. You are expected to ask questions.

All Sunday School Adults INVITED.

"WHY" IS GENERAL TOPIC OF LECTURES

Sunday evening the first of a series of four lectures on the topic "Why" will be delivered at the First Presbyterian church by Jessie A. Greene, editor of the News. The lectures are all by local men and will be of great interest to all those who attend. The idea of series of lectures by laymen is becoming very popular in this city and this one is expected to be no less so.

Mr. Greene's specific topic is "Why I Should be a Moral Man." The other speakers in the series are the topics are as follows: E. W. Pelice, "Why I Am a Christian"; E. G. Hoffman, "Why I Am a Church Attendant"; and B. Paul Mossman, "Why I Am a Church Member."

SOCIETY

Mrs. William Englebrecht has gone to Detroit to visit her son, who is living there, for a few days.

Mrs. W. A. Diffenderfer is going to Findlay, Ohio, on Monday for a week's visit with her brother and his wife.

Mrs. W. W. Bogart was hostess for the Wednesday Bridge club this week. Miss Lillian Wilson, of Alexandria, is visiting Mrs. George A. Jacobs of Washington boulevard west.

Mrs. Jennie Lewis has returned from a several months' visit in Detroit with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Webb.

Miss Helen Gilmartin of West Taber street entertained the St. Vincent's Sewing circle on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. W. B. Merrill of West Berry street has gone to Toledo, O., for a visit and will likely visit in New York city, too, before she returns.

Mrs. Will Cole and son, Robert, and Maurice Parsell, of Angola, are guests of Mrs. F. M. O'Brien, of Hoagland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Dickey arrive from Winona Lake today for a Sunday visit with Mrs. E. A. K. Hackett and children.

Mrs. Frank Fink, of Allentown, Ill., arrives this evening for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles W. Sperry, of Fairfield avenue.

Mrs. S. C. Lumbard, who has been in New York city and Garden City, L. I., visiting friends for a number of weeks, returns home the first of the coming week, probably tomorrow.

Mrs. Charles Hughes, of Rockhill street, entertained the members of the Fortnightly Sewing club this afternoon at an informal, but most delightful time.

Miss Lenore Moffat entertained the members of her class at Sunday school, of which Miss Pickard is the teacher, on Friday afternoon at her home in West Wayne street, at a social gathering.

Mrs. Chester Keel returned to Chicago on Wednesday, after a short visit here with relatives. Mrs. Keel was an honor guest at the large luncheon-bridge party given by Mrs. W. L. Pettit, Jr., and Mrs. John H. Vesey.

Miss Katherine Willson, of Hoagland avenue, entertained the members of a club to which she belongs on Friday afternoon, and as each member had the privilege of inviting a guest, the company made twenty children who spent a merry afternoon.

The Willing Workers Aid society will meet on Tuesday with Mrs. Ed Davis as chairman. Mrs. Tom Conner, Mrs. Ed Jones, Mrs. Dan Steger, Mrs. C. B. Notestine, Mrs. M. C. Hall, Mrs. J. Adams, Hadie Adams, Mrs. Ed Sterling are to be the hosts.

Mrs. J. W. Wiseman left today for South Bend, where Mr. Wiseman is to be located and will meet her. Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman lived in this city for many years, but moved to Indianapolis a few years since. Mrs. Wiseman has been the guest of Mrs. C. A. Horton for several days.

Mrs. John Hoffmann, Mrs. H. L. Somers, Mrs. Earl Henschel, Mrs. W. O. Granger and Mrs. Edie Hall won the tournament prizes in the series of auction bridge conducted by the Woman's Club league, and closing this week. Mrs. Henry Jordan was the fortunate player in Friday's game.

Ladies to make three tables at bridge enjoyed a happy afternoon with Mrs. Clark Gifford on Friday, and were presented with lovely bouquets of spring flowers at the time a luncheon was served. Roses decorated the dining room very prettily. The honors in the game were won by Mrs. Will Spalding, Mrs. Frank Laurents and Mrs. Gillette.

One of the lovely parties to honor Miss Henrietta Loeffler was given at the home of Misses Lucile and Martha Vail on Friday afternoon, with the twenty-two members of the Se-Char-Rea club as guests. The Misses Vail were assisted by their sister, Mrs. Ben Schwartz in entertaining. Yellow and white were the prevailing colors in decoration and appointments for the delicious supper.

Miss Emma Bauer, of Weisser Park avenue, entertained the members of the Merit club at her home on Thursday afternoon. For the luncheon the dining room was profusely decorated with red hearts, cupid and flowers. There were present Mesdames Frank Ritchie, Joseph Hanson, Forrest Arney, H. E. Brunner, Al Holsworth, John Meyer, Ed Myers and Misses Carrie Kleemer, Minnie Benson, Minnie Myers and Emma Bauer.

Master Melvin Honeck, one of the city's talented boy students of the piano, gave a long recital entirely from memory in Packard hall last evening.

Having both intelligence and a natural feeling for musical expression and showing evidence of much and continuous faithful practicing this young player held his own in a remarkable manner, displaying a confidence and poise beyond her years. Miss Esther Stock played a duet with Mr. Honeck and it also was an example of memory work. The young man is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Honeck, and is a pupil of Miss Herrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Archer, former residents of Fort Wayne but in later years of Chicago, have returned here to make their home. To express their pleasure over the fact a few intimate friends called at the new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Archer, 617 Putnam street, to give them a house warming.

The surprise came off on Friday evening and began with a dinner. Misses Flora and Georgia Miller were the chief instigators in the surprise and they were abetted by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. White, Miss Edith White, Mrs. Harriet Larimore, Mrs. Charles Moreland, Mrs. D. Deister, Mrs. Henry Riecke and Misses Claude Hing, Bertha and Elizabeth Hockmeyer, Bertha Riecke, Ruth Hiser and Esther Deister.

of plot and story, the working out of which offers an abundance of mirth, and serves to introduce to an audience Mr. Hippie in a number of Irish songs, adding much to the good effect of a laughable play well acted, and staged with special scenic effects originally used by Chauncey Olcott.

AT THE PALACE.

WINTER GARDEN REVUE.

Menlo Moore Beauty Act Tops New Palace Bill.

The Menlo Moore Beauty act, The Winter Garden Revue, will feature the bill for the first portion of the coming week at the New Palace. This delightful singing and dancing medley will be featured by Adele Jason, Anna Mae Ball and George Mason with the famous Winter Garden Girls. It is a typical Moore act exquisitely costumed and lavishly endowed with scenic investiture and plentifully embellished with pretty girls and catchy music.

"The Wife Saver" is the title of the little sketch in which Franklin Ardell and company will be enjoyed. A real estate agent sells some lots that are dry enough when the tide goes out but are under water when the tide is in. He's a cheater at home too, and when he arranges to meet another woman at Atlantic City complications ensue with laughable rapidity. Ruth Budd, a girl with a winning smile and an captivating voice, sings a group of comedy character songs. Howe and Howe a couple of boys with a clever trick act in which one of them blindfolded reads dates on coins, numbers on bills, etc. Kipp and Kippy are a team of comedy acrobatic jugglers. The Fills Family with their high school leaping and dancing horses, led by Tango Mike the horse with the ball room grace, complete this program.

The snappy quality bill headlined by the musical fantasy, The Girl in the Gown Shop, with Victor Kahn in the principal comedy role, closes this evening. Included in this program are Patricia and Meyers, the greatest dancing team for years ever enjoyed; O'Neal and Gallagher, the music comedy; the Lewis Vallen trio of strong jawed wire walkers; Jura, the little melody maid with the violin, and Guy Rawson and Frances Claire in their dainty skit, Yesterday.

College Course in Housekeeping

What One Day's Meals Should Do for the Body.

are taking the Sentinel college course in home economics. Today Prof. Sweeney, dean of State university of Kentucky, gives examples of good and bad menu making.

(Here is another lesson for women who

BY PROF. MARY E. SWEENEY, (Dean of State University of Kentucky.) It is not enough that the body should be supplied with the kind of food for repairing it, and with the kind of food to keep it warm and to give power to move. It must also be able to use the food and common salt to build up the cells and to keep them in good condition.

Bones and teeth are examples of the cells which require lime and which cannot be repaired without it. Milk and eggs are the best sources of lime for the body. Other lime-giving foods are buttermilk, prunes, beans, cottage cheese, celery, spinach, cauliflower.

Blood cannot be kept rich and red unless the body makes daily many millions of red blood corpuscles. In anemia, where people become pale and listless, the supply of red corpuscles is usually greatly reduced. Iron-giving foods are whole wheat bread, egg yolk, cabbage, oatmeal, dried beans, celery, spinach, lettuce, asparagus and green string beans.

Nerve and brain cells cannot be made unless a substance for building them known as phosphorus, is supplied in sufficient amounts in the food. This substance is most abundant in spinach, buttermilk, cottage cheese, asparagus, cauliflower, cucumbers and celery.

Some people buy lime, iron and salts at the drug store in various medicines. Others get them from fruits and vegetables. As a general thing our instincts may be relied upon to supply the organism with the necessary amount of common salt.

The human machine, like the steam engine needs to be kept clean. Cellulose, a substance familiar in the long strings of old celery, in lettuce and in cabbage is not used by the body for food, but cleans out the digestive tract. Among the other vegetables containing cellulose are carrots, green corn, potatoes, parsnips, fresh beets, squash, lettuce and lima beans.

A day's meals should contain some meat or eggs or milk; starchy vegetables, bread, butter, one vegetable which gives iron and one vegetable or fruit which gives lime. The phosphorus is usually insured by the milk, eggs and cereals.

CAMPAIGN WORKERS IN BIG REUNION

Y. M. C. A. Boosters Get Together and Spend Evening "Reminiscing."

"Well, let's go."

It was E. L. Mogge, director of the whirlwind campaign for funds with which to erect a Young Men's Christian Association building conducted here May 16 to 26, last, speaking. It was a familiar expression and brought forth an outburst of noise Friday evening that for a time threatened to raise the roof of the Elks temple, the scene of the first reunion of the workers in that memorable campaign.

Mogge always started his noonday meetings with "Well, let's go," and the boys always "went," with the result that more than $340,000 was raised in less than the required time.

The reunion was in many ways similar to those famous noonday luncheons and everybody had such a good time that at the suggestion of General S. B. Bechtel, of division B, a picnic of the workers is to be held six months later at which time the women workers will be guests. One of the features of this picnic will be a baseball game between teams selected from each of the divisions. General D. N. Foster of the park board, offered a band of thirty pieces to play on that occasion.

Arthur H. Perfect called the meeting to order with some difficulty and after several attempts succeeded in introducing B. Paul Mossman as the toastmaster of the evening. To the surprise of everyone, Albert

Thomas objected to the selection of Mr. Mossman, declaring that the toastmaster of the evening should be a member of one of the teams. He placed in nomination Henry Beadell and Mr. Beadell was finally selected. Mr. Beadell marched to the front of the banquet hall to assume the new honors that had been so unexpectedly thrust upon him and after a brief speech of appreciation sat down in a chair that had been specially prepared for him. Mr. Thomas again took the floor and suggested that Mr. Beadell should stand while speaking. About this time someone turned on an electric current, charging the chair. It goes without saying that Mr. Beadell arose sooner and jumped higher than he had expected. Mr. Mossman again took charge.

Still World Beaters.

Mr. Mogge was first introduced. "Fort Wayne men and citizens are still world beaters," he declared. "I am glad to be back in the city they have the genuine brand of spunkiness." Moving pictures taken during the campaign in this city were shown, after which Mr. Mogge finished his address. He urged the men to keep up the spirit and enthusiasm they had manifested during the campaign. "If this body of men will put their heads together for Fort Wayne you can have anything worth the having," he said in closing.

Toastmaster Mossman expressed regret at the inability of General Arthur F. Hall, of Division A, to be present. It was explained that Mr. Hall was in North Dakota. However, a large crayon picture of the general, attired in his fighting clothes, was unveiled.

E. W. Peirce, general secretary of the Fort Wayne Y. M. C. A., was inducted. Mr. Peirce said he had heard something of the boosters of Fort Wayne before he came here, but he declared that the half had not been told.

Among others who spoke were: Lee J. Ninde, Charles McCulloch, Col. D. N. Foster, E. H. Kilbourne, Harry Perfect, Albert S. Bond, William Brauer, Edward G. Hoffman and Rev. Arthur J. Folsom.

E. E. Stacy, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Indiana, said that without doubt three world records were broken in the Y. M. C. A. campaign in this city. First, total amount raised in cities of 50,000 and 50,000; second, the reaching of the goal two and one-half days ahead of the scheduled time, and third, the securing of 10,000 pledges actually signed.

Recites a Poem.

Captain Beadell recited a poem which he had written on the campaign conducted here and made a decided hit. The poem will be published later.

Mr. Perfect explained that the plans now being drawn call for a five-story and basement building, constructed along the most modern lines. When completed it will be one of the finest Y. M. C. A. buildings for a town of Fort Wayne's size in the country, he declared.

Mr. Mogge was accompanied to Fort Wayne by Miss Snell, secretary to Mr. Mogge, who assisted him during the

Lowest Point Reached on Saturday Morning Was 4 Degrees Below.

Fort Wayne populace suffered greatly all day Friday. There was a reason. The thermometer hovered below the zero mark the entire day. At 3 o'clock Friday morning the temperature made a fall of 4 degrees and rested at the 3 below mark. During the night it grew colder and although it warmed up a trifle Friday there was never a time that the indicator rested above zero.

The temperature remained at 4 degrees below zero from 9 o'clock Friday evening until 4 o'clock Saturday morning. Then it started to get warmer and by 8 o'clock it had passed the naught and registered 1 degree above.

The forecast Saturday stated generally fair tonight and Sunday, with rising temperature. It is believed that the lowest point that will be reached by Sunday morning will be 10 degrees above.

CAPTIVATING MARY CARSTAIRS

A Modern American Romance By
HENRY SYDNOR HARRISON

Starts In Tomorrow's
Chicago Sunday Tribune

Tomorrow—in the color section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune—you'll find the opening installment of one of Henry Sydnor Harrison's best novels—"Captivating Mary Carstairs". Tomorrow you'll be given an opportunity to enjoy one of the season's literary treats—a delightful, modern American romance by the famous author of "V. V.'s Eyes" and "Queed".

"Captivating Mary Carstairs" is a story of today. It's full of life—love—action! It's founded on fact. That's what makes it different—and interesting. Mary is nineteen; she's beautiful; she's just the sort of girl all girls would like to be. She's —————! —but let Henry Sydnor Harrison tell you about "Captivating Mary Carstairs"—in tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

In announcing the publication of the story—"Captivating Mary Carstairs"—we also announce a new method of illustrating it. Each illustration will be an actual photograph, posed for by models especially selected to portray the characters. The characters in this story have been brought to life and will be shown in photographic reality.

"Captivating Mary Carstairs" has never before been published serially. It will be presented for the first time serially in the Chicago Sunday Tribune—starting tomorrow. If you're a lover of real romance—if you've got red blood and a heart that can stand a throb—if you're interested in reading a story of real, ON-EARTH people—get tomorrow's Chicago Tribune and read "Captivating Mary Carstairs."

Spencerville, Ind., Feb. 3.—Rev. E. Erick died on Thursday evening at the age of 82 years, at 5:15 o'clock at his home on Main street, of heart failure and infirmities of old age. He leaves to mourn his departure one son, William Erick of this place, one daughter, Mrs. Libby B. Hellman of Elkhart, Ind., two daughter-in-laws, Mrs. Grandville Erick, of Auburn, and Mrs. Beeks Erick of Fort Wayne; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Lucinda Shank of Huntington, Ind. His wife died in February, 1916; also five children preceded him in death. Rev. Erick had been a Lutheran minister for many years, but since he retired from the ministry has resided at this place.

Charles Scott, the barber at this place, is sick at his home on Pearl street. Mr. Scott fell last week and injured his head, which is thought to be the cause of his illness.

Mrs. Lizzie Goetzleuchner and son returned home Tuesday to Auburn after spending several days visiting her sister, Mrs. Gust Hafner and family.

Mr. Green, while cutting wood, fell and broke several ribs one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Steward were Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott.

Sherman Funk, Robert Preston and Frank Lake are owners of new Ford automobiles.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz.

Mrs. Dora Green was a Thursday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine.

Miss Bertha Thomburg, Mr. Kain, Howard Shilling, Wellington Miller, Cecil Holloper and Ray Bowser were the committee that had charge of the Spencerville high school display that was taken to St. Joe on Wednesday to the farmers' institute, that was held on Thursday and Friday.

Standly Shutt was taken very sick the first of the week. Mrs. Minnie Tyndall and daughter, Violette, and Mrs. Dayton Webb were Wednesday guests at the Shutt home.

Mesdames Lucy Fairfield, Joel Betz, Dora Green and Jennie Chaney were Wednesday guests at the R. U. Bowser home.

Clyde Frederick sold his property in the north part of town to Mr. Keller of the firm of Fry and Keller Hay Baling company.

Many attended the farmers' institute at St. Joe on Thursday.

ZANESVILLE NEWS.

Zanesville, Ind., Feb. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Thelma Fisher spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Clarence Duhammel, near Roanoke.

Mont Chaney, of Fort Wayne, is spending a few days with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. George Myers and son, Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Corli were callers in the home of Mr. Harley Myers, of Markle, Sunday.

Jasper Redding, living north of Zanesville, died Monday morning at 6:30, of heart failure. Mr. Redding was apparently in his usual health when he awoke Monday morning and went about doing his chores as usual. He suddenly fell over and expired before the physician arrived. Mr. Redding was 76 years old and had lived all his life in Lafayette township. He was twice married, his first wife dying a number of years ago. His second wife survives to mourn. There were no children to either union. Mr. Redding was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge of Zanesville. Funeral services were held Thursday at 10:30 o'clock in the United Brethren church, of Zanesville. The I. O. O. F. lodge with Rev. Beauchamp, of Waterloo, officiating.

Rev. Wise, Rev. Conner and Rev. Sherrill are delivering some very interesting discourses at the union revival now being held in the Radical U. B. church.

Mr. and Mrs. Sim Weaver, O. A. Sink and Otto Scott motored to Fort Wayne Wednesday, to visit A. V. Scott, who has been in the Lutheran hospital for about three weeks, suffering from severe burns. He is reported improving rapidly.

A very critical operation was performed Tuesday upon John Prough by Dr. Grason, of Huntington, and Doctor Northrup, of Markle. Mr. Prough has been suffering greatly for over two weeks from pleura pneumonia.

M. C. Hamilton is spending the week with his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Weaver, of Huntington, and his son, A. D. Hamilton, of Fort Wayne.

Ray Keyser and family, of near Sheldon, were the guests Wednesday of his mother, Mrs. Adeline Keyser.

Jewell Clark, who is employed in the electric works, at Fort Wayne, came home Wednesday, suffering greatly from grippe.

Mrs. Roy Hartup and son, Earnest, of Fort Wayne, are visiting this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Merchant.

Word has been received here that two of the children of Rev. Frank, former pastor of the Christian church, of Uniontown, and well known here, died of diphtheria and that Mrs. Frank is very low with the same disease. Mrs. Eliza Dennis and Chester Greer went to their home to render assistance if possible.

HOLD SECOND ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP BANQUET

Nearly Three Hundred Attend Affair at the Y. W. C. A.

The second annual membership banquet of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the gymnasium of the association building Friday evening and attended by nearly three hundred members. Seven tables were spread and at 7:30 a three-course dinner was served. The banquet was finished at 9 o'clock at which time Mrs. B. Paul Mossman, president of the association, called the assembly to order for the program of the evening. Miss Maude Gwynn, the new girls' secretary, sang a solo, "The Quest." She was accompanied by Miss Viola Welty. Following this was the address of Mrs. Mossman as president in which she spoke of the progress of the association from the time when a new building was first planned.

After the address of the president the minutes were read by Mrs. J. R. Meriwether. Reports of all departments of the association followed. The year has been most successful in all the activities.

Miss Anna Louise Cole, general secretary, responded to the question, "What is the Y. W. C. A.?" A new conception of the object of the association was given and the way in which it endeavored to make its spirit felt to the betterment of the community was set forth.

WILL OPEN STORE IN KUNKLE BUILDING

R. H. Brothers, formerly manager of the G. W. Gates company, and who is now at the head of the R. H. Brothers Corporation Stores, returned Friday from Newcastle, Ind., where one of the branches will be opened February 10. The company's new store in this city will occupy the Kunkle building where the Central Grocery is now located, the latter to move to the new "Central" building at the corner of Wayne and Main. Mr. Brothers states that the Fort Wayne concern will make its bow to the public about April 10. It will be a palace of fashion, featuring ladies' and misses' ready-to-wear. This beautiful store will be distinctive for its interior decorations of ivory and ebony, and for its unusual show windows for which the contract alone has been awarded at the price of $4,400. Mr. R. H. Brothers and Mr. M. H. Ankenbruck are the leading members of the new firm.

30 DEAD, 344 HURT AS ICE BREAKER EXPLODES

Petrograd, Feb. 3.—An explosion occurred on board the ice breaker "Tscheluskine" while the vessel was unloading at Archangel, according to an official announcement issued today. It is feared that about thirty persons lost their lives. Three hundred and forty-four persons were injured, fifty-nine of them severely. Fire spread to various parts of the ship, and damaged a number of buildings.

SPAIN ASKS GERMANY FOR TIME EXTENSION

Madrid, Feb. 2.—(Via Paris, Feb. 2.)—The government has telegraphed the central empires asking for an extension of time in which Spanish ships now at sea in the blockade zones can return to port. The cabinet met tonight to consider Spain's attitude in regard to the German note and King Alfonso will preside over another meeting which will be held tomorrow. The government is considering the establishment of a scheme for insuring Spanish ships.

CLASS IS INITIATED.

Our Home Lodge, No. 881, I. O. O. F., holds interesting meeting.

Our Home Lodge, No. 881, I. O. O. F., held a very interesting meeting in their lodge room last night, where a large number of the members witnessed the conferring of the initiation degree on a class of candidates. The state famous degree team of this lodge, which recently conferred the first, second and third degrees on a class of candidates, Winchester, Ind., has been authorized by the grand lodge of the state to confer the same degrees on a class of candidates at Columbia City, Ind., Feb. 28. All members are requested to be present next meeting night, business of importance.

BLAME "COAL SHORTAGE."

Ball of St. Louis Canceled Until Sunday.
New York, Feb. 3.—The International Mercantile Marine announced today the postponement of the sailing of the "American" line steamer "St. Louis" from London today until noon Sunday, "on account of a shortage of steam coal."

PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN NAVY

French Expert Says Officers and Men Are Equal of Any.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Rear Admiral De Gouy, retired, of the French navy, paid tribute to the officers and men of the American navy in an interview on the submarine issue which he gave today to a correspondent of the Associated Press.

"Should Germany's new policy," said the admiral, "bring the United States into the European conflict American sailors may be depended upon to give a good account of themselves in fighting submarines which are now on the other side of the Atlantic or that may get there."

Admiral De Gouy has made a life study of French naval strategy and tactics with reference to Germany and is one of the best authorities on the subject. Some of his ideas, once rejected by the French navy, are now gaining favor, notably in regard to the more comprehensive action against submarine bases.

Speaking of the means adopted by the allies against undersea attacks the admiral said:

"Generalities are only admissible in talking of the means of defense and attack used by the allies in submarine warfare. We are even denied everything but surmises as to how German submarines have been captured or sunk. My impression is that your naval officers know all about defensive and offensive measures and none are more capable of making use of such knowledge. The ruthless campaign announced by Germany will make the deadlines of submarine more certain, more lives will be lost, and something added to material losses, but it cannot win the war. It will, in fact, have but a mediocre influence on the final issue."

"As for the announced blockade by submarines of such an extent of coast, it is a misnomer. Two thousand submarines would not be equal to the task of making the blockade effective in the sense of the term as formerly accepted and I calculate that Germany has something like 200 of these vessels. Only part of these, for obvious reasons, can at any one time be in service. The German government is quite aware of this and has much less confidence in submarines than the German people. It is the people alone who expect great things from them and who seem to have imposed their sentiments upon the heads of the government."

STAMP MACHINES IN ALL THE DRUG STORES

Anti-Tuberculosis League Takes Another Step for Disease Prevention.

Through the efforts of the Anti-Tuberculosis league of Fort Wayne sanitary stamp machines have been placed in all the drug stores of the city, in the Wayne hotel, Kresge's 5 and 10 cent store, and the interurban station. This is another step towards the prevention of spreading of the white plague and other diseases.

It is said that licking a postage stamp may be the first step towards a tuberculosis camp. The pathology department of the University of Pennsylvania states that a large per cent of the serious diseases are transmitted from one person to another through the medium of an innocent looking postage stamp.

The sanitary stamp machine takes care of itself. The purchaser is the first person to handle the stamps, so that there is no danger of contracting a disease which another person might have transmitted to it. The profit of the machine will go towards the fund of the Anti-Tuberculosis league. Four one cent stamps will be secured for five cents.

OVER FIRING CAUSES TWO CHIMNEY BLAZES

Heavy firing against the below-zero blizzard Saturday morning, caused two defective chimneys to ignite their bounding walls. Firemen answered alarms at homes of H. Gleig, 3104 Broadway, and E. O. Wagner, 306 Brackenridge. Damage in both cases was slight.

Third call of the morning was when a pile of coke at the Fort Wayne Gas company plant, corner of Superior and Barr streets, was accidentally set on fire. Firemen had little trouble in extinguishing the blaze.

POTATO SUPPLY CUT OFF.

Severe Cold Endangers Shipments Made to Berlin.

Amsterdam, Feb. 3.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger says that owing to the prevalence of low temperatures, endangering potatoes in transit, the supply for Berlin has been cut off. The municipality, therefore, the newspaper states, will be unable to distribute any potatoes next week and as a substitute bread flour will be distributed.

MEETING OF WILLING WORKERS.

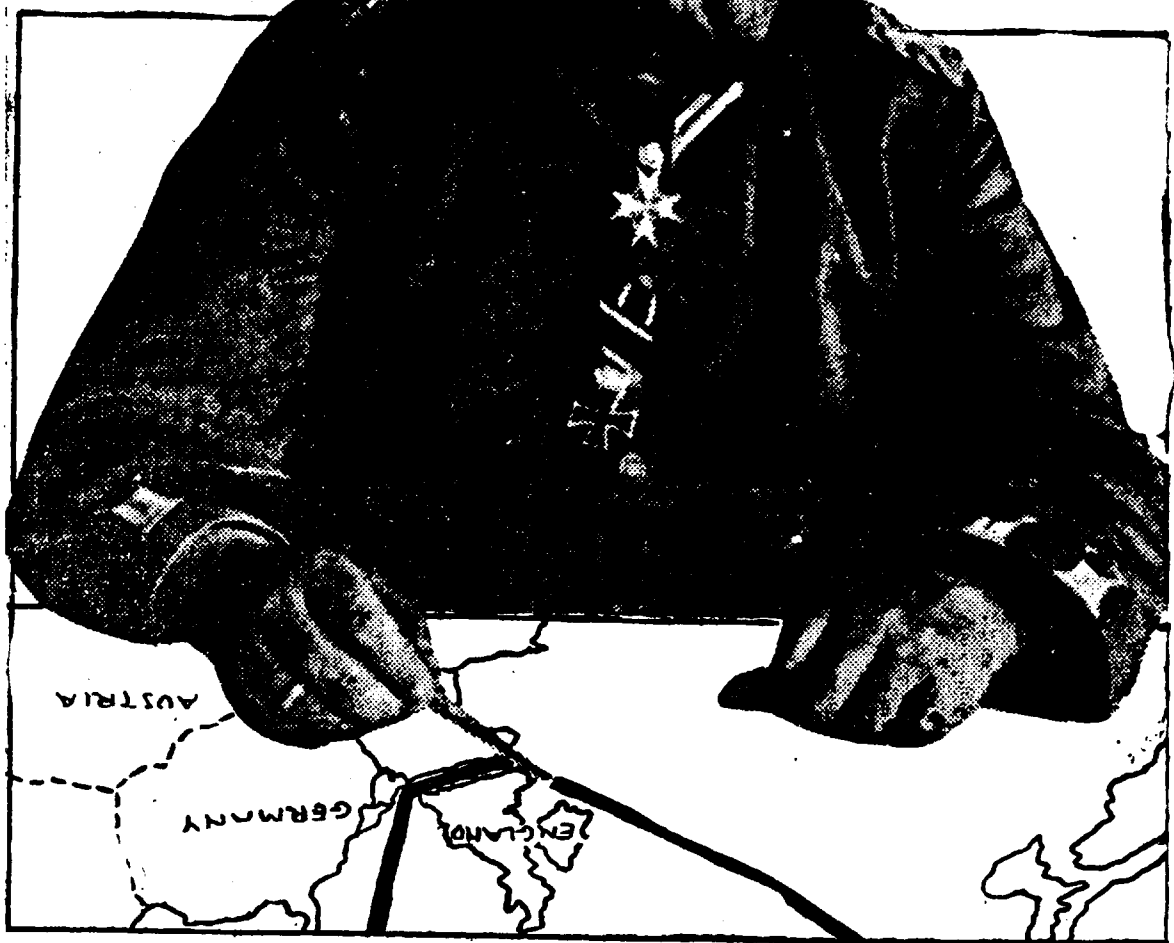

The regular meeting of the Willing Workers Aid society will be held at the home of Mrs. Ed Davis, 923 Liberty street, Tuesday afternoon.

THE MAN BEHIND THE NEW GERMAN BLOCKADE.

Gen. von Hindenburg is commander-in-chief of the German army, but it is said he is the man who conceived the idea of Germany's new campaign of submarine warfare.

This new campaign is regarded even more ruthless than any ever planned by von Tirpitz when he was head of the navy. Von Tirpitz was retired because, it is said, he favored "continuance of U-boat warfare after Germany had made promises to the United States."

Admiral von Capelle is the new head of the German navy, but it is reported von Hindenburg went beyond him in putting through the new campaign.

FIFTY-THREE OUT FOR CITY OFFICE

Will Be Sixty Candidates Listed by Saturday Night.

Fifty-three had declared themselves as candidates for city office, before Saturday noon. One-fifth of that number will try for city judge. Misunderstanding about the filing plan of J. B. Mills had caused his name to be omitted from the list until late Saturday. Mills had declared himself as a nonpartisan, in asking for place as councilman from the Sixth ward. Requirements are that a man be either republican or democrat.

Mills meant for his name to appear upon the republican slips although he is not a partisan man, he said. City Attorney Colerick assisted in adjusting the matter and Mills will appear as a republican candidate.

Gossip had been rife to effect that William Baede wanted to be mayor. It was pretty well understood on Saturday morning that he would file his name. Complications arising later in the day are thought to have brought bearing upon him, so that he declared at noon that he would not talk on the subject. Office of the city clerk will remain open until seven o'clock Saturday night in order to allow citizens extra time in which to file their names. No filing will be allowed on Monday, the commission ordered.

List of candidates as filed with the county clerk, up until noon, Saturday, are:

For Mayor.
Democrat—Calvin Brown, William J. O'Rourke, Maurice Niezer.
Republican—W. S. Cutshall, George H. Loesch, William LaTourette.

For City Clerk.

INSPECTING SCALES.

City Sealer Is Making Round of Groceries and Meat Markets.

City Sealer Barry Tolan is in the midst of his semi-annual campaign of testing scales in all grocery stores and meat markets. With his round of the business houses about one-third completed, he has found no defective scales.

Tolan has experienced little trouble with grocers and meat dealers for several years, he says. All business houses of that nature vie with each other in an effort to install the latest types and most reliable scales. Tolan claims. He anticipates no trouble from finding poorly equipped scales.

"The business men do not want their scales to be out of order," Tolan says. "They realize that perfect scales are part of a good business policy. They know that short weight, like a lie, will lose out in the long run."

COMPLETING PLANS.

Firemen's Ball on February 8 Will Be Lively Event.

The "light fantastic" will be aided by the pastime of progressive pedro in making the firemen's ball, to be held at the Moose hall on Feb. 8, a feast of pleasure. Final plans are being made for decorating the big Moose hall for the first event of its kind in Fort Wayne.

Picture shows are aiding the campaign of ticket sales by announcing, free of charge, the wonders held out for the evening. All profits from the "ball" will be used for fund of the Fort Wayne Fire Department Mutual Benefit association, which has for its purpose the taking care of all injured and sick firemen.

Firemen announce that the "dear public" will receive most than open-armed hospitality and a sense of aiding a good cause by attending the social affair.

Fix Confirmation Date.

Date for hearing of remonstrances on the confirmation of resolutions for paving twelve city streets is set for March 8 by members of the board of works. Resolutions for improving the streets were filed by the board on Thursday night.

Birth Record.

To Mr. and Mrs. Michael Potochi, 1335 Grace street—a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. Elva Crandall, Edsall and Anthony boulevard—a boy.

To Mr. and Mrs. John C. Grossman, South Broadway—a boy.

To Mr. and Mrs. William Hasock, 1903 South Calhoun street—a boy.

Good Skating.

Three days of freezing has restored excellent skating on all the park lakes. Park Superintendent Gotz has supervised cleaning of snow from the ice surface and for past two days there has been the constant merry chatter of hundreds of skaters in the parks.

Diphtheria.

Emma Lubkowski, 25, 2604 Winch street, suffers from an attack of diphtheria, health board has been notified.

Roads Congress.

Fort Wayne officials have been invited and urged to attend the seventh annual assembly of the American Good Roads congress at Boston, which opens next Tuesday and runs through remainder of the week. Mayor Hoesy has been asked to appoint Fort Wayne delegates from among prominent road builders of the city. Speakers of international repute in the realm of road structure will address the gathering.

Every kind of road improvement implementation will be on display.

Graffo Is Ill.

Fred Graffo, telephone clerk at police headquarters, is ill at his home, 1124 Fulton street. Patrolman Amos is substituting as clerk in absence of Graffo.

AMERICAN DIPLOMATS QUIT GERMAN TASKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—American ambassadors, ministers and consular representatives in England, France, Russia, Japan, Rumania, Serbia, Greece, Egypt and Morocco were today instructed by the state department to suspend all activities in relation to the German interests which they have taken over and to await information to be conveyed through some neutral government to whom Germany wishes those interests entrusted. Thus comes to an end the great humanitarian work the United States has been doing in caring for German prisoners in those countries as well as the practical task of handling Germany's diplomatic interests.

ALTERS EAST LIMIT OF BLOCKADE ZONE

Berlin, Feb. 3.—The following official statement was given out here today:

"The eastern limit of the blockaded zone around England has been altered as follows:

"The line now runs from the point, fifty-two degrees thirty minutes north latitude, four degrees east longitude, across to the point fifty-six degrees north latitude, four degrees east longitude, to the point, fifty-six degrees north latitude four degrees fifty minutes east longitude. Otherwise the line remains as already announced."

GRAVE EXCITEMENT IS NOW DEVELOPING

London, Feb. 3.—The Berlin correspondent of the National Tidende, of Copenhagen, as quoted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent there, says:

"Grave excitement is developing among the German people in regard to the attitude of America and that all agree the worst period of the war has begun."

Ten members of the crew of the British steamer Essonite, previously reported sunk, were drowned. Lloyd's shipping agency reported today. The captain and two men of the crew have been landed.

TWO GENERAL CONCLUSIONS.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Two general conclusions emerge from the mass of comment which continues to fill the columns of the newspapers in regard to the submarine question. The first is that upon the attitude of America depends that of the other neutrals. The second conclusion is that the German threat is a mere bluff. Technical writers agree that Germany cannot have more than 180 to 200 submarines available with which, under the new regime, she can hamper still further, but not stop the sea-going trade of the allies.

TAPS ARE SOUNDED FOR CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Everett C. Pierce Passes Away at the Age of Eighty-One.

Everett G. Pierce, a resident of Fort Wayne for nearly sixty years, died at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, 723 East Lewis street, at the advanced age of 81 years and 3 months. He came to this city in 1855 and later went to Wolf Lake, where he taught school for two winters. From there he went to Albion. During the war he served as lieutenant in company F, Thirtieth Indiana volunteer infantry. After the war he went to Massachusetts, where he learned the machinist's trade. He returned to this city and took employment with the Murray Machine company. In 1871 he was employed by the Pennsylvania company, where he remained until eleven years ago, when he was pensioned. He was married in 1885 to Miss Sarah Campbell, who survives him, as do three children: Mrs. Frank Girard, of Spokane, Wash., and Charles and Dr. H. W. Pierce, of this city.

DORIOT.

Mrs. Louisa Doriot, wife of Julius Doriot, of 520 Masterson avenue, died at 3:45 o'clock Saturday morning at the family home following an illness of one week due to complication of diseases. Mrs. Doriot was seventy-three years of age last Fourth of July. The deceased was born in Dolphin county, Pa., but had resided in Fort Wayne for over fifty years. She was a good Christian mother and devoted to her home. She was an ardent worker in the W. C. T. U. Mr. and Mrs. Doriot celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last fall. Besides the husband, she is survived by four children—Harry W., of Seattle, Wash., and Frank S., of this city, and Mrs. W. C. Meyer, of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. E. D. Scheinmann, of Denver, Col. There are also five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mrs. Scholman was at the bedside of her mother when she passed away.

The body was removed to the home of a son at 415 St. Martin's street.

GOODELL.

Mrs. Jennie Goodell, wife of Frank Goodell, died Friday afternoon at the family residence, 1508 Hurd street, following an illness of one week, due to pneumonia. She was 42 years of age. She is survived by the husband and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. E. J. Kiefer, Springfield, Ohio; Mrs. John Vogt, of Toledo, Ohio; Miss Catherine Cannon, of Fort Wayne, and Joseph Cannon, of Elkhart.

Private funeral services Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence, Rev. Bair officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

JAMES B. WELLS DIES.

Father of W. S. Wells Passes Away at His Home in Harrisburg, Pa.
James B. Wells, father of W. S. Wells, of Park avenue, of this city, passed away at his home in Harrisburg, Pa., at the advanced age of 84 years. He was well known in this city, having visited here many times. The deceased was the original road foreman of engines of the Pennsylvania company. He was pensioned eighteen years ago. W. S. Wells left for Harrisburg Saturday afternoon to attend the funeral, which will be held Wednesday afternoon.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Byerly.—Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Byerly will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, standard time, at the residence in Lake township, and at 10:30 o'clock at the St. John Lutheran church in Ellettsville, Ind. Interment at the Ellettsville cemetery.

Lipes.—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Janes Lipes will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the residence, 634 East Washington street, Rev. C. H. Snashall officiating. Interment at Lindenwood cemetery.

O'Rourke.—Funeral services for Bridget O'Rourke will be held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the residence, 2210 South Hanna street, and at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Remains will be shipped to Crestline for burial.

THE COURTS.

Suit for Support.
Nellie M. Wilcoxin has filed suit against Harry Wilcoxin to collect $360 as support money. The couple was married Nov. 9, 1908. The plaintiff charges he treated her cruelly, striking, cursing and calling her vile names. It is charged he has failed to support his wife for five years. He abandoned her Jan. 22, 1917. It is alleged, P. B. Colerick is attorney for the plaintiff.

Notes of Court.
Notice has been filed with the secretary of state that the Mulholland Realty company of Fort Wayne has increased its common stock $100,000 and its preferred stock $100,000.

A. W. Grosvenor, county surveyor, has gone to Cleveland to consult with a government engineer regarding whether the St. Joseph river is navigable. This is preliminary to the letting of the contract for the construction of the new State street bridge, contract for which is to be let on February 8.

The Fort Wayne Outfitter's company has filed suit against Sarah Reiding and Emil Serex to collect $794.25 in arrears.

Mrs. Myra Boyington Grupe left Saturday for Chicago and South Bend in the interest of the Williamsburg mission to the Jews.

KEEP OFF SHIPS IS WOOD'S ADVICE

Lafayette Man Tells How Americans Can Show Patriotism.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Representative William E. Wood, of Indiana, author of the "leak" investigation, made the following statement in regard to the German submarine issue:

"I feel it is a very serious proposition. I think that now is the time, never there was such a time, when each individual American should show his patriotism by his personal conduct, by permitting no act of his to be even the technical means of involving the country in war. Americans may have the technical right to go upon the armed merchantmen of belligerents, but in this time, if they do, they will show by their action that their spirit of defiance is greater than their feeling of patriotism. The United States, in my opinion, should be very slow in going to war over the conduct of such Americans."

Senator Kern said he regarded the situation as grave, but that the matter is in the hands of the president, and he believed members of congress should allow him to handle it without suggestions that might prove embarrassing.

Representative William E. Cox, of Indiana, said: "I am with the president and I intend to give him such support as I can. I hope for the best and hope there will be no war."

PREPARE TO SAIL FROM PHILADELPHIA

Shipping Men Are Loading Their Craft There as Usual.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 3.—Despite the state department's advice that vessels flying the American flag and destined to foreign ports should postpone their departure, shipping men here today said that Germany's action in declaring for unrestricted submarine warfare had not caused them to change their plans in the least. Loading of steamers is proceeding as usual, they said, and as fast as the ships are ready they will sail.

Half a dozen boats with capacity cargoes obtained clearance papers yesterday and some of them were expected to leave today. Among the number is the American tanker, Goldshell, with gasoline for Bordeaux and Rouen. Two torpedo boat destroyers were today patrolling the lower Delaware river to enforce neutrality regulations. One of them was stationed at the breakwater and the other below Wilmington. Their commanders had instructions to examine the papers of every outward bound vessel, and to detain any that could not show proper clearance credentials.

Although officials at the Philadelphia navy yard refused to discuss the matter, indications were that the warships of the Atlantic reserve fleet were being made ready for duty. Great quantities of supplies have been placed in the holds of the battleships and mechanics were busy overhauling the machinery. The guard of marines at the yard has been increased and no one is allowed aboard the ships without special permission.

LOGICAL OUTCOME OF TIMIDITY OF NEUTRALS

Brazilian Newspaper in a Rap at Wilson and Own President.

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 3.—The German declaration of unrestricted warfare, was the logical outcome of the timidity of neutral nations in the opinion of A. Noite. The paper says: "Nobody will deny the act of Germany is perfectly legal in the face of the attitude of the United States, the strongest neutral nation, with regard to the preceding events. The German defiance is the logical consequence of the timidity shown by neutral nations."

The paper asserts that the German submarine campaign menaces neutral shipping, especially which it says will be unprotected while the allies will effectively shield their merchant ships. It concludes: "President Wilson must abandon his equivocal position. Brazil cannot persist in her feeble and humiliating attitude. The nation demands that President Wenceslau Braz protest against the action of Germany."

NOTED RIVER MAN DEAD.

Capt. Frederick Kimple Also Prominent in Racing Circles.

Moundsville, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Captain Frederick Kimple, prominent river man and widely known in racing circles, is dead at his home here at the age of 64 years. Captain Kimple formerly owned a number of Ohio river packets.

TWO MORE TORPEDOED.

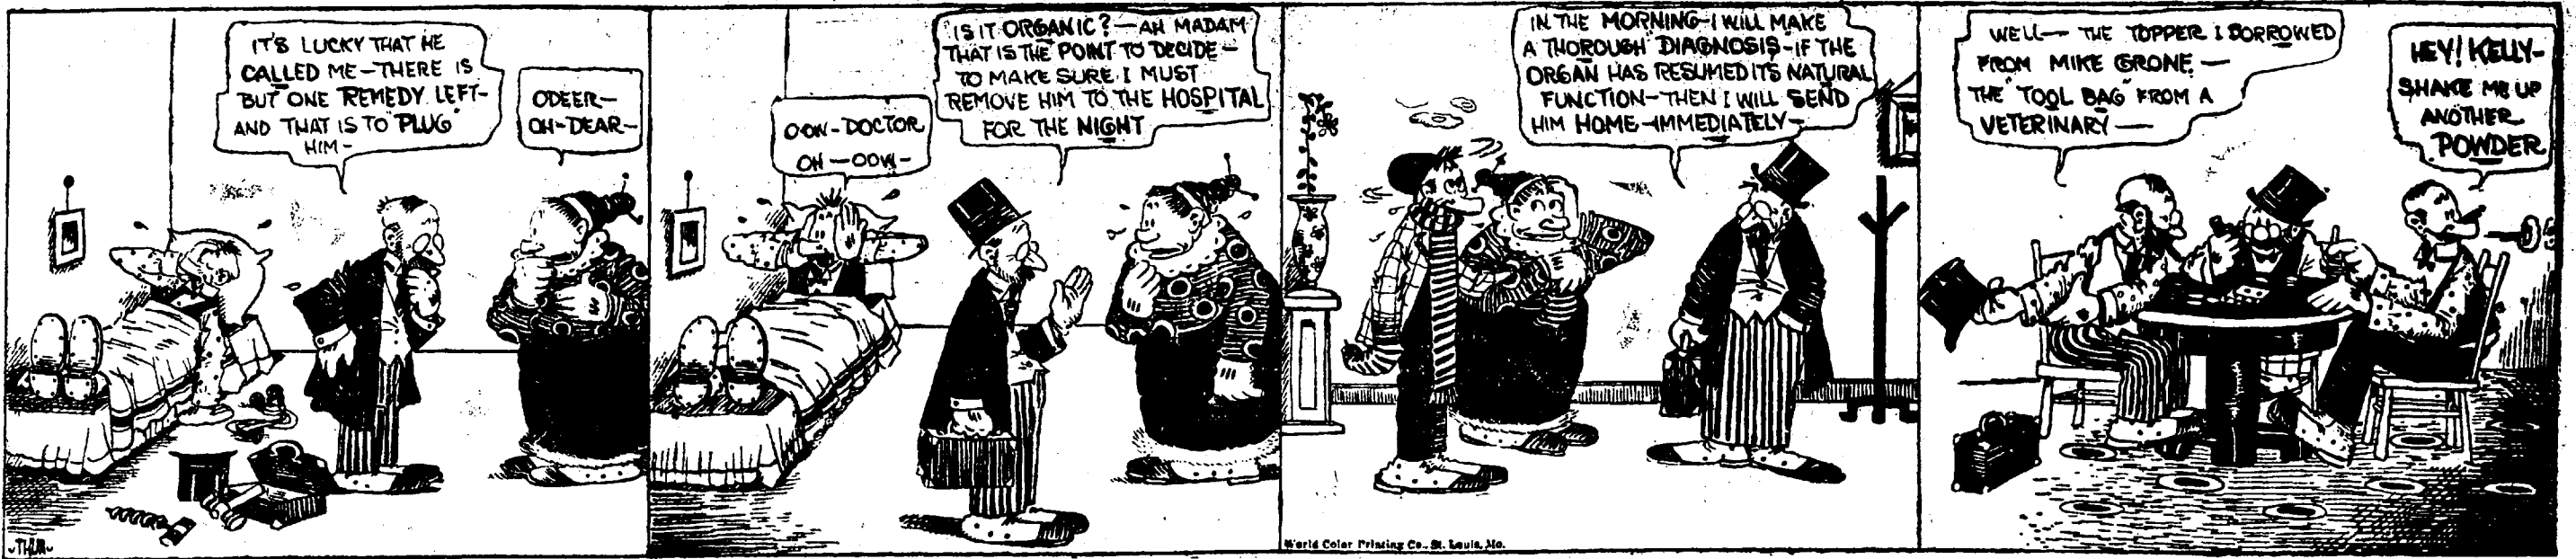

Madrid, Feb. 3.—(Via London)—The Spanish steamship Butron and the Greek ship Eleon have been torpedoed and sunk by the German submarine. Two Spanish were drowned in the sinking of the Butron. The rest of the crews of both vessels were rescued.

In a game which was a marvel of speed and clean playing the Defiance and Concordia varsities met last night at the Concordia gym with the local students winning by a count of 39 to 21. Although the Concordians were more successful in their basket shooting, their team play and floor work was no better than that of the visiting students, and as a result the game was always interesting. These two schools have been rivals on the basketball court for several years, but in the last four or five years Concordia has been taking the games consistently. The Concordians, through Schiff, started the counting and never lost the lead. Defiance had all sorts of trouble trying to find the cages during the first half and the score at the end of this period was 21 to 6. It was not until near the end of the last period that the visitors found themselves in regard to shooting the goals and then they went like well-lubricated lightning. At this time they drew up within five points of the Concordians. The locals started to pull away, however, and were soon out of danger again.

Heine and Henrichs were in the line-up in place of Wacker and Metzford last night and both played mighty good basketball. Schiff proved to be the individual star of the game, shooting baskets from all sorts of difficult angles.

In the preliminary the College Seconds staged a walkaway by a score of 30 to 13, winning from the Arrows. Schuessler started for the Seconds. Although the Arrows worked hard they were outclassed in every department. The line-ups and scores:

Concordia (30). Arrows (13).

TENNIS ASSOCIATION
WILL DISCUSS RULING

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Objections of the middle west to recent changes suggested in the by-laws of the United States National Lawn Tennis association will be discussed and perhaps acted upon at the annual meeting of the Western Lawn Tennis association to be held here Monday, February 5. The meeting was called for yesterday, but inability of a quorum of members caused postponement. One subject of particular interest is the suggestion of the national association that the amateur rule be made more stringent following the lead of the governing body of golf in disbaring from amateur competition any one who capitalizes his athletic prowess in any way.

Expressions of individual members of the western association have indicated that President L. Harry Wagner, who will represent the association at the national meeting in New York, February 9, will be instructed to oppose the strict ruling. Indorsed by the national executive committee and to favor a compromise suggestion. Western players have indicated approval of the suggestion advanced by R. Norris Williams II, national champion, that only those players who hereafter enter the sporting goods business on the strength of their tennis reputations be designated professionals. Officers of the western association will be elected Monday.

WANT TO MEET F. W. H. S.

The manager of the Central Catholic high varsity would like to arrange for a game or series of games with the Fort Wayne high varsity. He asks the manager of the latter outfit to communicate through the sport section of The Sentinel.

JACK MONROE'S FAMOUS RIGHT WILL NEVER WORK AGAIN—WAR GOT HIM.

KNOCKED DOWN JIM JEFFRIES

BY PAUL PURMAN.

Jack Monroe, whose name will go down in pugilistic history as the only man who ever knocked Jim Jeffries off his feet when Jeff was in his prime will never bounce his right first off another jawbone.

Jack has just returned from Europe, where as a member of the famous Princess Pat regiment, he received wounds in his shoulder which paralyzed his right arm. Monroe joined the crack Canadian regiment a few days after war was declared and was the first Canadian soldier to set foot in France, leaping from the boat before it reached the landing and swimming to shore.

While his regiment was rapidly decimated in early engagements in Flanders, Monroe escaped serious wounds. But last fall a piece of shrapnel buried itself in his shoulder, permanently disabling him. After his convalescence Monroe started from England but was delayed between boats in Liverpool, when his collie, "Bobbie Burns," mascot of the Princess Pats, became separated from him on the docks. Monroe hunted for the dog for two days and took the next boat.

Monroe's career in the ring was meteoric. He first achieved fame in December, 1902, when he met Jeffries in a four round bout at Butte, Mont. Jeff was meeting all comers in four round bouts, and paying a forfeit in case he did not knock them out.

Jeff had been so successful that he became careless and when he met Monroe he left an opening which the Pennsylvania giant was not slow to take advantage of. In the fourth round he caught Jeff on the point of the jaw and knocked him to the floor. Almost two years later Jeff had his revenge by knocking out Monroe in two rounds in San Francisco.

Monroe retired from the ring in 1905 and went to Elk City, Ont., where he was elected mayor, a position he held until shortly before he went to the front.

BIG FIRST HALF WINS
GAME FOR FORT WAYNEHigh Students Tie Count
in Close Game.

Because the first half of the game between the Berne and Fort Wayne high schools last night ended with the score 23 to 14 with the local students high, Fort Wayne was able to hold for a win. The final score was 30 to 28 and the game did not end too soon for the Swiss students were playing like a house afire and had fine chances of evening the count and taking the lead. The Fort Wayne students put up a fine game, however, in spite of the new players and changes in positions which have been found necessary lately.

Lindemuth, who Thursday night was elected permanent captain to succeed Kendrick, whose connection with the team was severed several weeks ago, was taken off the guard position and placed at forward, where he played a surprisingly good game. His work consisted mainly in working the floor and shooting the ball to Randall, who caged the pill with a regularity that was good to see. Randall was high scorer of the game, making sixteen points. Moellering and Shoup held down the guard jobs, the former playing the floor and incidentally getting four field baskets. Berghoff helped swell the count by four points and played an exceptionally good game otherwise.

Coach Wright feels now that he has the sort of a team on which he can depend and that the playing will improve right along. None of the players are "stars" and they are all willing to work together, and according to the coach the team will undoubtedly be better off than it has at any time this season. Morris was sent in for Shoup in the second half.

For the visitors, Lehman was high scorer and individual star. Their poor start in the first half can no doubt be handed to the difference in the playing courts here and there. The line-ups and scores:

Berne	Fort Wayne
Lehman	Lindemuth
Hersch	Randall
Habegger	Berghoff
Baumgartner	Moellering
Sprunger	Shoup
Substitutions—Fort Wayne, Morris for Shoup.

Field goals—Lehman, 5; Herschy, Habegger, 4; Sprunger, 3; Randall, 7; Moellering, 4; Berghoff, 2; Lindemuth, 2.
Field goals—Hersch, 2; Randall, 2.
Referee—Harrold, Indiana.

DROP GAME TO LEO

In a game which was close from the start to the finish, Central Catholic high lost its game to Leo high at Library hall last night by a score of 28 to 23. The Central varsity has had a hard schedule this season and has come through everything with high count and the defeat comes as sort of a swat on the back.

A novel entertainment was provided for the spectators between halves when two teams, the Reds and the Blues, met in a five man shuttle race. The Reds won.

A preliminary was played between the Central Cubs and the D. L. I. K's, with the Cubs winning by a score of 12 to 8.

The line-ups in the varsity game were as follows:

Field goals—Kinder, 3; Gordon, 7;
Kirkland, Schlatter, 3; Costello, 3;
Amstutz, 3.

Free throws—Kirkland.

PRACTICE ONCE MORE.

St. Mary's Will Have Final Drill Before Game With Paints.

The St. Mary's Athletics held their final practice before the game with the Buckeye Paints today under their coach, George Tholen. The Saints attach a great deal of importance to this game and have been working hard in anticipation of winning from the Toledo outfit when they meet at St. Paul's tomorrow afternoon.

The Michigan Aggies, Chicago university, Oswego and Buffalo Germans are among the quintets which have gone down before the Paints and a win here all these have lost would be a big boost for the locals. Anyway they are going to try hard for it.

Charley Weegman is going to send a valet to take care of the Cub on their training trip. Too bad Heine Zim has left the club.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

Many State Legislatures Training Heaviest Guns on Liquor Traffic

Twenty-three states, whose legislatures are in session, have passed, or are practically certain to pass, laws advocated by the enemies of the liquor traffic.

Wyoming has, by unanimous action of the legislature, submitted prohibition to a vote of the people. The election will be in 1918 and the law will go into effect January 1, 1920, if approved. It is asserted that a prohibition statute would pass the Wyoming legislature by a good majority.

The Tennessee legislature has enacted four laws which, according to the Nashville Tennessean, "give complete and final victory to the prohibitionists." One law prohibits the so-called "locker system," one prohibits the receiving of orders for liquor to be shipped in; another closes the wholesale liquor houses which have been permitted to distribute liquor to other states; the nuisance law is perfected and bootlegging is made a felony on second offense. A "bone dry" law prohibiting the importation of liquor for any beverage purpose has passed first reading in both houses and will almost certainly become law.

The Iowa legislature is proceeding to the submission of a prohibition amendment to reinforce its present statutory law and it is very possible that the amendment submitted will be "bone dry."

The governors of Mississippi and Georgia are considering the advisability of calling extra sessions of the legislatures of those states to pass laws prohibiting liquor importation.

Similar measures are under consideration, with strong probability of passage in Colorado, Kansas, North Carolina, South Carolina, Washington, and West Virginia. In the last-named state the shipping in of liquor is already prohibited, but at present it may be brought in. In North Carolina and South Carolina other stringent enforcement measures are having comparatively easy sailing.

The Delaware legislature, which is in session, will probably submit prohibition for the one remaining week; the Illinois legislature is facing a fight for submission of state prohibition; while in Indiana a straight contest for a dry state has just been fought and won. In Minnesota and Missouri state prohibition is under consideration, with the odds in its favor in the former state. In New Mexico the prohibitionists are in absolute control. Oregon is proceeding to the passage of a "bone dry" measure approved by the voters at the last election; South Dakota will pass a very drastic law, with the "bone dry" feature the only thing in doubt. Utah will pass a prohibition law which is exceedingly strong and the Texas legislature is under mandate to submit the question for a vote in July. Even in Wisconsin the prohibitionists are beginning to wax strong and aggressive.

The man in public life who votes for the liquor traffic or who votes against a constructive prohibition measure is tying his future to a dead body.

GEMS OF TRUTH.

Politicians will not regenerate the world.

Heaven would be a failure if Satan had charge of it.

It is a wonderful thing that Jesus has come into history.

I have no right to surrender my freedom unless overpowered.

Christianity comes to make men brave, to make nations mighty.

There can be no grand national life without courageous citizenship.

Lucifer was cast from the skies because he became a corrupt politician.

God endorses government, but he does not always endorse the governors.

The best conditions for business are found in the midst of universal integrity.

Correct principles executed by upright men, is the only safeguard of the nation.

It is evident when we look out on the world that the millennium has not yet come.

The brain power of the world is Christian brain power, in every sphere of activity.

Man should be not only holy, but great while he is holy, and greater because he is holy.

Let the tongue be palsied that would charge the gospel with making men craven-hearted.

There is nothing in learning, to whatever extent it is carried, that puts a check on ambition.

The question, How can this world be reformed? cannot be answered with this Bible closed and clasped.

The divine law, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," is realized in the spirit and life of but few human beings.

If the teachings of the gospel were imbedded in our lives so as completely to dominate all the forces this would be a perfect world.

Take the sun out of the solar system and darkness is no more certain than the moral darkness of the nations with no Christ in human life.

It is a disgrace to our civilization that there should be on our statute books a law licensing any pernicious traffic or demoralizing industry.

The question is never raised whether the Christian powers can triumph over pagan lands, but only which Christian nations shall be the conquerors.

If the rolling away of the stone from the door of the sepulchre did not bring in the dawn of the day of salvation, this world is doomed to perpetual night.—The Late L. R. Fiske, D. D.

ONE OF MOODY'S STORIES.

A Scotch minister went to labor with one of his members who was in the habit of going to sleep during the sermon every Sunday.

"Don't you think," said he, "you had better put a home if you can't keep awake?"

But she said she was brought up to attend church, and she would go.

"Then don't you think you'd better take a little more snuff to keep you awake?"

She replied, "Don't you think you'd better put a little more snuff in your sermons, mon?"—Christian Workers Magazine.

TO THE ENGINEER.

Joseph B. Hingeley.

While we rested and slept, you—watchful and alert, like God Who watches over all—guided us safely along the way and brought us to our journey's end.

May Christ, who journeyed with men along the ways of Galilee, and Who Himself is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, stand watch with you as you speed along the steel highway, and bring you safely at last into Life's Terminal in the City of God.

Winter Colds Are Often Caused by Wrong Sort of Dress

Overdressing is to blame for more colds and other common winter diseases than a lack of warm clothing.

The school child, especially, is apt to be overdressed. If it were to be out of doors from the time it left home until it returned, the usual smothering with clothes would not be so bad. But it goes to school, plays violently and rushes into the school building too late to properly take off its garments. Many children wear rubbers on legs until recess. The child soon shows the effects of uncontrolled body changes by sweating feet, running nose and other hot house symptoms.

The same thing is true of elder people to a lesser extent. Clothes are no longer chosen for their warmth or coolness, but for their appearance. Durability is no longer a virtue. Style comes first. This is another reason why there are so many winter colds.

For this season of the year the body should be covered from neck to ankle with one layer of the same material. This is best accomplished by the union suit. Stockings of similar texture should be worn, and thick soled shoes.

The sole of the foot is one of the most delicate parts of the body. It must be protected against sudden changes in temperature.

One should dress according to the kind of atmosphere in which he works or lives. The weight of the coat or cloak should be governed by outdoor conditions.

Exposure of the upper part of the body, notably the chest or back, is apt to affect the breathing apparatus—first the bronchial tubes and then the lungs.

Exposure of the neck and chest is less dangerous than the exposure of the back, because the lungs do not lie so close to the chest wall as to the back. The circulation through large vessels that lie in the chest also prevents sudden congestion of the lung tissue.

That is why many women can wear low neck dresses with impunity in the coldest of weather. This is also partly made possible by the changes that take place in the skin that is continually exposed to sun, heat and cold.

The hands and face are constantly exposed to the air and it is not often that their exposure lowers a person's vitality.

Contagious diseases are more common in winter than in summer because winter is the season of the year when we live in closest contact with our fellow men.

Beginning with fall, we stay indoors too much. We eat heavily, take little or no exercise, keep windows and doors closed against the light and fresh air, muffle our bodies in heavy clothing and invite disease.

It is true that most diseases are caused by germs, but if the system is kept healthy and vigorous by right living most persons would have sufficient resisting power to overcome the germs. It is, as a rule, when the body has become weakened that it becomes a prey to these germs.

Among the causes that destroy man's power of resistance may be mentioned lack of proper food, exhaustion from overwork, loss of sleep, poverty, overcrowding, dirt, ignorance, impure milk and water, abuse of alcohol, lack of sunshine and fresh air, indoor life with hidden exposure to cold, mechanical injury, constitutional disease or any unhygienic way of living.

As a result of our irrational living our mouths have become the breeding places of dangerous bacteria. Germs of diphtheria, tuberculosis, pneumonia and probably whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever and other ailments have their homes in our mouths and noses.

They are thrown out in the air and spread in the act of sneezing, coughing and spitting.

The unventilated street car is one of the largest factors in the spreading of disease. In these usually at the approach of winter the windows are sealed down so that it is almost impossible to open one. In some cars the only way that foul air can get out or pure air get in is through a small opening at the top.

Dr. H. W. Lancaster, commissioner of health of St. Paul, Minn., declares that ninety per cent of all respiratory diseases are caused by poorly ventilated street cars during the winter months.

Gospel Life in Prophetic Days

Is it a mistake to imagine that the gospel spirit had no existence until the gospel was preached.

What the preaching of the gospel did was to make conspicuous the gospel spirit.

Isaiah was a gospel prophet who lived several centuries before the gospel was preached, and he wrote gospel history as it were before the history had transpired.

Here and there throughout Isaiah's writings gospel light may be seen flashing and the gospel life developing amidst the darkness of the ancient days.

Here is one bright passage: "They helped every man his neighbor, and every man said to his brother, Be ye of good courage."

Here we have pictured the true gospel spirit and language. Every man helping his neighbor, and every one encouraging his brother.

There is no earthly ideal higher than this. To realize it is to illustrate the Christ-life in the most practical way.

In the parable of the good Samaritan the world is taught whom a "neighbor" is.

A neighbor is the next needy person you can succor.

In the four gospels the world is taught whom a "brother" is.

A brother is any man who needs encouragement.

The gospel ideal whether old or new is that of helping a brother and cheering a brother.

The ideal can be realized when "every man" does this.

It costs little to speak a gladdening word, and that word may be worth a world to some fainting heart.

WHY I KEEP WELL.

(By J. M. McCalder.)

In point of importance, next to the soul is the body. The body is the home of the soul. The relation between the two is mysteriously blended. Each needs the other. Each is influenced by the other. The soul is I; the body is mine; it is the home where I live.

One should keep well because it is far more delightful than to be sick. A sick person cannot be happy—no, not even contented. Many grumble and complain, not because there is really anything to find fault with, but simply because they do not feel well. I have letters in my possession that did not come from the heart, as I verily believe, but from overworked nerves. They misrepresent those who sent them.

I also keep well because it gives me more will power, and in doing with young men one needs a little. Many who come to me have never known obedience. When little boys, they grew up to have their own way and to do as they pleased. Kindness, of course, is always in order; but it will not do at all to show weakness of will power, or things will go bad, and from bad to worse.

Again, I try to keep well because I can do so much better work and a great deal more of it; not only so, but it becomes a delight instead of a burden. When well, I can push my work instead of letting it drive me.

I want to keep well because "love life" and want to "see good days." God gives us life that we may enjoy it and be happy. The Creator never intended that we should get seared under the weight of a burden, but that we should "make the world brighter with a smile." In view of such reasons as these, can you wonder that I make some effort to keep well? Rather, the wonder is that every one does not give more attention to the care of the body, God's temple.

The Real Life Beyond.

A thousand times—yes, every perilous moment—God saves us from dying. There is a moment on the way for every one of us when that preservation will be possible no longer.

We shall pray, our friends will pray for us: "Again, O Father, spare him; let him live." And then the answer which is looked for will not come and he who has been so often saved from dying, at last will die.

Will it be a sign of God's forgetfulness? If so, then God has forgotten all his children, and let them, every one, either in childhood or as lifeless veterans, slip through his careless hands; for they all have died or will die.

Eut ne: If, as we know is true, the real life lies beyond, and can be reached only through death, then the old miracles are nothing to this new one.—Phillips Brooks.

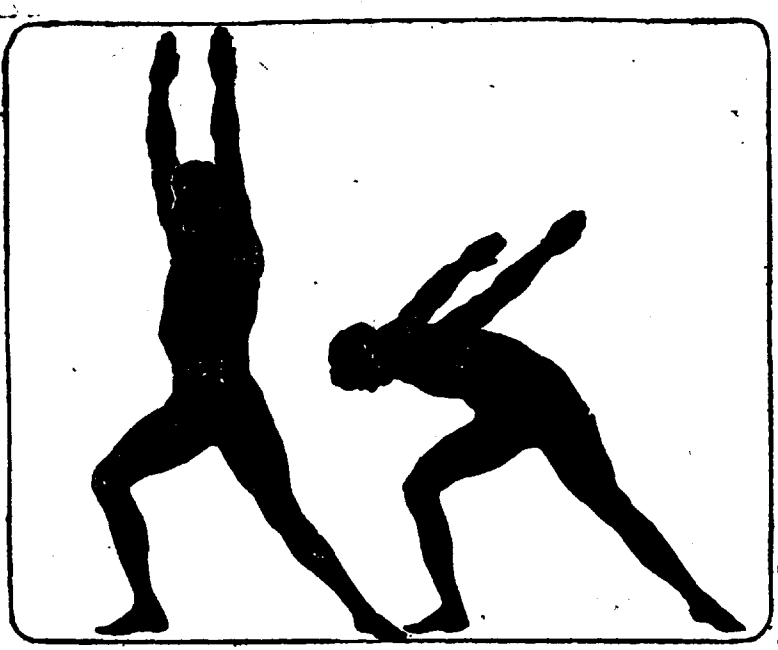

WHAT WE SHOULD SEEK.

We should seek to make our lives straight, and true, and healthful, and beautiful, because that is what they were meant to be; just as a tree grows upright, and broad, and leafy, because it is the natural thing for it to do. Think how deep it must send its roots to draw nourishment for all that verdure—wide and free its arms are spread to catch the health-giving air, and sun, and rain! This is what you should be—always ready to draw good from whatever of the good and beautiful is around, above, beneath you.—Helen B. Postwick.

A THING FOR USE.

Religion is for every day. Its blessings and benefits, its comforts and sweet consolations, its guidance and its inspiration are for the commonplace men and women. It is something to take with one, something that will never be out of place anywhere, something that will add to life's joy its best touch of sweetness, and will mix with all life's sorrows, hope and courage and power. A man who has every-day religion in good, wholesome quantity can easily afford to be without a good many other things.—Christian Guardian.

Uncle Sam Tells How You May Become Strong

Army officers pick the following exercise as a model for straightening the back and strengthening the abdominal muscles:

HOLINESS IN JOY.

Holiness is the abolition of sin, and the enthronement of God. It is harmony, it is health, it is union, it is victory, it is joy unspeakable and full of glory.

It is the work of the Holy Ghost, begun in pardon and adoption, made complete through body, and soul, and spirit in the maturity and fruitfulness of an obedient heart and consecrated life.

The power of holiness is the eternal God. The way of holiness is straight and leads to the cross. The testimony of holiness convicts the sinner. The fruit of holiness is love. The test of holiness is hard work and real sacrifice because they do not feel well. I have letters in my possession that did not come from the heart, as I verily believe, but from overworked nerves. They misrepresent those who sent them.

I also keep well because it gives me more will power, and in doing with young men one needs a little. Many who come to me have never known obedience. When little boys, they grew up to have their own way and to do as they pleased. Kindness, of course, is always in order; but it will not do at all to show weakness of will power, or things will go bad, and from bad to worse.

Again, I try to keep well because I can do so much better work and a great deal more of it; not only so, but it becomes a delight instead of a burden. When well, I can push my work instead of letting it drive me.

THIS IS MY FRIEND

Let me tell you how I made His acquaintance.

I had heard much of Him, but took no heed.

He sent daily gifts and presents, but I never thanked Him.

He often seemed to visit my friendship, but I remained cold.

I was homeless and wretched and starving and in peril every hour, and He offered me shelter and comfort and food and safety, but I was ungrateful still.

At last He crossed my path, and with tears in His eyes He besought me, saying, "Come and abide with me."

Let me tell you how He treats me now:

He supplies all my wants.

He gives me more than I dare ask.

He anticipates my every need.

He begs me to ask for more.

He never reminds me of my past ingratitude.

He never rebukes me for my past follies.

Let me tell you further what I think of Him.

He is as good as He is great.

His love is as ardent as it is true.

He is as lavish of his promises as He is faithful in keeping them.

He is as jealous of my love as He is deserving of it.

I am in all things His debtor, but He bids me call Him friend.—From an Old English Manuscript.

BIGNESS OF LITTLE THINGS.

It is said that the fuchsia was first introduced into England by a sailor boy, who brought a single plant from some foreign country as a present for his mother. She put it in her modest window, and it became an attraction to all who passed by. From that little plant came all the fuchsias in England. The boy did not know when in loving thought for his mother, he carried home the little plant, what a beautiful thing he was doing, what a ministry of good he was starting, how widely the influence of his simple thought of love would reach. We never know when we do any smallest thing in love for Christ, what the end of it will be, what a harvest of good will come from it.—Westminster Teacher.

THE FAMILY ALTAR.

What has become of the family altar? Have its fires died out? If so, what has taken its place? Recently read a sermon by Rev. C. M. Sheldon, of Topeka, Kan., in which he says: "Within the last five years I have met thousands of ministers of different denominations, and almost without exception they deplore the fact that the old habit of family worship has gone out of nearly all the homes in their parishes." It was the custom once; now I seldom enter a home where it is kept. What is to be expected of children reared in homes where there is no altar and where they never hear father and mother pray?—Miss S. E. Lytle.

WHITHER BOUND?

All mankind should pause long enough at this signboard to settle this one question: There are two countries which lie out before us, and we are rapidly approaching one or the other of these climates. Fellow reader, to which climate are you now journeying?

One of these roads leads to a country that at all desirable. The road may be lined with flowers and the gaieties of life, but the destination is terrible to think of. The Bible calls it hell, lake of fire, eternal punishment, eternal death.

The other leads to a desirable country, and the road is plain, and difficult to walk in. It's a way of sacrifice and no idlers are given much right of way, and it's very difficult for him. Much enjoyment on this way for a busy traveler. The destination is delightful to all who journey here. The good book calls this country heaven, paradise, a climate of ultimate bliss and glory.

First, if you are on this way, then see that you are his, press to the mark for the prize, and run with patience the race set before you, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of your faith. Go on and blaze abroad as you journey, that others may be attracted to him you love. You that know yourself to be on the road to hell, and if you are an unbeliever, you know you are in this road. Stop, poor dying man, and consider before journeying another day or hour, and call on him who gave himself for you. Never be content till you meet the Lord in the free pardon of all sin, and you have the witness within testifying that you are an heir of God and joint heir with Christ Jesus, your elder brother.

BRAVING A SUPERSTITION.

The Christian work at a station in Africa had been languishing for some four years, no one knew why. At last the dealers of the mission sent there Isaiah Mupewa, a student of the mission training school. In two months he had done more for the station than all the workers who had preceded him. An old witch-doctor, who had gone away from that region had left in a cave nearby two "mogana," as the natives called them, and warned the people that if they took on some new religion, these mogana would do them great harm. Pestilence would break out in the village. Overcome with terror, the men called a council and then any one who should go into the cave to investigate these things. They knew that one was the horn of a bull containing a liquid made from a hundred horrible things. The other was an image of a man, divided across the chest so that the top could be taken off.

The student-pastor was but six years removed from belief in such superstitions himself. But he called the church together and announced, "I shall go to the cave and bring out the 'mogana' to prove that they have no power."

People begged him not to go; his wife hung on him and implored him to stay away. Nevertheless he went. The villagers followed at a distance, breathless. They saw him enter the cave and come out with something in his arms. Overcome with terror, the crowd broke and ran.

Isaiah took the "mogana" to his house and the people watched daily for the plague or some dire calamity. But Isaiah and his family continued in perfect health. After three weeks the men called a council and then came to Isaiah and said: "We have been talking it over, and now believe that the witch-doctor is an old liar. We desire to take your God for our God. What must we do?" "Give up your beer pots and the rest of the old life," replied Isaiah. They brought their charms and tobacco. "We will give these up also," they said. Since that day there has been nothing to impede the work at Nyasanza.—The World Outlook.

THREE KINDS OF PEOPLE.

There are three kinds of people in the world, the wills, the wots and the cant's. The first accomplish everything; the second oppose everything; the third fail in everything.—Electric magazine.

HENS AND MISSIONS.

Two dozen hens, lent on business, will scratch up more mission money in a year, than many churches with fifty to one hundred members. And hens are not Christians, either. Christians ought to do as well as hens.—J. B. Gambrell, D. D., in Baptist Standard.

Church is More Attractive to Some Than Even the Movies

(By Rev. Charles Stehlik.)

Perhaps you too have said that when they make the church as attractive as the movies or a base ball game, then you'll go to church.

Well, the chances are you'll never go to church—assuming that you mean the church must be attractive in the same way that the movies and base ball are.

Did you ever stop to think that there are literally millions of people who go to church, but who never go to a movie show or a base ball game? And most of them like fun and life as much as you do.

But sometimes they look to the church for every phase of their social life. These people must have found something in the church which has taken the place of movies and base ball.

What do you suppose it is?

Well, in the first place, they have discovered that the biggest thing in life is not GETTING, but GIVING.

They have come to realize that Jesus was right when he said: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

You may josh about this as much as you choose, but it's true, and these people have seen it. And the giving here referred to means not merely money, but, principally, personal service for others.

Then they have discovered that life is not all fun. If you insist that you will never patronize an institution that is above the level of the movies and base ball—why, the movies and base ball for you—that's all. And this is said with a full appreciation of the real value of both; for they are mighty wholesome in many ways.

But once in a while there's a longing in every man's soul for something more substantial than movies and base ball—something that will satisfy one's heart-hunger. These people have apparently found it in the church.

Furthermore, going to church gives one a broader outlook on life, bringing one into touch with world movements, so that the narrowness which is the curse of most men is largely overcome.

Making the church as attractive as the movies and base ball would not be very hard to do, if that's all the church wanted. But the church is after bigger business—and it's getting the biggest men and women in the country interested in its program.

This is worth considering when you think about the difference between the church and the movies.

THE SEARCH FOR VIRTUES

Do you ever meditate on the good points and fine qualities of those about you and with whom your fortunes are cast?

The occupation is productive of much quiet happiness to yourself as well as of good to those on whom your attention is exercised.

For nothing rejoices the mind like the contemplation of virtue, and you are not indifferent to one who has afforded you that pleasure. Moreover, to contemplate the good gifts and faculties of another, you must first have the desire to seek and the willingness to appreciate them. The great heroes of these and other times furnish ready examples of virtue, which leave nothing for you to do but join in the general acclamation of wonder and approval. Such a one is brave, steadfast or skillful—you would travel some distance to see him. Another is wise—you would hear him speak. This is second-hand contemplation of virtue, but it is thrilling at that. You accord hero worship to a soldier, a politician, a philosopher, whose performances on the battlefield or the world of letters have brought him into world renown, and the very fact that he is known to have done so, makes him a hero in your eyes. If you can appreciate your applause, you can so readily admire virtue in those whom you have never seen, how much more profitable to seek and recognize it near at hand! You would then have all the advantage which a knowledge of the trials and obstacles overcomes and the healing or immediate circumstances could command.

One is of cheerful disposition against the odds of poverty and illness; another courageously persistent in the face of constant failure, another is generous, another helpful, another studious, prompt, even tempered, just, faithful or lacking in any one process of picking out, discriminating and comparing the virtues of one with another, you will unconsciously disregard faults or balance them with virtues and find ly excuse them altogether. When you knew a man to be helpful, considerate and kind, how can you demand that he be wise? Or if he is wise, how readily you absolve him from petty faults! Your judgment has become more sound and balanced; in fact, so merged with appreciation that it has almost ceased to be judgment at all.

The direct benefit of this daily practice is your altered manner toward those under your consideration. For you can not contemplate a man's virtues separately and distinctly, acknowledging them to yourself, without an increase of respect for him. You must treat such a one according to his deserts. To a kind man you will return kindness, to a just man justice and be as generous as you can toward that one in whom you have remarked particular generosity and kindness. You will be to be something of that new admiration you have for his special virtue, and he will not long be unconscious of your appreciation.

The practice of looking for virtue becomes scientific when you are capable of finding it. In persons you have hitherto regarded as possessing only faults. Look for a man who appears arrogant. Perhaps he is easy to find. What do you know of him? Are you entirely acquainted with his life, his habits, his struggles, his ambitions and therefore competent to judge him correctly? If not, be cautious in dealing with him. You may have the golden opportunity, which this practice affords, of overcoming a prejudice here.

Search until you find at least one solitary virtue. When you have found it at last and its possessor has become aware of your discovery, see if that former arrogance does not dwindle away. It is possible that his pride was only an attempt to conceal the consciousness of being misunderstood. The search after virtues, among your acquaintances, will be full of delightful surprises, for even as you look they will spring up faster than you can count them.

THE HOME.

By J. W. Hodgepeth.

The home is the builder or destroyer of nations.

The home is largely responsible for the making or unmaking of men.

Parenthood is imposed with a responsibility measured by life and multiplied by eternity.

The standards of home life today will be the basis of the standards of the people the next generation. The moral and religious principles inculcated in the children by example and precept today will largely be lived out, though no doubt ruined by the men and women of the next generation. The home today will furnish men for the ministry, for the professions and for the vocations of life. It will take up the work of the men of today when they are forced to retire. The home will furnish women who will lead society, who will preside over the home and who will be forced to accept the responsibility of motherhood. We, of this day, owe it to humanity to prepare the boys and girls for the new duties which will be imposed upon them in due time. We owe it to the children to instill within them the highest thoughts and erect for them the highest ideals.

The home is the place a child gets his first primary lessons in life. It is where the framework of character is built and where he is taught that after that he must complete a well-rounded life. It is where the seeds of morality and religion are planted and nurtured in the hearts of the adolescent, or where these virtues are choked out by inattention. It is where the child gets impressions for good or bad that may seal his destiny.

Parents, for the love of the dear ones entrusted to your care by the goodness of God, for the love of humanity in general, for the sake of posterity, wake up to your duty!

Give them an education, for that is necessary to mental development; give them wholesome food, plenty of fresh air and exercise, for that is essential to health and physical development; teach them to be temperate in all things, for that is in keeping with the constructive principle of nature; but after you have done all this do not make a blunder that is frequently made, and which is tragical in effect, by omitting from your "Menu of Life Training" the fundamental principle of life, all other virtues being incumbent upon it—spiritual development. Strive to make of your boys and girls such men and women as nearly perfect as possible, morally, physically, mentally, and religiously. See if that doing you will render to the child, to the world and to the Almighty the greatest possible service. The child-life is calling for it; humanity is demanding it, and God will not accept anything short of it.

Parents, are you awake to your duty?

The Possibilities of the Christian

I dare to say that it is possible for those who really are willing to reckon on the power of the Lord for keeping and victory, to lead a life in which his promises are taken as they stand and are found to be true.

It is impossible to cast all our care upon him daily and to enjoy deep peace in doing it.

It is possible to have the thoughts and imaginations of our hearts purified, in the deepest meaning of the word, through faith.

It is possible to see the will of God in everything, and to receive it, not with singing.

It is possible by taking complete refuge in Divine power, to become strong through and through; and where previously our greatest weakness lay, to find that the things which formerly upset all our resolves to be patient or pure or humble, furnish today an opportunity through him who loved us, and works in us an agreement with his will and a blessed sense of his presence and his power—to make sin powerless.

These things are divine possibilities, and because they are his work, the true experience of them will always cause us to bow lower at his feet and to learn to thirst and long for more. We cannot possibly be satisfied with anything less than—each day, each hour, each moment, with Christ, through the power of the Holy Spirit—to walk with God.—H. C. Moule.

In Japan the crater of an extinct volcano in which there are many hot springs is used as a sanatorium.

Nicholas, the Christian name of the czar, means victorious. George means farmer; Albert, illustrious; Peter, a rock; William, a defender, and Francis, free.

DROWNED IN OIL IN TURNTABLE PIT

Hurl Shafer Falls Unconscious With His Face in the Fluid.

Hurl Shafer, 19 years old, was drowned in the turntable pit at Peru Thursday in a most peculiar manner. He operated the turntable and had left it to open a door to the roundhouse to admit an engine. Comrades missing him some moments later, started a search and found his dead body in the turntable pit, with the face submerged in a few inches of oil and water in the drain of the pit. Shafer struck his head against some part of the turntable when he fell, rendering him senseless, and in that condition fell with his face in the water and drowned. An examination revealed the fact that the wound which made him unconscious was not serious in itself and would not have proven fatal. The young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shafer, his father being employed as stationary engineer at the roundhouse. The funeral will be held tomorrow and several Fort Wayne people will attend it. Hurl Shafer was known to all the engineers and firemen on the Peru division of the road and by many other employees of the company and his sad fate was a shock to those who heard it.

HOWARD COLMEY TO C. & N. W.

Howard Colmey, a member of the corps of Division Engineer Guy Scott of the Pennsylvania, has resigned and accepted a position in a similar capacity with the Chicago & Northwestern, with headquarters at Chicago. The young man is a graduate of Purdue university. For several years he was out of railway work at the request of his father, the late C. R. Colmey, and during that period he conducted a store on Calhoun street.

FOR CITY JUDGE

Frank H. Kleekamp, democratic candidate for nomination of city judge at the primary election March 6th, 1917, respectfully solicits our support at the polls.

With a law training at Notre Dame university, and a graduate of the University of Michigan law school, and an active member of the Allen County Bar association for more than twenty years, a householder and taxpayer, Mr. Frank H. Kleekamp feels himself especially fitted to discharge the duties of city judge.—Advertisement.

TO RUN FOR COUNCIL FROM NINTH

Dick Orr, republican candidate for the nomination of councilman of the ninth ward has lived in Fort Wayne all his life and has resided in the ninth ward for the past fifteen years. He has always taken a great interest in the welfare of the ward which he is seeking the opportunity to represent in the city council. Mr. Orr is a young man 32 years of age, is married and has two children and at the present time lives at 1314 Wells street. After attending the public and Fort Wayne high schools, Mr. Orr was employed for six years at the Coverdale & Archer grocery and for the past 10 years has been a bread salesman for the Perfection Biscuit Co.

the Wabash, was advised this morning that all embargoes from one point to the other on the Wabash system and those to eastern points not affected by embargoes of connecting lines had been raised and that the company was now ready to conduct a normal business in the freight traffic line. The cold wave seems to have had no ill effects at Detroit, where the company trains are ferried over the river.

COMPLETED JULY 1. New Pennsylvania Chicago-Louisville Line Nears End.

The Pennsylvania expects to be running trains over its line from Louisville to Chicago by July 1. This is being made possible by the construction of a road from Indianapolis to Frankfort to connect at the latter place with the Vandalia for Logansport. For over forty years Pennsylvania trains have been using the Lake Erie and Western tracks on a part of the line between Logansport and Indianapolis. When the Pennsylvania quits that line the number of trains will be reduced one-half.

HAD THEIR EARS FROZEN.

Elmer Wieske, C. H. Gerke and E. H. Fritz, clerks in the Pennsylvania machine shop office, went there this morning with greatly enlarged and pretty sore ears. Those very important and more or less ornamental appendages were badly frosted last night, when the owners were on their way home from the shop office. Neither of these young men had deemed it necessary to get new and heavier headgear for the winter and had on light summer caps when they had the encounter with Jack Frost. They have secured heavier caps now.

BACK IN HIS OLD PLACE.

R. E. Penfold is again clerk for Foreman Harry Emmerson, of the lathe department of the Pennsylvania shops, after an absence of two months. When the call came for extra firemen on the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania system, Mr. Penfold responded and his place as clerk was taken by C. E. Foster, a high school student. The latter now resigns to return to school and Mr. Penfold takes up his old duties. After he returned from the east he was employed in the toolroom a short time.

ORGANIZING BOOSTER GANG.

The organization of a "booster gang" to back the General Electric basketball team in the contest next Thursday night with the Bowser team, is taking on immense proportions at the big Broadway plant. The General Electric team is ahead in the league games and the friends of the boys want to maintain that position. Of course, the Bowser boys' friends will have a well organized booster gang at the game also.

COLORFUL MAN LOSES FINGER.

While handling some pieces of steel this morning, one of them fell upon the hand of P. L. Jones, in the erecting shop, and crushed the index finger of his right hand so that it was later amputated at the first joint by Dr. Van Sweringen, at the Lutheran hospital. Jones is a colored man and came here a few weeks ago with others of his race to work in the Pennsylvania shops.

PORTER GOES TO LIGHTS.

N. D. Porter has been transferred from another department to office of S. E. Unapher, of the fractional horse power motor production department of the General Electric works. Mr. Porter has been at the Electric works only about a month, going there from the Wabash, where he was division storekeeper for some time. Mr. Porter succeeds D. F. Hines at the office of Mr. Unapher.

ASH IS AGENT AT DOLA.

H. J. Ash is now ticket and freight agent at Dola, Pa. for the Pennsylvania, having resigned the position which he has taken an indefinite leave of absence on account of poor health. Mr. Ash had been agent at Maples and has been succeeded there by L. C. Carey. Before going to Maples Mr. Ash was employed as chief clerk in the freight office at Valparaiso.

SIXTY-EIGHT SIGNED CHARTER.

Sixty-eight have signed for the charter of the Electrical workers, which is expected here soon. It is expected that many more signatures will be secured before the charter is closed. It is estimated that 220 electrical workers attended the mass meeting, at which the charter members were secured.

TURNED OUT FOUR ENGINES.

The output of repaired locomotives from the Pennsylvania erecting shop was slightly better than for the several previous weeks. There were just fourteen of them, one belonging to the G. R. & I. The list being as follows: Nos. 99, 7451, 7229, 7232, 7234, 7630, 9096, 7048, 7301, 9047, 9067, 9357, 9091 and 9249. The No. 99 belongs to the G. R. & I.

RETURN FROM BUSINESS TRIPS.

Electrical Engineer Theodore Titus and Air Brake Instructor H. A. Burson of the Pennsylvania have returned from business trips east. Mr. Titus was at Pittsburgh and Mr. Burson was at Mahoningtown, where the air brake car is located at present.

TAKES UP INSURANCE WORK.

H. C. Eckels, a member of Chief Draftsman W. H. Crighton's force at the General Electric works, has accepted an offer from the Prudential Insurance company. He has resigned his position at the Electric works and Monday morning will take up his new duties.

MOULDER HAS TOE CRUSHED.

F. H. Borcharding, a moulder at the Pennsylvania shops, had his left foot bruised and one of the toes crushed yesterday, when a cross head of an engine fell upon the member. He was sent to his home, on Erie street, after the injured foot had been dressed.

GOES EAST ON BUSINESS.

Tonight H. J. Peters will leave for Schenectady, N. Y., on business for the General Electric company, which will keep him there about a week. Mr. Peters is the general foreman of the tool supply department at the big plant on Broadway.

LOST PART OF A FINGER.

Gerald Burnett is minus the end of the index finger of his left hand as the result of getting it caught between the dies of a punch press he was operating at the General Electric works at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He is off duty as a result of the accident.

FOREMAN BIERBAUM RECOVERS.

William H. Bierbaum, foreman of the meter department of the General Electric works, resumed that duty this morning. He had been ill a week with the grip.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Charles A. Sink, of the Pennsylvania paint shop, is sick and off duty.

T. R. Hunter, a Pennsylvania boiler-makers' helper, is off duty on account of sickness.

E. C. Mennewisch, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, is sick and off duty.

Pennsylvania Blacksmith I. Sorg is off duty on account of the illness of his wife.

Fred Wochner, assistant timekeeper at the Wabash main shop office, is sick and off duty.

H. F. Wass, who had been sick a week, has returned to his duties in the Pennsylvania shops.

N. M. Weidner, a tinner at the Pennsylvania shops, is attending the automobile show in Chicago.

E. P. Galland and J. H. Deck, machinists in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, are sick and off duty.

Oliver Carban, a Wabash car repairman, who was sick a week, was able to resume work this morning.

Chester Spry, late of Masonville, Iowa, has taken a position as electric welder at the Pennsylvania shops.

Crane Operator F. B. Putt, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, was off duty yesterday on account of sickness.

E. E. Richby, of the Pennsylvania shops, went to Van Wert this morning to spend a couple of days with relatives and friends.

Herold Houck will take a position in the stock room of the receiving department of the General Electric works Monday.

Herman Michael, who had a finger injured in the meter department of the General Electric works last Tuesday, reported for duty this morning.

Edward Nast, of the Pennsylvania vice shop, went to Inwood, Ind., yesterday to do some special work for the company.

Machinist J. W. McCoy of the Wabash shops is still unable to work. He was taken ill last Sunday and has been unable to work since.

W. H. Polhamus, of 624 East Lewis street, a Pennsylvania engineer, was summoned to Valparaiso yesterday by news of the death of his aunt.

Machinist T. J. Errington, of the Pennsylvania tool room, and his wife, have planned an over Sunday visit with relatives and friends in Toledo, and will leave for that city tonight.

E. W. Koehl, stenographer for Foreman M. W. Kean at the Pennsylvania shops, will be the guest of relatives and friends at Lima over Sunday.

The cold wave has had a bad effect upon train schedules. Not a passenger train entered Fort Wayne on time today and freights were "away off."

The Nickel Plate, which maintains a big ice house at Bellevue, Ohio, has commenced to fill them. Eighteen car loads were delivered there this week.

Harry C. Holliday, chief clerk for Trainmaster R. E. Casey of the G. R. & I., is at his desk again after an absence of a day or two on account of sickness.

Machinist John O. Bryant, of the Pennsylvania shops, who resided near Brookside farm, failed to show up for work this morning and it is presumed he is sick.

John W. Colchin, of Chicago Junction, O., is here to spend some time with his relatives. He is the father of Mrs. Daniel Peigen. Mr. Colchin is about 60 years old and has retired from active work.

The demand for good mechanics, helpers and laborers is still beyond the supply, particularly at the railway shops. The Pennsylvania is in the market for some good men and is promising steady employment.

Good cheer and jollity will attend the gathering of Pennsylvania employees at the home of Fred W. Ropa, the retired shopman, on Welleser Park avenue, tonight. The boys have been invited there by Mr. Ropa, who is quite popular with them.

W. F. Koehlinger, F. Sperry and A. Peterson, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, are off duty on account of sickness. Eight of ten other employees of the department failed to show up this morning, but the cause was not given.

Assistant Foreman Gus Gruber, of the Pennsylvania tin and pipe shop, who was severely injured in a fall on the ice nearly two weeks ago, is now on the mend and it is believed he will recover in a week or two sufficiently to resume work at the shops.

Mrs. Ella Bontor has returned from Bellevue, Ohio, where she was the guest of Conductor and Mrs. C. Sauer, for three weeks. Mrs. Bontor is one of the officers of the grand lodge of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors and she was the recipient of several social honors conferred by the auxiliary ladies of Bellevue.

One week from today occurs the second bowling game between teams from the Fort Wayne shops and the Allegheny shops of the Pennsylvania. The battle will come off in alleys in Canton and it will be the second of a series of three. The first one, which was played at Mansfield, was won by the Allegheny boys, but the remaining two games, it is said, will have a different termination.

George H. Loesch today filed his formal intention under the law to be a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor. Mr. Loesch has been meeting thousands of the voters with every reason to believe that he will receive the support of the majority of the voters.

"If nominated," he said today to a reporter, "I will give the campaign the most careful and energetic effort to win the election. If elected I will give the city an administration that will aim at economy and the best public service. The home and public interests of the entire people will be my constant aim. In that attitude I appeal to the voters to go to the polls and favor me with the nomination."—Advertisement.

WAS PLAYED AT MANSFIELD.

"Information," the pamphlet issued by the publicity department of the Pennsylvania under date of January 23, contains good portraits of D. E. Crawford, general manager of the lines west of Pittsburgh, and P. F. Smith, Jr., general superintendent of motive power of the lines west, who formerly resided in Fort Wayne. Mr. Crawford was here from 1892 to August 1903 and Mr. Smith was here from August, 1903, to November 10, 1896. Each was well known in railway circles in the city.

SCHIEFER ANNOUNCES CHANGE.

Division is Made in Sales and Storage Department.

Owing to the rapid development of his business, Mr. Schiefer Schiefer has made a division in the sales and the storage and repair departments of his garage business on Barr street. As distributor of the Paige cars Mr. Schiefer has found that the sales end of the business requires all of his attention. The storage and repair division has been taken over by Mr. Clarence Paige, who was a dealer for the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company in the Columbia City territory, and being a man of practical knowledge of the business, Mr. Paige will continue that branch of the Schiefer garage in the very efficient manner that has always made that concern popular with car owners.

Property Sold by the K. Vorndran Agency This Week.

The business property of Frank Deck, just north of the Hayes hotel, was purchased by William J. Steckbeck, for $10,500. Mr. Steckbeck plans to put a two story brick building in the rear and have it arranged for six bowling alleys in same, as he is the owner of the Star Bowling alleys, and the Deck property adjoins him on the south.

EDDYTORIUL ON "IGNORUNTS."

Ignorunts is a turrible awful calamity to have happen to you. In uthur words there aint much hope for ennybuddy who is steeped in ignorunts. Sumbuddy has said that "Ignorunts & Soopertishion goes hand in hand together," and we believe it. Wherever you find ignorunts you will also find sufferink becuz sufferink is the penalty of ignorunts.

The motif what mooved us to dash off this eddytoriul on "Ignorunts" happend down to Hen Weathersbys store toger ether where we happend to of went after we had got our supper to purchase a pkg. of smokink tobacco and also to indulge ourself in the luxshury of social intercourse amoungst some of the most respected citizens of Bingville who is accustomed to congregating at Hens store of a evg and congesting theirselfs around the stove in a effort to keep warm whilst they discuss the current topics of the hour.

Well, as we were there smokink our eddytoriul pipe and warmink our shins by the stove in Hens store we chanced to remark apperpo ("apperpo" is a Latin word which we haft to use here to express, ourself) of nothink in particular—we repeat that we happend to remark as follows: "My goodness sakes, how time flies! Here it is almost the middle of Feboary already—it wont be long enny more until spring."

There was a silence greeted our remark on the part of them as was clustered around the stove fer a minnit until Abe Witherow give a gurglin pull or two on his pipe and said, "Middle of Feboary! Huh!—It aint nuther—Feboary aint skeerely a third consumed as yet—accordin to my calklatin 14 and a half days has to pass by afore Feboary is haff past."

"We regret exceedink, Abram," says us to Abe, "to inform you that your calklatashions is not correct—the haff of Feboary does not consist of 14 and one-haff days, as you surmise, but 14 days."

"You cant make me believe that," says Abe bristling up a good eal; "my last yrs. caller whitch I got for nothink at the co. seat had great big plain figgers on it and was as good a caller as there was in Bingville and I remember partickler that Feboary had per-zackly 29 days in it becuz I counted em several times & if Feboary of last yr. had 29 days in it it stands to reason that Feboary of this yr. has 29 days in it. Enny fool ort to know that. I diddnt happen to git no caller this yr., but you cant make me believe that this month aint got 29 days in it. If it aint, why aint it?"

"Becuz," says us in deep disgust, "last yr. was LEEP Yr. and this aint, that's why."

"Leap yr.," sneers Abe; "whats LEEP Yr., and whoever heerd of sitch a ridicklus thing!"

Right there was 'where we' almost lost our temper and we told Abe rite to his face what we thort of enny citizen of Bingville who was so pitiful ignorant as not to know that evry 4th yr. Feboary has 29 days in it whereas on other yrs. its only got 28 days. Then giving Abe a look of withering contempt we left the store in deep disgust.

In concloushion of this eddytoriul on "Ignorunts" we wish to state for the benefit of the young ladies of Bingville as well as for the benefit of them who is no longer yung but have passd the flour of their youth, as we mite say, that they must not lose their courage becuz LEEP Yr. wont come again for a period of four yrs. If during the LEEP Yr. of 1916 you diddnt happen to ketch a man, girls, do not repine. It may not be the custom for a marriageable woman to perpose to a man on a yr. that aint LEEP Yr., but if she is swiftly becoming a old maid, it is perfectly justifiable in self defense and we urge all sitch ladies of Bingville who happend to be keeping company with gentlemen who aint as yet popd the question to ask em pint blank if they are merely trifling with their feminine affekshions, or if their intensions is honorable.

Personals

The cold weather hangs on like a burdock burr in a dogs tail. Generally the turrible awful cold begins to sorter peter out about this time of yr., but it aint petered out much so fur being as a person has to sleep nights with about as meny quilts and blankets over em to keep from freezin togeth as they did thro Janoary. Clem Gookins says he has to have so meny puffs and quilts and things on him all night to keep warm that when morning comes hes smashd flattern a road drag.

In view of the above personals there aint been what you might call enny signs of spring reported as we go to press. We went down to Snake Crick speshial toger ether to see if there was enny pussy willers out in bud. There wasent. Not only that, but there diddnt look as if there would be for quite a spell—a close inspekshion of the pussy willer bushes peard to indykate to us that all the pussy willer buds was froze dead in the shell.

Speakin of signs of spring, Old Dad Henderson who pretends to be the greatest wether profet in Bingville, says he seen a robin in a apple tree in his backyard toger ether. We have made several in quires from others of our well knowd citizens as to whether they had saw enny robin and being as nobuddy else bud Dad had saw one we have about come to the concloushion that what Dad seen insteard of a robin was probably a bluejay or a crow. Dads eyesight aint what it used to be.

Mrs. Amos Hillyer, wife of our es-teemed townsman, also lawyer, legal lite & J. of the P., while stepping out of the kitchen to empty a pan of dishwater toger ether, fell and bruised herself considerable.

Miss Amelia Tucker, our raining sossiety queen & leader of the Bingville 400 is havink a new dress made by a gentleman ladies tailor (whatever that is) at the co. seat. We hope it wont be as short at the bottom as Amelias last dress was whitch skandalized the entire naberhood. This is the 1st dress Amelia has ever had made at the co. seat. Here tofore Miss Phoebe Hilderbrand, our fashionable Bingville dress maker has made all of Miss Amelias dresses, but it pears that Amelia is getting so hifalutin that clothes made in Bingville aint good enuff for her. Miss Phoebe is a good eal put out about it, too, and she says she hopes that Amelias new dress from the co. seat wont fit her a tall being as that would serve her rite for not paternizing home trade.

We have it on good authority that Hank Dewberry has hired out to help Cy Hoskins thru his harvest next summer at the rate of a dollar a day and found, LATER—Hank has just been to the Boogie offis to denst a roomer about Rum and as far as thats concerned Bill is full yet and probably will remain so until the contents of the jug is exosted.

These is all the "Personals" whitch happend to occur to us at this partickler writing & sitching. The next thing on the programme for this issue of the Bugle is "Lokal Breefs" whitch we will now proceed to write.

Lokal Breefs

Sime Gookins who lives two miles west of Bingville was in town toger ether and informs us that he had a yearling steer to die on his hands a few days ago. To complicate matters moren ever Sime dont know what the dogmashion the steer dide of neither, and praps this will allus & forever remane a mystery. Sime has the sympathy of the entire community in his sad loss & bereveement.

Jobe Hanson who holds a very looketive position running a elevator in a store at the co. seat is at home on a few days vacation with his parents of this town. Jobe has sprooced up a good eal during the three months he has been working to the co. seat and is quite citydine in his ways. Jobe has lerned to smoke cigaroets and to wear a stiff collar three inches high without chokin togeth. Jobe says he couldnt stand it to come back to Bingville to live now after gettin a taste of city life being as there aint no opportunity in a one horse town like Bingville for a smart boy like him. The only thing were afraid of is Jobe is likely to git so almighty smart and sharp that he'll either punksure or cut himself togeth!

If as editor & prop of the Bugle we could only collect the minifunt sum of say $100 there aint skeerely no limit to what we could do with it toger ether our detts—and yet even $5 or $10 or even $75 cts. would be welcome and would be received with great cheer.

Eph Higgins our accommodatin P. M. toger ether received from the P. M. General at Washington 2 doz speshial delivery stamps whitch Eph ordered about a month ago. Now that Eph has these 2 doz speshial delivery stamps on hand he says he dont know what the dogmashion made him order so meny of em being as he must of been outen his head at the time to of did so. Be that as it may, Eph says in order to stimmylate the market for speshial delivery stamps he will sell em at the rate of 9 cts. each until his present supply is exosted thus losing one ct. on each stamp so to speak, or 20 cts. on the 29 stamps. Here is a chance to git speshial delivery stamps cheap—a opportunity whitch may never come to you agin. Sime Eph is sport enuff to sell these speshial delivery stamps for a ct. less per each than he paid for em whoose sport enuff to buy somethink they dont need simply becuz its cheap?

Missus Martha Tucker is almost laid up with being crippled. Missus Martha went to the co. seat with Cate Tucker her husband last wk. and purchased a new pr. of shoes whitch was No. 7s. Being as Martha weighd, neerly 300 lbs. and has a No. 9 foot instid of a No. 7 when she put on them No. 7 shoes on her big feet last Sunday and went to church, she didnt git much spiritchool comfort, as we mite say, the contrary Martha suffered the torchoors of the lost whilst the sermon lasted and the cold sweat stood out on her forehead like beads and run down and dript offen her double chin. Then she limpd home with a groan at evry step and has been lame ever sinat. Why will wimmen be so fool-ish we ask? Anser—Providence only knows! Hen Weathersby, prop of our general store, from who Martha has al-lus purchased her shoes in the past says it serves her right for not paternizing home trade.

Jasper Hawkins while about to enter the P. O. toger ether to see if there was enny mail matter for him (there wasent) jest as the Rev. Moore, our bel-luvvd paster, was coming outen the P. O. door, Jaspers foot slid on the ice and as he started to fall he grabd holt of the Rev. Moore for support and as a result Jasp dragged the Rev. Moore along with him and they both fell with a dull sickenng thud on the P. O. steps on top of each other. The Rev. Moore diddnt like it very well, and after he had gaverd hisself up and put on his tall beaver hat whitch was considerable dingd up in the scrimmage he spoke purty sharp to Jasper but Jasp was as pleasant as could be and told our bel-luvvd paster that he thort a minister of the gospel was the proper person for a poor sinner in distress to grab holt of for aid when he found himself going down in slippery places. The Rev. Moore stuck his head up into the air and marchd off without never ansering a word to Jasp.

Samantha Deevers is still on the sick list as we go to press. We was trying to figger up toger ether how meny yrs. its been sime Samantha has been on the sick list and we calkulated it must be over 15 but Jim Parker says he thinks its all of 20. Be that as it may, we have allus aimed to mention the lack of Samantha being on the sick list in evry issue of the Bugle becuz when we dont do so Samantha gits turrible put out and takes us to book for it the 1st time she sees us. Samantha shurely does like to see her name in the paper.

Sossietty

Empty Bottel?

ANSER--

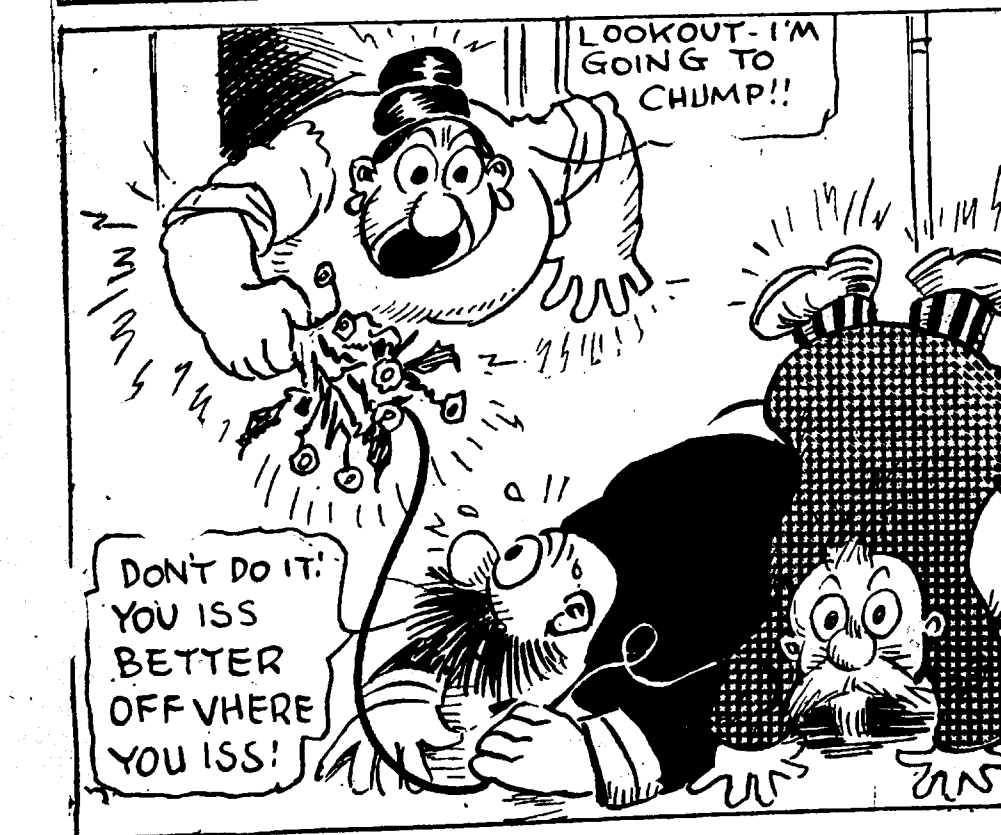

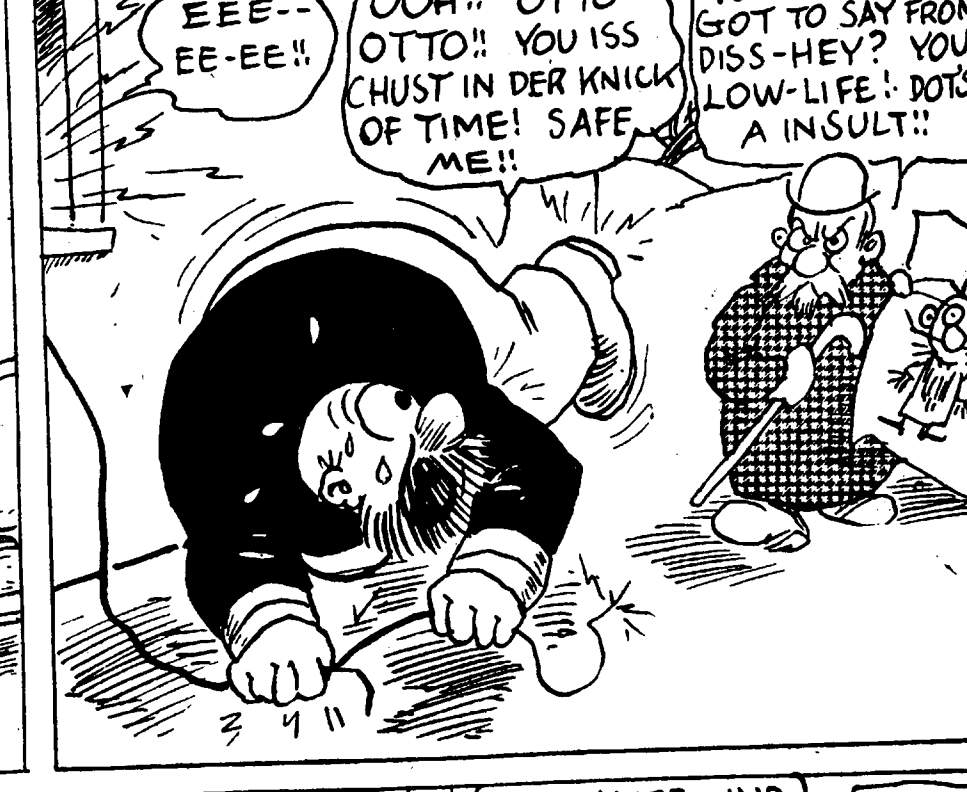

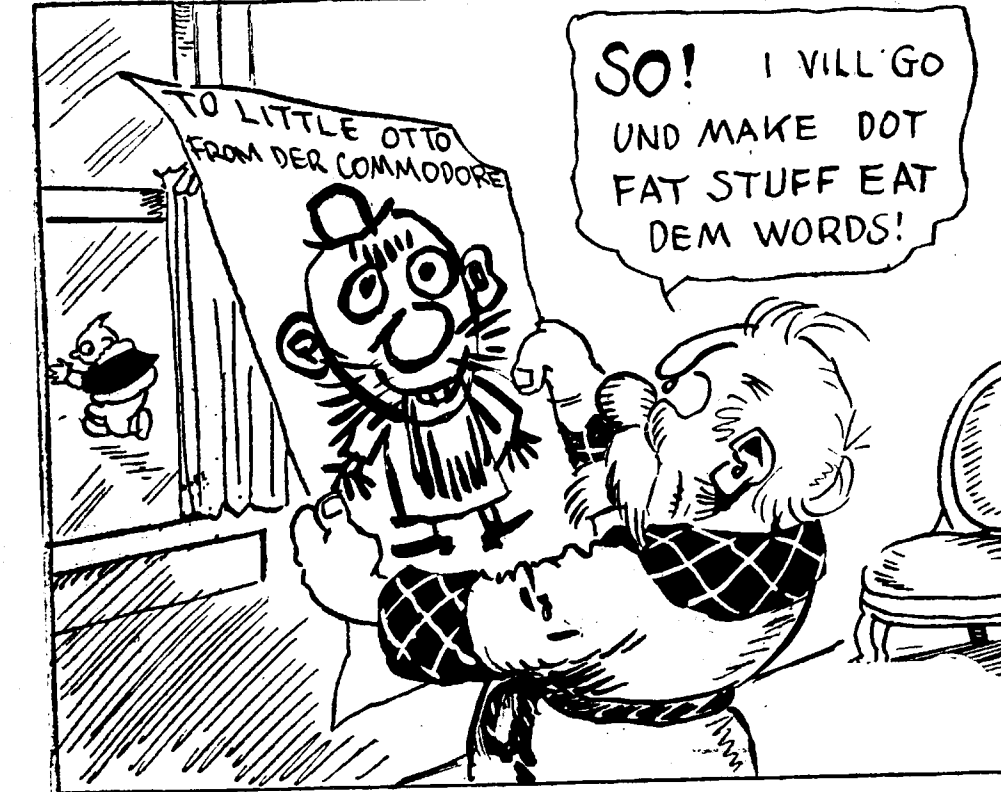

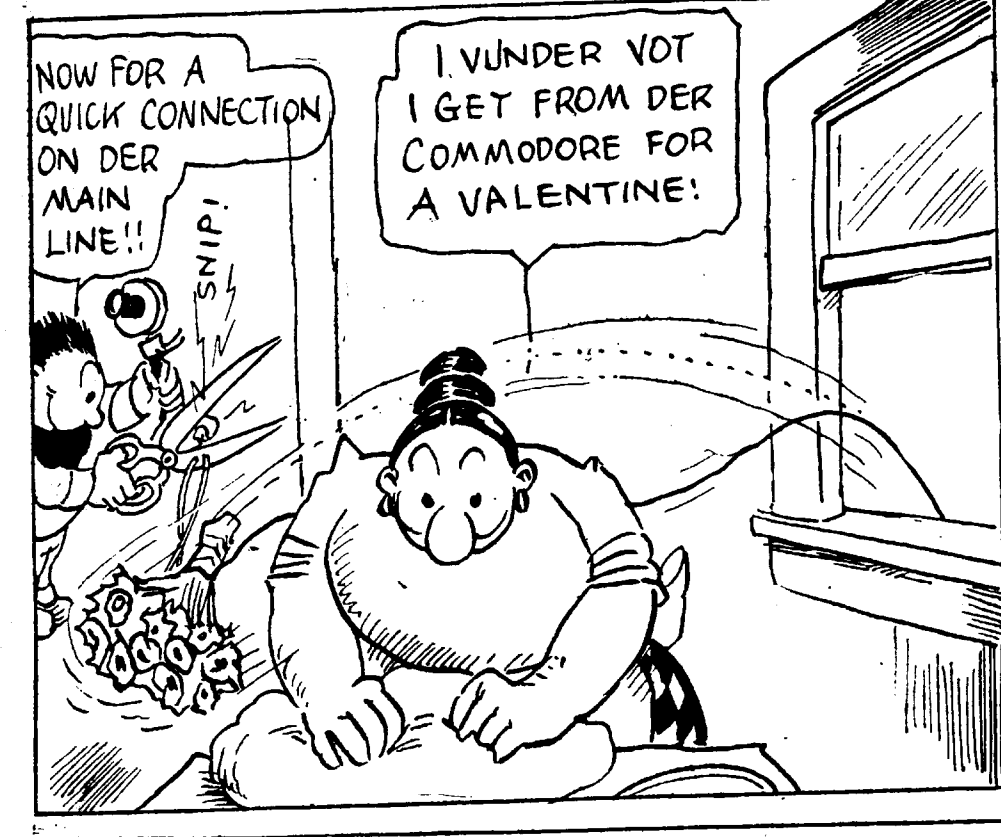

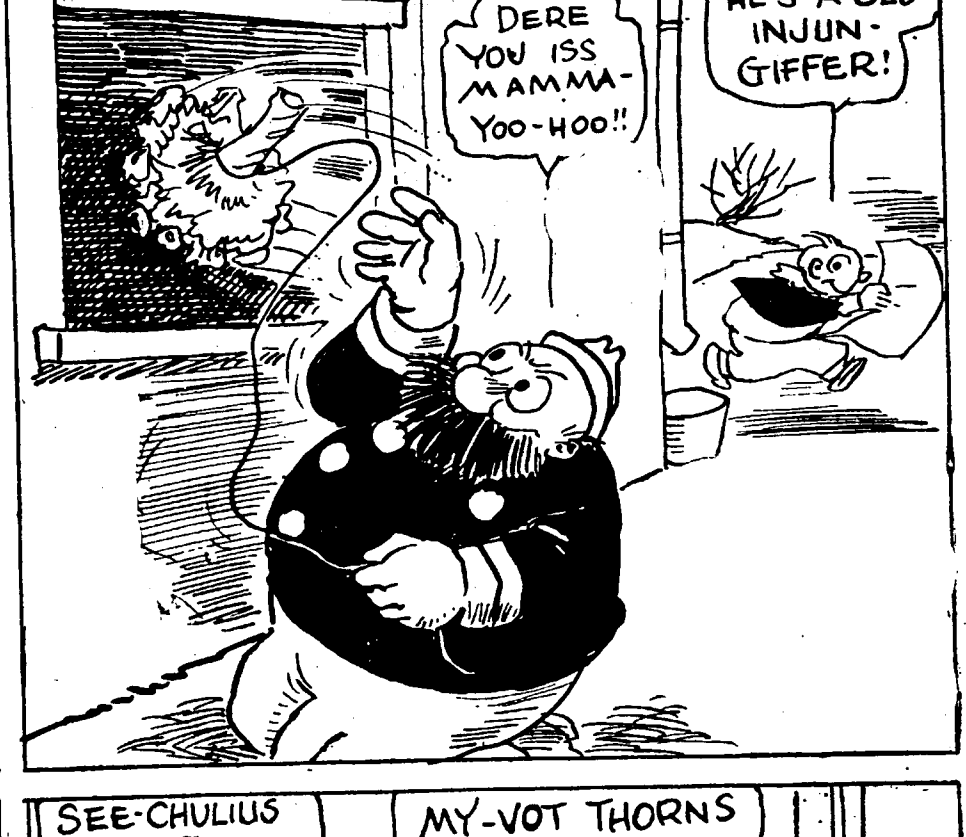

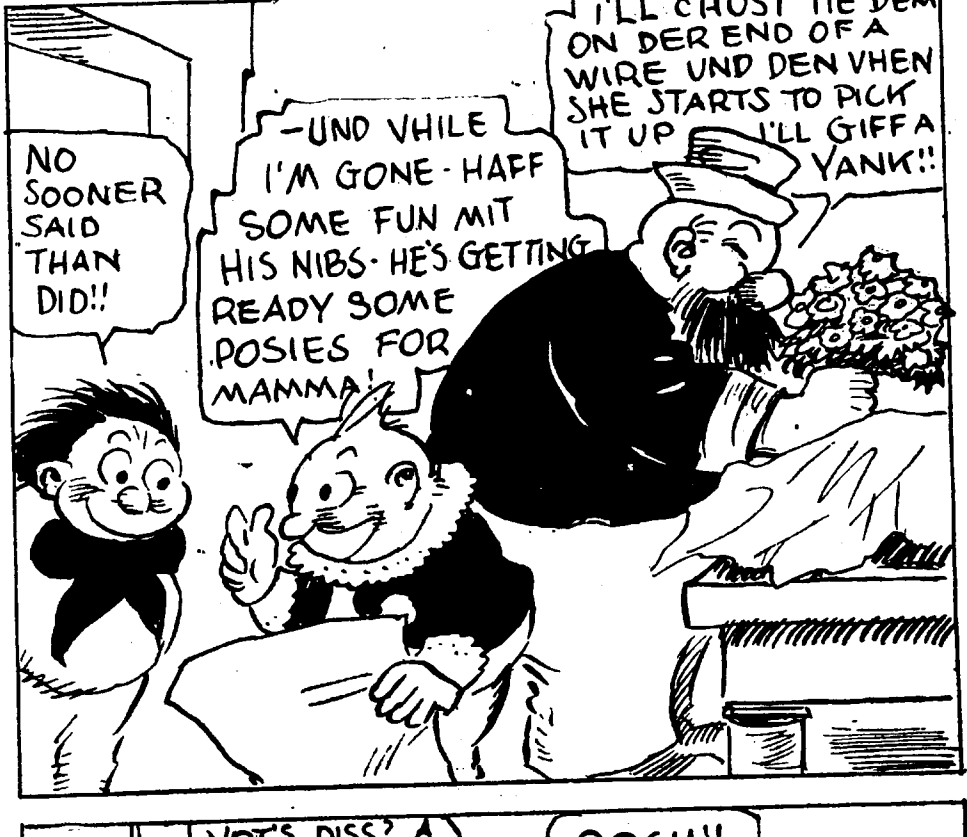

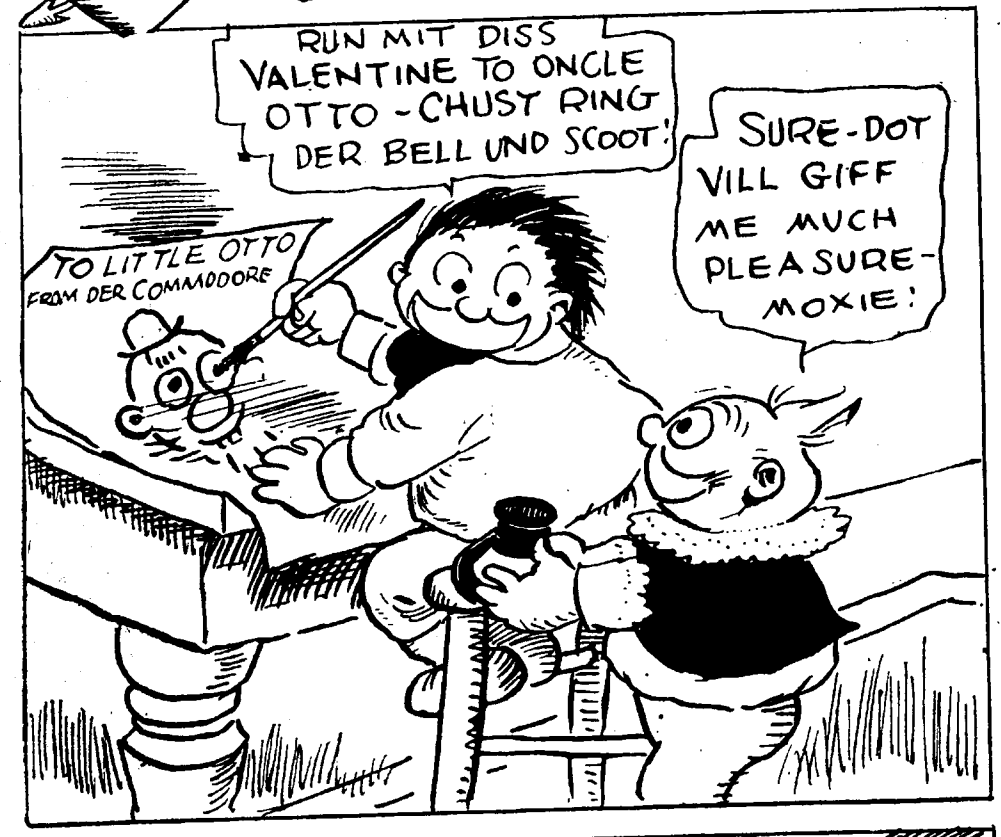

'No Good!'

That is a empty bottel aint no earthy use to YOU but IT IS TO ME. In other words I am a reglar licensed medical praktishener & sirgun & veterinary. In short I am the only docker in Bingville and I minister to man & beast alike. This being the case, I compound medisins in likwid form to say nothink of pills and powders & poshions, too numerous to mention. Well, whereas a empty bottel aint no good to you I can often use a empty bottel in my business. Being as empty bottels have been purty skeerce with me lately I thort I would try this ad into the Bugle to see if I could git some empty bottels whitch you happend to have about the house. As long as they aint no use to you I will be glad to call for em and remove em from the premises if you will let me know. The bigger the bottels the better I will like it. Not only that, but its dangerous to keep empty bottels kickin around the house—they are liable to break and then like as not you'll cut your fool self on em! Or its dangerous if the quarter or half full of medisin or likwid and aint got its label on em and you dont know what's in em. Meny a person has met their doom by takin a dose of somethink outen a bottel like that and being pizened togeth! Be on the safe side and have all empty bottels removed from your home at once! I will remove them promptly if notified.

AT VERGE OF WAR IN BREAK WITH BERLIN

SPAIN CARES FOR U. S. INTERESTS IN BERLIN; RUPTURE IS COMPLETE

Wilson Confident People Will Sustain Him in Challenge to Germany on Unrestricted Sea Warfare Just Proclaimed.

COUNTS CONSEQUENCES OF MOMENTOUS STEP

Washington, Feb. 3.—Diplomatic relations with Germany have been broken off. President Wilson in a personal address to a joint session of congress at 2 o'clock this afternoon, publicly announced the American government's answer to Germany's declaration of ruthless submarine warfare.

Ambassador Gerard has been instructed to ask the German foreign office for his passports. Passports have been sent to Count von Bernstorff.

Spain will take over the diplomatic interests of the United States in Berlin. Germany's diplomatic interests in the United States will be assumed by the Swiss legation.

Severance is Complete.

Ambassador Gerard's instructions are to close his embassy as well as all the consulates in Germany. All embassy attaches, consuls, consulate agents and their staffs are to be brought out of Germany. This makes the severance of relations more complete than is usual in such cases.

At the Verge of War. Confident that the entire country is behind him and assured of the united support of congress, President Wilson after his conference yesterday with his cabinet and senators came to the conclusion that there was only one course for the United States to pursue.

Breaking off diplomatic relations brings the United States to the verge of war. Never in the history of the world have two first-class powers severed their diplomatic relations without hostilities following. President Wilson in taking the momentous step has counted the consequences carefully, as have his advisers.

Germany Has Counted Cost. Germany, all her officials have openly said, had counted the cost of a break with the United States and was prepared to pay it in the hope of shortening the war.

When the president returned from the capitol last night he apparently had made up his mind that nothing remained but breaking off relations. At once he began preparing the address which he delivered to congress. No announcement of the break was made at the white house, as that was reserved for disclosure to the public in the address to congress. Secretary Tumulty would only say that the president would address congress this afternoon.

Machinery in Motion. Immediately all the machinery of the government was set in motion to

Various Angles to the Break Issues

Newport News, Va., Feb. 3.—The coast guard cutter Yamacraw has gone alongside the German prize ship Appam, and it is thought the German prize crew will be taken off it. Two torpedo boat destroyers joined the super-dreadnaught Arkansas off the Virginia capes on emergency duty.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Measures seeking to protect the United States against conspiracies that may result from the rupture with Germany will be considered at a special session of the senate judiciary committee after the president's address to congress. The committee was urged to consider the measures as quickly as possible by the administration.

New York, Feb. 3.—Word reached the police today that coincident with the publication of the news of the rupture with Germany the Austrian freighter Himalaya, which has been lying in Newark bay awaiting, of New York harbor, has been put out of commission. The report had it that the piston heads and other parts of her engines had been smashed by snowbars and axes.

STATE LEGISLATURE VOICES CONFIDENCE

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—The lower branch of the state legislature today passed a resolution expressing confidence in President Wilson and the congress.

A committee composed of Representatives McGonagle, Houghton, Miller, of Howard county, Durham and Cravens, drafted the resolution. Acting on the recommendations of the committee the house postponed indefinitely the Miles bill to repeal the law permitting Sunday base ball in Indiana. The senate was not in session.

WOMAN IS KNOCKED DOWN BY AN AUTO

Elizabeth McGee, 2441 West Berry street, sustained a badly bruised and sprained arm when she walked against a moving automobile on West Berry street, Saturday morning. George Zehnder, 1622 North Harrison street, was driver of the car.

Zehnder reported that he tried to avert striking the woman but that she walked directly against the side of the machine. She was assisted into a doctor's office, near at hand, and later taken to her home. Injury will not prove serious, it is believed.

WARMER WEATHER COMING. Relief in Sight From Bitterest Chill in Five Years.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 3.—After experiencing the bitterest cold in five years, Chicagoans today received with relief the weather bureau's forecast, issued last night indicating that an end to the cold wave is in sight. Below zero temperatures were predicted for today, however, but it was not expected that the mercury would reach 10 degrees, yesterday's low level.

L. H. Ransom and All Other Officers of Mercantile Company Re-Elected.

Upon completion of his eighteenth year as secretary and treasurer of the Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident Insurance company, L. H. Ransom was re-elected for two more years at the annual meeting of the directors held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Commercial club rooms. All other officers were also re-elected. They are: L. F. Curdes, president, and George W. Pixley, vice president.

The directors are elected for a period of two years. There are six directors and the men whose terms expired and were re-elected are James C. Craig, U. S. Shoff and J. A. Rosselle.

The secretary's report brought out the fact that the past year had been the best in the history of the company and that the increase in membership had been fairly good. The company is absolutely free from debt. The company stands for fair treatment and prompt payment of all claims.

FIRST HALF OF SESSION OVER

Indiana Legislature Has Made a Remarkable Record.

Legislative Matters of Less Prominence to Get Attention.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—With a bill for a constitutional convention already signed by the governor, a state-wide prohibition measure ready for final ratification as to amendments by the house of representatives, which dry leaders say will take the necessary action without delay, and with certain details of progress made by a bill extending to women the right to vote, except on constitutional issues, the Indiana general assembly today witnessed the completion of the first half of what is already identified as a memorable session.

Committee work in both houses of the assembly has made satisfactory progress during the week, according to leaders, and there is no reason to anticipate at this time, they say, the usual crush of bills toward the close

U. S. HAS DEMANDED PRISONERS' RELEASE

Insists That Berlin Free Americans Taken on Prize Ships.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The United States has formally demanded of Germany the immediate release of the two Americans who were taken prisoners on prize ships by the raiders in the south Atlantic.

In all there were 64 Americans taken from the steamers Georgic, Mount Temple and Voltaire. Sixty of the prisoners are confined in the prison camp at Duclmen, in Westfalen.

AMERICANS HASTEN AWAY FROM ENGLAND

London, Feb. 3.—A large crowd of homeward bound Americans took the boat train at Euston station this morning. There seemed little apprehension of danger, as today's sailing was exempt under the German warning, it being the last one with such exemption. It turned out that the demands for transportation by Americans desiring to get away from England were less urgent than expected and virtually an entire deck with first-class accommodations on the departing steamer was not taken.

Col. Spencer Cosby, returning American military attaché at Paris, and Mrs. Cosby were among today's passengers.

First American Ship Sunk to Bring Declaration of War, Says Mr. Flood

Washington, Feb. 3.—Secretary Lansing questioned as to details said, "It is perfectly clear what has happened. I can make no further statement till after the president's address."

Chairman Flood, of the house foreign affairs committee, evidently expected the chances of avoiding war were remote.

"If an American ship is sunk by a German submarine," said he, "it will be followed immediately by a declaration of war by congress."

The news of the break was received in the house as the naval bill was being considered.

Pacifists Heard From. Some of the pacifist element headed by Representative Calloway, of Texas, decried the possibilities of the United States being drawn into the war.

Republican Leader Mann admonished the speakers to "keep cool" and hear what the president had to say.

AMBASSADOR GERARD

URGES $500,000,000 FOR PREPAREDNESS

Washington, Feb. 3.—Senator Thomas today introduced an amendment to the house revenue bill proposing an issue of $500,000,000 non-interest bearing treasury notes to put the nation in a "state of naval and military preparedness."

An amendment was read but not discussed. The notes will be payable to persons from whom the government purchased munitions, could be used to pay taxes and would be redeemable in 1935.

COMMITTEE WILL TAKE UP MATTER WITH BOARD

A committee of three members was appointed Friday evening at a meeting of one hundred residents of Forest Park Heights which will meet with the board of works to see whether or not the apparent differences between the assessments on property similarly located can be made more equal.

The meeting was held at the Forest Park tin shop and the assessment on the pavement of St. Joe boulevard was discussed. Another meeting will be held next Friday evening at which time it will be definitely decided what steps will be taken.

WILSON ANNOUNCES BREAK FORMALLY IN TALK TO CONGRESS

President, in Perhaps Most Sombre Moment of American History, Invokes Guidance of God in Step He Has Taken.

OUTLINES CAUSES LEADING UP TO THE ACTION

Washington, Feb. 3.—The severance of diplomatic relations with Germany was formally announced to the country and the world by President Wilson at a joint session of congress today at 2 o'clock.

The United States now stands on the verge of war, with all the historic precedents of centuries pressing it forward.

Fervently invoking the guidance of Almighty God in the step he had taken, President Wilson detailed to the congress why the United States could not continue relations with a warring power which repeatedly invades its sacred rights and takes the lives of its citizens.

Calm, with a sense of right in what may prove the most sombre moment of American history the president stood in the historic hall of the house of representatives and with senators and representatives before him spoke the words which may carry the country into the world conflict, not for aggression and not for power, only for law and humanity.

Silent and attentive, the grim company of the nation's law makers listened with rapt attention while President Wilson told of America's course in the unsuccessful diplomatic struggle to dissuade Germany from her campaign of ruthlessness.

In concluding his address President Wilson declared that he could not even believe now that Germany intends any over act against American citizens but that if over acts are forthcoming he will again come before congress to ask authority to "use any means that may be necessary for the protection of our seamen and our people."

All neutral governments, he believes, will take the same course.

Serve No Selfish Ends. "We wish to serve no selfish ends," the president stated. "We seek merely to stand true alike in thought and in action to the immortal principles of our people." "We seek merely to vindicate our right to liberty and justice and unswerving life. These are the basis of peace, not war. God grant that we may not be challenged to defend them against nets of wilful injustice on the part of the government of Germany."

While the president was addressing congress Law Adviser Woolsey of the state department, was at the German embassy with a communication for Count von Bernstorff. There seemed no room for doubt that the communication contained his passports.

The President's Address. The president spoke as follows: "Gentlemen of the Congress: "The imperial German government, on the 31st of January, announced to this government and to the governments of the other neutral nations that on and after the first day of February, the present month, it would adopt a policy with regard to the use of submarines against all shipping seeking to pass through certain designated areas of the high seas, to which it is clearly my duty to call your attention.

"Let me remind the congress on the 8th of April last, in view of the sinking on the 24th of March of the cross-channel passenger steamer Sussex by a German submarine without summons or warning and the consequent loss of lives of several citizens of the United States who were passengers aboard her, this government addressed a note to the imperial government in which it made the following declaration:

The Sussex Case Note. "If it is still the purpose of the imperial government to prosecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare against vessels of commerce by the use of submarines without regard to what the government of the United States must consider the sacred and indisputable rules of international law and the universally recognized dictates of humanity the government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue. Unless the imperial government should now immediately declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of sub-

Two pedestrians were struck when the steering gear of an automobile was frozen until it could not be moved, and the machine dashed across the sidewalk of a downtown street, Friday afternoon.

The victims were an aged man and a girl, when the car, with steering shaft and case cemented by ice, ran in a half circle, as the machine started, Mary Burrett, 446 East De Wald street, was the girl. Her left limb was badly bruised. The elderly man, who would not give his name, complained of an injured arm. He refused assistance, it was reported.

The accident occurred on the north side of the Meyer Brothers drug store, corner of Wayne and Calhoun streets. William Dittenbaugh, driver for the Karna Brothers meat market, was in charge of the small auto truck. When Dittenbaugh started the car he could not turn the steering gear. It had frozen up. All his straining upon the wheel proved in vain. The car dashed across the curbing and upon the sidewalk where it struck the pedestrians.

SIX KILLED, 12 HURT IN IOWA RAIL WRECK

"Q" Train Crashes Into a Broken Rail at Cromwell Station.

Cromwell Station, Iowa, Feb. 3.—Six persons were killed and twelve injured when Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train eastbound was wrecked last night by running into a broken rail near here. Five Pullman cars were thrown from the track down a forty-foot embankment into a ditch. The engine tender and a smoking car held the track. The observation car was thrown from the track, but did not turn over. The only identified dead are Mrs. John Sash, of Creston, Iowa, and a man named Schroeder, of Omaha. One man died in the station here after being removed from the wreckage and another died on the train to Creston.

Twelve seriously injured, some of whom may die, were taken to the hospital at Creston.

Many of the injured caught in the wreckage suffered intensely in the zero weather while the steel coaches were being lifted to free them.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

DRUNKEN TRAMP NEARLY FREEZES

Found by an Automobile Party and Is Taken to North Manchester.

Warsaw, Ind., Feb. 3.—A drunken tramp, badly frozen by the chilly blasts of a north wind, was found three miles south of Silver Lake, Thursday at noon, by an automobile party. He was black from the cold and it was necessary to roll him around on the ground for several minutes before he could be revived. His hands were bleeding from cuts and bruises and when found his condition was such that it is believed that he was near death.

He was taken in the machine to North Manchester and after being given treatment and warmed up he was turned loose. After wandering around over the streets for some time he started back toward Silver Lake and persons fearing that he would again fall and probably freeze to death, started after him. As they approached the man he drew an ugly looking pocket knife and attacked the party. He was finally overpowered and locked up in jail.

It is the opinion of many persons that the man is insane and was not drunk.

WRECK VICTIM IDENTIFIED.

Van Wert, Ohio, Feb. 3.—After nearly a year it is possible that one of the men killed in the Cincinnati Southern freight yard near St. Henry will be identified. At the time of the wreck all efforts to identify the three men failed. H. J. Schmitt, of Celina, has received a letter from Claude Watkins, of Mayville, Ky., in which it is stated that Mr. Watkins believes one of the men killed was his brother. Identification was made through seeking photographs of the three men. Mr. Watkins will be in St. Henry some time during the week and a disinterment of the body may be made in order to establish a complete identification.

STUBBORN BLAZE.

Auburn, Ind., Feb. 3.—Fire of an unknown origin came very near gutting the residence of Mrs. P. D. West, of South Main street early Friday morning and but for the valiant work of the city fire department, the house would undoubtedly be a mass of ruins. Mrs. P. D. West and her two sons were awakened by the smell of the smoke, which seemed to fill the house completely about 3 o'clock in the morning and the alarm was turned in.

MEASLES CAUSES DEATH.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 3.—Hazel First, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George First, residing two miles west and one mile north of Point, died at 2 o'clock yesterday morning after an illness of ten days. The child was taken ill with measles a week ago last Tuesday and congestion of the lungs followed. Besides the parents, a brother, Albert and a sister, Jessie, survive. The girl was a pupil in the fourth room of the Poneto school.

YOUTHFUL BURGLARS UNDER $1,000 BOND

Andrew Redowski Wants to Take All Blame for Eight Robberies.

Time scared crooks, schooled by years of give and take, in the uncertain world of crime, have keenest sense of loyalty to a "pal."

Andrew Redowski, a mild eyed, brown haired little lad of 18, displayed all the valiant qualities of a finished felon in police court Saturday morning when he insisted on pleading guilty to eight burglaries in Fort Wayne and Detroit and urging that his "pal" Harry Laure, 19, go free.

Redowski, who police say is growing old in crime before his years, will have to serve sentence for burglary because he is on parole now. Laure has no record behind him and a fighting chance of his remaining free is left. Both lads are making stubborn use of that fighting chance.

A specific charge of entering the A. B. Frank grocery store, 611 Barr street, on the night of January 21, when $27.97 were taken from the cash register, Redowski pleaded guilty. He was bound to circuit court under $1,000 bond.

Laure pleaded "not guilty" to the same charge. For an hour he fumbled his gray hat and answered pointed questions from Deputy Prosecutor Hoffman, with always a denial of having knowledge of the wholesale burglary plan of his partner.

Detective Sergeant Pappert, who was instrumental in apprehension and capture of the boys at Detroit, and who conducted the youths back to Fort Wayne, laid a heap of exhibits, in the form of a revolver, watches, cartridge belt and other articles on the prosecutor's desk.

Pappert told that Redowski had admitted entering six Fort Wayne stores and two Detroit hardware stores. Laure had disposed of part of the property and carried two of the stolen knives when arrested. Police think Laure assisted in the robberies.

Laure says he thought Redowski won the money in pool playing. He had no knowledge of the thefts, he said.

Redowski broke into a Fort Wayne second-hand store one night in July and was captured by a night watchman. He was bound to circuit court, where suspended sentence was granted. Since that time he has been leader in many small burglaries, it is thought.

Tells About "Daddy."

Mrs. Mary Sweltzer wept as she told about relations of her husband with a lady friend referred to by him as "Daddy." She said he had been with the "other woman" much of the time since their marriage, in November.

Mrs. Sweltzer charged her husband with wife desertion. He denied the allegation. He has paid $3.50 for her keeping since last Wednesday, he testified.

Sweltzer told that his wife had caused him to lose his job with the National Handle company. He is now employed at the Pennsylvania freight house. He was denied divorce from his wife last week.

Judge Kerr ordered Sweltzer to pay $4.50 a week for keeping of his wife. Sweltzer promised to meet the order.

Was Manicuring Nails.

William Cross, colored, 1344 Hayden street, was trimming his finger nails when his wife became frightened at the small knife he held in his hands, he testified.

Mrs. Mary Cross, the wife, testified that Cross had pursued her with a large knife on Friday afternoon and that she had been forced to seek refuge in the home of neighbors.

Police were summoned by people living near the Cross home. The husband had drawn his pay at the Bass foundry and was about to leave town, police said, when they found him in a saloon.

Cross admitted that he had been imprisoned twice in Evansville on charges of disorderly conduct. He was fined $10 and costs.

Other Police Court Cases.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Romans 1:16-23.

16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

17 For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith.

18 For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness;

19 Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God hath shewed it unto them.

20 For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse:

21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools.

23 And changed the glory of the uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1917.

Indiana Goes Dry

There's a new recruit in the steadily growing ranks of the dry states. By a majority more overwhelming than any the most ardent advocate of state-wide prohibition had dared to hope, the Indiana senate has followed the lead of the house in passing the Wright prohibition bill to put an end to the liquor traffic in this state on April 2, 1918. The remaining steps to complete the enactment—the ratification by the house of the senate amendments and the affixing of his signature by Governor Goodrich—are purely perfunctory matters that seem certain to be carried out without delay.

State-wide prohibition, the realization of a years-old dream of the temperance forces in Indiana, is especially remarkable only as to the time and manner in which it has been accomplished. It is, of course, but a new demonstration of the mighty sweep of anti-liquor sentiment that has been gathering irresistible force in practically every section of the union in recent years. It is interesting to note that the result has been attained in Indiana following a political campaign in which the liquor question did not figure as a dominant issue. Neither the democrats nor the republicans in Indiana last year in their state platforms gave utterances that could be construed as foreshadowing the culmination that has now developed. There were hints, of course, that state-wide prohibition would be asked, but until the actual sessions of the assembly neared there was no indication of the real strength of the temperance sentiment among the lawmakers or the force which was to rise up and demand action.

Then there arose the belief that the house would pass the bill, but that its fate in the senate was at best extremely problematical. There was a time, in fact, when it was believed the senate would certainly develop a majority hostile to the bill. Yet after the house had given its expected majority for the measure and the eyes of the state were turned on the senate, it was quickly apparent that the psychology of the house situation was having its effect in the upper branch. Voting on amendments seemed to then indicate that the bill would manage to carry through the senate by a vote of something like 27 to 22. Yet overnight as the final vote drew near there was a bandwagon rush that put eleven more senators behind the measure and gave it passage by twelve more votes than the constitutional senate majority.

The non-partisan character of the action is another noteworthy phase of the victory for the dry forces. It was a republican house and a democratic senate that sounded the death knell of the Indiana saloon, and the division of the vote in both branches was such as to divest the upheaval of political tinge. The character of the work in behalf of the bill was undoubtedly in large measure responsible for the elimination of political division on the question. There were no political lines in the thousands upon thousands of petitions asking the enactment of the dry bill. There were no political lines in the big assemblage of friends of temperance who descended upon the legislature during the discussion of the measure. It was an effective crystallization of the dry sentiment of the state, unaffected by any other issue whatever. It was impressive, and it manifestly aided tremendously in producing results.

Great as is the forward step Indiana has taken for the banishment of the liquor traffic, it must be realized that public opinion is not and will not be a unit in endorsing it. There are many men who sincerely oppose drastic legislation of this character, either from a belief that it is unwarranted interference with personal liberty, from the standpoint of public finances, or from the fear that illicit sale under various subterfuges will be more harmful than regulated sale under the license system. Yet the consensus of predominant thought today is plainly toward the obliteration of the traffic. Above all and over all rises the question of the weaker brother and what we owe him in the way of protection and safeguard. The public sentiment that forced the enactment of the dry law in Indiana is not a sudden spasm of virtue. It is the product of long study, close observation, calm reasoning and long suffering under the harm that liquor does and the ruthless defiance of law on the part of so many of the men engaged in the traffic. There will be those on whom the dry regime will work temporary financial hardship. Investments of many thousands of dollars must find new avenues of productive activity in order to avoid total loss. This will require some patience and no little business ingenuity. Yet it cannot be pleaded that snap judgment has been taken. There has been warning after warning of what was to come. Nothing has been made plainer during the past ten or fifteen years than that Indiana would finally do just what has now been done. This fact, we think, will be freely admitted even by the liquor forces.

The passage of the dry law will not at once completely correct all the accumulated imperfections of years. That must not be expected. There must be readjustments to meet the changed conditions. All these must be worked out, and they can be worked out. It will require time and patience and judgment as well as consideration for those who must make radical change to conform to the readjustment order of things. It cannot be done in a moment, but The Sentinel believes the result will finally be an almost universal acceptance of the banishment of the traffic in liquor as the greatest single achievement of Indiana citizens for Indiana citizenship.

A Call From Home

Letters from The Sentinel Readers

To the Editor of the Fort Wayne Sentinel.

Dear Sir:—Four years ago the republican administration of Fort Wayne had submitted to the legislature a bill changing the provisions of the cities and town act of 1905 in regard to the right of cities to open streets across railroad property to the effect of restoring to the cities the rights that they had before that year. The bill of four years ago was by the efforts of the railroad companies, killed in the committee. Two years ago the democratic administration of Fort Wayne made another attempt by submitting a similar bill in the legislature. The measure passed the house but was defeated in the senate.

Now a number of business men and other taxpayers have organized the Clinton Street Extension association for the purpose of aiding and helping in bringing about the much needed legislation. Our former city charter gave the city the express right to open any street across railroad rights-of-way, whether improved or unimproved. Under this law our city opened Fourth street across the yards of the Lake Shore railroad. The railroad company at that time appealed to the court, but was defeated.

In the cities and towns act of 1905, the words, "railroad lands, depots and depot grounds" are omitted. Whether this was done purposely or accidentally, is immaterial; it is sure, however, that the citizens of Fort Wayne have that the citizens of Fort Wayne have never expressed a desire to give up their rights. The necessity of relieving the congestion of the traffic on Calhoun street, especially at the downtown street crossings, makes the opening of Clinton street, under the railroad tracks very desirable, if not imperative. If said Clinton street was open to the railroad tracks, there would be no legal objection to the opening of the street under the railroad tracks, but Clinton street is open only to the center line of the railroad street, and from there to the railroad tracks is a space of about 120 feet which is the property of the Pennsylvania company, and which was donated to said company by Judge Hanna for depot purposes. This depot ground is the stumbling block which could be removed by restoring to the city the right which she had before 1905. City Attorney Colerick, at the request of citizens, has therefore drawn up a bill to that effect. This bill has been introduced in both houses of the present legislature. Business men and other taxpayers who believe in the advisability of a gradual elimination of all street obstructions ought to inform our representatives and senators by letter. We are informed that the bill will be discussed before the committee on cities and towns next Tuesday evening, and it is desirable that the Fort Wayne business concerns which are mostly interested in this matter, should attend that meeting.

ANSELM FUELBER.

(Newcastle Times.)

The joke is on the brewers in a number of cities of Indiana. If not on the brewers, then it is on the wet voters of those counties. For instance, there is Marion county with its four breweries, which sent ten representatives to the legislature, all ten of them republicans, and eight of them voted for state-wide prohibition. And they did this in spite of the fact that one Indianapolis brewer boasted that he spent $11,000 to beat the democratic ticket, and that he got his money's worth. It now looks like he got a little more than his money's worth.

Soon after the election it is said that one of the brewers called up a well-known democrat to help him control the legislature, and the democrat replied that he would spend a lot of money to get him another job than making beer. Then there is Allen county, which sent three Fort Wayne republicans to the legislature, and every one of them voted for prohibition. During the campaign the agent of another brewery made the round of Newcastle, saloon keepers and told them a deal had been made between the brewers and the republicans whereby the former would be taken care of, and for all the wet fellows to support the republican ticket. They are taking care of them—just like an undertaker takes care of his patrons.

In two other large counties of the state where two breweries are located they passed the word down the line to support the entire republican ticket and six republicans were elected to the legislature and every one of them dry as a bone and all of them acting as pallbearers at the brewery funeral. Similar cases could be cited in other parts of the state. After all this the brewers make a rush for the democratic camp but find the door slammed in their faces. For once the old game of playing both ends against the middle failed to work.

It seems that the deal made between the brewers and certain republican bosses in Indianapolis last January was a well laid plot of revenge, and the brewers fell for it—took the bait at a single gulp. The revenge was for the beating the republicans received eight years ago and which they always charged to the vets. The latter seemed to have forgotten that event but the G. O. P. houses never forgot it for a minute. They bided their time, set the trap and the liquor forces walked blithely into it, only to find that they had entered a slaughter house instead of a friendly inn. It took eight years for the G. O. P. to get its revenge, but it seems all the sweeter for the waiting.

More People Now Patronize Hospitals

(South Bend News-Times.)

New York reports that its hospitals are overcrowded. The reason, as explained by one of the hospital superintendents, isn't that there's an epidemic raging, or any more sickness of any sort than usual at this time of year. The increased demand for hospital care is attributed primarily to the fact that so many people are now living in small apartments. At home they lack the room, the air and the privacy of a house. So they go to a hospital to get well. And so it is, so far as regards the cramped existence to which so large a part of our city populations are driven. A three or four room city apartment is no place to live. People should have real homes.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Five new diphtheria cards were put up today.

Professor Staples, who came from Saginaw to succeed Prof. Evans, of the International Business college, has begun his new duties.

Thirty Knights of Pythias went to Ossian to institute a new lodge. Chancellor Commander E. V. Enrich and Reader Smith were in the party. E. H. Bookwalter left for Chicago today to meet his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bookwalter, of Wellington, Kansas, who are coming for an extended visit.

G. E. Bursley the wholesale grocer, was elected president of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of Indiana at Indianapolis. W. H. Watt also attended the gathering.

A. J. Moynihan attended the annual meeting of the Democratic Editorial State association at Indianapolis this week. H. C. Berghoff also took part in the gathering.

Charles R. Weatherhogg, an architect, recently of Lincoln, England, has taken a position in the office of H. W. Mason. Mr. Weatherhogg has been in America six months. He has spent most of his time in Chicago.

W. E. White and company have opened a room in the Bass block where they will conduct an office for handling stocks, bonds, cotton, grain and provisions. The firm will receive daily quotations from New York and Chicago.

Charles Ludwig, a farmer of Washington township, is in the hospital as the result of injuries sustained when he was attacked by an enraged bull in a field on his farm. The animal which did the savage work was slaughtered at Eckert's today.

Officers were elected by the Knights of St. John at St. Mary's hall as follows: Captain, Jacob Hartman; first lieutenant, William Woenker; second lieutenant, Frank Luley; senior warden, Martin Ankenbruck; color bearer, Peter Noll; secretary, Henry Wiegand; treasurer, George Disser.

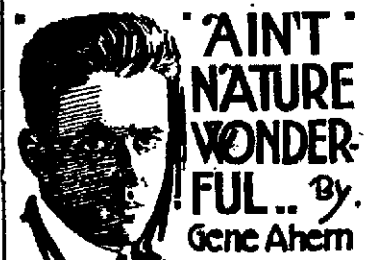

ODD, ISN'T IT?

Paris restaurants are allowed to serve only two dishes to a customer, but you may hire a man to go in with you and order, and let you do the eating.

with space, air, light, privacy and freedom. But from the standpoint of medical care in general, it may be a good thing that people are thus driven to hospitals. It gets the public to looking at hospitals differently, and using them more freely and sensibly.

The old notion of a hospital was a grim institution where one went to die a serious operation performed, or to die of a hopeless disease. People seldom thought of going there for a trivial disease. But now we are coming to think of hospitals as pleasant, friendly, serviceable places, to be used readily whenever there's anything wrong with a member of the family that is easier to care for there than at home. We go to the hospital, we send our loved ones there, without gloomy forebodings or misgivings. And because we thus avail ourselves more promptly of the best medical facilities the community has to offer, we live longer, enjoy life more and get more work done.

The soothing, healing Resinol medication in Resinol Soap, combined with its freedom from harsh, irritating alkali, gives to red, rough and pimply complexions that whiteness and velvety softness which women crave.

A skin washed only with Resinol Soap is usually a skin to be proud of.

When the skin is in really bad condition, spread on just a little Resinol Ointment for ten minutes before using Resinol Soap. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

ONE DAY MISSIONARY CONVENTION MONDAY

Rev. W. H. Hanna, of the Philippines, Will Conduct Service.

On the 5th day of the month there will be a missionary convention in the West Creighton Avenue Church of Christ of this city. The service will be conducted by Rev. W. H. Hanna of the Philippines who will be assisted by Rev. C. F. McCall of Japan and Rev. C. F. Hedges of the Belgian Congo. Mr. Hanna has spent fifteen years in the Philippines and knows the situation there thoroughly. He will speak briefly two or three times. Mr. McCall has spent seven years in Japan and has been an evangelist and teacher. Mr. Hedges has spent two terms in the Belgian Congo. He has done everything that any missionary is called upon to do. He has taught, he has preached, he has printed books, he has erected buildings, he has given medicine to those who were sick. He has a most interesting story to tell about the progress of the gospel in the Belgian Congo. Several ministers and laymen of the district will also speak in the course of the day. The walls will be covered with maps and charts. There will be a tableful of literature. This exhibit will be worth going a long way to see.

The service will open at 10 o'clock and continue until 12. The afternoon service will begin at 2 and continue until 4. There will be a meeting at night at which pictures will be shown. These pictures will illustrate the work on the fields. In the evening there will be a supper for all who care to attend. This supper will be furnished at a nominal cost. At the supper the missionaries will speak briefly. The convention will be a great event in the life of the participating churches.

ANNOUNCES A SERIES OF WELFARE SERMONS

Rev. C. Claud Travis, the pastor of Wayne Street Methodist Episcopal church announces a series of six most interesting "Welfare" addresses to be given at the church every Sunday evening during February and March. BOY SCOUTS CAMP IN ZERO WEATHER

Temperature Near Zero Fails to Daunt Enthusiastic Youngsters.

New York, Feb. 3.—Sixty-three of the 400 delegates to the Boy Scout workers' conference here led by Dillon Wallace, the Labrador explorer, showed their enthusiasm for the outdoor life last night by camping in the open after a two-mile march in the face of a keen northwest wind and with the thermometer hovering around zero.

Belmore Browne who climbed Mount McKinley, helped erect the tents in Van Corland park at the extreme northern end of the city.

"Cold!" he exclaimed this morning. "I never felt anything like it. Mount McKinley was a summer picnic."

The actual work of demonstrating boy scout activities was done today. This included cooking, signalling, bridge building, trekking, setting up camps and wireless outfits. Delegates are present from every state in the union and from some of the dependencies.

"GETTING HELP FROM GOD."

Delivers First Sermon in Series on an Old Testament Text.

Rev. C. W. Oyer spoke on an Old Testament text at the Bible Training school last night for the first time in this series of services. The passage was Isaiah 40:1-4, and the subject, "Getting Help from God." The first essential was a consciousness of need. Man is absolutely helpless apart from God. The next thought is a realization of deliverance. This comes by calling upon God; and when we do so call He sets us upon the Rock. This is the foundation for the third point, the Christian walk. For its progress we must have a fixed object for which to aim—the will of God. Without this, machinery or morality is helpless. We must have daily fellowship with God to know an established going. Finally the one lifted and established has joy, which expresses itself in praise.

There was a reasonably well filled house in spite of the zero weather; considerably better than expected. We are looking for a more than capacity house on Sunday, the closing day of the services.

Sunday school will be held at 9:30. Rev. Oyer will speak at 10:30 and 7:30. A thank offering for the workers in the special meetings will be received at both of these services.

Regular meetings will be resumed next week. Typology class, Monday at 7:45; mission band, Tuesday at 7:30; prayer meeting, Wednesday at 8:00; exposition of the Book of Esther, Friday at 7:45. The Ladies' Missionary circle meets at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Kriege at 2:00 Thursday afternoon.

TRINITY MEN'S CLUB.

Will Be Addressed by Dr. Bulson at Parish House, Feb. 13.

The next meeting of the Trinity Men's club will be held in the parish house Tuesday evening, February 13. This session will be a smoker and a social evening and Dr. Albert E. Bulson will be the principal speaker of the evening, using as his subject: "Fads and Isms in the Practice of Medicine." The topic is a live one and Dr. Bulson is exceptionally capable of speaking on anything along that line.

Y. M. C. A. Boosters Enthusiastic.

The mention of the project before the reunion meeting of the Y. M. C. A. boosters last night brought a response of applause. Henry Beadell, speaking of the plans, said: "Four hundred acres, mostly donated by the farmers along the river banks, will form a great park. Pavilions, with swimming pools, and there will be provisions for baseball grounds, tennis courts and the like."

William Breuer, president of the St. Joe River Dam and Park association, invited the associated boosters to a great outing at the St. Joe river park, "one year from the coming summer."

Among the clergymen who have endorsed the project are the following: Bishop Henry H. Aldering, Rev. Jacob W. Miller, Rev. J. H. Oechtering, Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, Rev. H. P. Dannecker, Rev. C. J. Hummer, Rev. John R. Quinlan, Rev. H. L. Overdier, Rev. Charles H. Thiele and Rev. Philip Wambagana.

MEETS TO DISCUSS AMERICANIZATION

Washington, Feb. 2.—The national conference on Americanization through education held its first meeting here today to discuss industrial phases of Americanization. Leaders in the industrial world were on the program to describe their practical experiences in attempting to Americanize their foreign born workmen.

The conference was arranged by the federal bureau of education in cooperation with the national committee of one hundred appointed by F. H. Caxton, commissioner of education.

A feature was an "America first" luncheon with Secretary Lane and Miss Frances A. Keller of New York as the speakers.

400 CHINESE IN THE WAKE OF AMERICANS

Columbus, N. M., Feb. 3.—More than 400 Chinese from the district in Mexico, abandoned by American troops, are on the border today. They will remain in American territory under guard, because of the exclusion law until they are able to return to Mexico.

Eleven refugees crossing the line are vaccinated and when deemed necessary given antiseptic bath with the fumigation of clothing. Blankets and food are distributed by the military authorities. Those in want, and a field hospital is being erected.

MANY FACTORIES CLOSED.

Shortage of Gas in Wheeling District Very Serious.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Nearly all the industrial plants in the Wheeling district were closed today and thousands were out of work as a result of the most serious gas shortage of the year. The domestic supply of gas is said to be only slightly affected. No relief is expected before Monday on account of the extreme cold weather.

"Knowing you to be a man of energy and civic pride, we would call your attention to a most worthy project that would benefit all the people of Fort Wayne—the St. Joe river improvement," says a letter sent out today to a large number of Fort Wayne citizens, including the active workers in the Y. M. C. A. subscription campaign.

The letter then goes on to say: "This improvement will give Fort Wayne a beautiful park, five miles long and an elongated lake or river, with boulevard drives on the east and west sides. In order that you may understand the merits of this undertaking, we invite you as our guest to take luncheon at the Commercial club at 12 o'clock noon, Wednesday, February 17."

The invitation is signed by the committee composed of William Breuer, Fred E. Shoaff, F. R. Rabe, A. J. Vose, E. E. Grist, W. F. Ranke, A. F. Melching and Henry Beadell.

Henry Beadell, speaking of the plans, said: "Four hundred acres, mostly donated by the farmers along the river banks, will form a great park. Pavilions, with swimming pools, and there will be provisions for baseball grounds, tennis courts and the like."

William Breuer, president of the St. Joe River Dam and Park association, invited the associated boosters to a great outing at the St. Joe river park, "one year from the coming summer."

Among the clergymen who have endorsed the project are the following: Bishop Henry H. Aldering, Rev. Jacob W. Miller, Rev. J. H. Oechtering, Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, Rev. H. P. Dannecker, Rev. C. J. Hummer, Rev. John R. Quinlan, Rev. H. L. Overdier, Rev. Charles H. Thiele and Rev. Philip Wambagana.

SOCIETY

Mrs. William Englebrecht has gone to Detroit to visit her son, who is living there, for a few days.

Mrs. W. A. Dittenderfer is going to Findlay, Ohio, on Monday for a week's visit with her brother and his wife.

Mrs. W. V. Bogart was hostess for the Wednesday Bridge club this week.

Miss Lillian Wilson, of Alexandria, is visiting Mrs. George A. Jacobs of Washington boulevard west.

Mrs. Jennie Lewis has returned from a several months' visit in Detroit with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Webb.

Miss Helen Gilmartin of West Taber street entertained the St. Vincent's Sewing circle on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. W. E. Merrill of West Berry street has gone to Toledo, O., for a visit and will likely visit in New York city, too, before she returns.

Mrs. Will Cole and son, Robert, and Maurice Parsell, of Angola, are guests of Mrs. F. M. O'Brien, of Hoagland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Dickey arrive from Winona Lake today for a Sunday visit with Mrs. E. A. K. Hackett and children.

Mrs. Frank Pink, of Allentown, Ill., arrives this evening for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles W. Sperry, of Fairfield avenue.

Mrs. S. C. Lombard, who has been in New York city and Garden City, L. I., visiting friends for a number of weeks, returns home the first of the coming week, probably tomorrow.

Mrs. Charles Hughes, of Rockhill street, entertained the members of the Fortnightly Sewing club this afternoon at an informal, but most delightful time.

Miss Lenore Moffat entertained the members of her class at Sunday school, of which Miss Pickard is the teacher, on Friday afternoon at her home in West Wayne street, at a social gathering.

Mrs. Chester Keel returned to Chicago on Wednesday, after a short visit here with relatives. Mrs. Keel was an honor guest at the large luncheon-bridge party given by Mrs. W. L. Pettit, Jr., and Mrs. John H. Vesey.

Miss Katherine Wilson, of Hoagland avenue, entertained the members of a club to which she belongs on Friday afternoon, and as each member had the privilege of inviting a guest, the company made twenty children who spent a merry afternoon.

The William Workers Aid society will meet on Tuesday with Mrs. Ed Davis as chairman. Mrs. Tom Campbell, Mrs. Ed Jones, Mrs. Dan Steger, Mrs. C. B. Notestine, Mrs. M. C. Hall, Mrs. J. Adams, Hadie Adams, Mrs. Ed Sterling are to be the hosts.

Mrs. J. W. Wischart left today for South Bend, where Mr. Wischart is to be located and will meet her. Mr. and Mrs. Wischart lived in this city for many years, but moved to Indianapolis a few years since. Mrs. Wischart has been the guest of Mrs. C. A. Horton for several days.

Mrs. John Hoffman, Mrs. H. L. Somers, Mrs. Earl Hershman, Mrs. W. O. Granger and Mrs. Edie Gull won the tournament prizes in the series of auction bridge conducted by the Women's Club, today, and closing this afternoon. Mrs. Henry Jordan was the fortunate player in Friday's game.

Ladies to make three tables at bridge enjoyed a happy afternoon with Mrs. Clark Gifford on Friday, and were presented with lovely bouquets of spring flowers at the time a luncheon was served. Roses decorated the dining room very prettily. The honors in the game were won by Mrs. Will Spalding, Mrs. Frank Laurens and Mrs. Gifflette.

One of the lovely parties to honor Miss Helenetta Loeffler was given at the home of Miss Lucile and Martha Vall on Friday afternoon, with the twenty-two members of the Seaside Regatta club as guests. The Misses Vall were assisted by their sister, Mrs. Ben Schwartz in entertaining. Yellow and white were the prevailing colors in decoration and appointments for the delicious supper.

Miss Emma Hauer, of Weissner Park avenue, entertained the members of the Merit club at her home on Thursday afternoon. For the luncheon the dining room was profusely decorated with red hearts, cupid and flowers. There were present Mesdames Frank Ritchie, Joseph Hanson, Forrest Arney, H. E. Brunner, Al Holworth, John Meyer, Ed Myers and Misses Carrie Kleener, Minnie Bengs, Minnie Myers and Emma Hauer.

Master Melvin Honeck, one of the city's talented boy students of the piano, gave a long recital entirely from memory in Packard hall last evening.

Having both intelligence and a natural feeling for musical expression and showing evidence of much and continuous faithful practicing this young player held his own in a remarkable manner, displaying a confidence and poise beyond her years. Miss Esther Stock played a duet with Mr. Honeck and it also was an example of memory work. The young man is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Honeck, and is a pupil of Miss Honeck.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Archer, former residents of Fort Wayne but in later years of Chicago, have returned here to make their home. To express their pleasure over the fact a few intimate friends called at the new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Archer, 617 Putnam street, to give them a house warming. The surprise came off on Friday evening and began with a dinner. Misses Flora and Georgia Miller were the chief instigators in the surprise and they were abetted by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. White, Miss Edith White, Mrs. Harriet Larimore, Mrs. Charles Moreland, Mrs. D. Delston, Mrs. Henry Rieke and Misses Maude Haag, Bertha and Elizabeth Hockmeyer, Bertha Rieke, Ruth Hiser and Esther Deister.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"For the Man She Loved"—Last Time Tonight.

"For the Man She Loved" the play which will be given at the Majestic last time tonight, is one of the modern type of melodramas which came into vogue a few seasons ago and have retained their popularity through a long line of successors of which "The Third Degree," "Told in Full," "Within the Veil," and "Common Clay," are among the most notable examples. Such plays base their appeal on the theory that a depiction of the emotional emotions of human nature in stage pictures that carry the illusion of reality induces ready sympathy in the average audience and if the emotional quality of such a play is backed up by a story that carries conviction, involving characters that are readily recognized as types in every-day life, it is very likely to have the favor and patronage of the public.

Clifford Hipple in New Irish Play Next Thursday.

Clifford Hipple and his company will offer for our delectation at the Majestic, Thursday, a typical Irish play of a high class, "Dream Girl of Mine." It is a romantic love story in the atmosphere of Colonial days, clear, bright and wholesome in its theme. It has to do with complicated love affairs devoid of mawkish sentiment or suggestive surroundings. It is a play of human appeal, dealing with the honest attraction of both sexes. "Dream Girl of Mine" is one of the best efforts of that clever dramatist, Rida Johnson Young, and it has stood the test of repeated presentation throughout the country. For "Dream Girl of Mine" in all the larger cities of the country. This season he has been succeeded by Clifford Hipple, a young romantic actor of the athletic type and said to be the handsomest man on the American stage today. In voice and manner he is well suited to assume the role of "Dare," well known in Ireland as the Patriot-poet. It is with this dashing young Irishman and his love affairs that we have to deal with in this play. Many and clever are the complications of plot and story, the working out of which offers an abundance of mirth, and serves to introduce to an audience Mr. Hipple in a number of Irish songs, adding much to the good effect of a laughable play well acted, and staged with special scenic effects originally used by Chauncey Olcott.

AT THE PALACE.

WINTER GARDEN REVUE.

McAle Moore Beauty Act Tops New Palace Bill.

The McAle Moore Beauty act, The Winter Garden Revue, will feature the bill for the first portion of the coming week at the New Palace. This dainty singing and dancing melody will be featured by Adele Jason, Anna Mac Bell and George Mason with the famous Winter Garden Girls. It is a typical Moore act exquisitely costumed and lavishly endowed with scenic architecture and plentifully embellished with pretty girls and catchy music.

"The Wife Saver" is the title of the little sketch in which Franklin Ardell and company will be enjoyed. A real estate agent sells some lots that are dry enough when the tide goes out but are under water when the tide is in. He's a cheater at home too, and when he arranges to meet another woman at Atlantic City, complications before ensue with laughable rapidity. Ruth Budd, a girl with a winning smile and a captivating voice, sings a group of comely character songs. Howe and Howe a couple of boys with a clever trick act in which one of them blindfolded reads dates on coins, numbers on bills, etc. Kipp and Kippy are a team of comely acrobatic jugglers. The Fillis Family with their high school leaping and dancing horses, led by Tango Mike, the horse with the ball room grace, complete this program.

The snappy quality bill headlined by the musical fantasy, "The Girl in the Gown Shop," with Victor Kahn in the principal comedy role, closes this evening. Included in this program are Patricia and Meyers, the greatest dancing team Fort Wayne ever enjoyed; O'Neil and Gallagher, the misfit couple; the Lewis Walker trio of strong leaved wire walkers; Jura, the little acrobatic maid with the violin, and Guy Rawson and Frances Claire in their dainty skill, Yesterday.

BY PROF. MARY E. SWEENEY.
(Dean of State University of Kentucky.)

It is not enough that the body should be supplied with the kind of food for repairing it, and with the kind of food to keep it warm and to give power to move. It must also have lime, iron and common salt to build up the cells and to keep them in good condition.

Bones and teeth are examples of the cells which require lime and which cannot be repaired without it. Milk and eggs are the best sources of lime for the body. Other lime-giving foods are buttermilk, prunes, beans, cottage cheese, celery, spinach, cauliflower.

Blood cannot be kept rich and red unless the body makes daily many millions of red blood corpuscles. In anemia, where people become pale and listless, the supply of red corpuscles is usually greatly reduced. Iron-giving foods are whole wheat bread, egg yolk, cabbage, oatmeal, dried beans, celery, spinach, lettuce, asparagus and green string beans.

Nerve and brain cells cannot be made unless a substance for building them known as phosphorus, is supplied in sufficient amounts in the food. This substance is most abundant in spinach, buttermilk, cottage cheese, asparagus, cauliflower, cucumbers and celery.

Some people buy lime, iron and salts at the drug store in various medicines. Others get them from fruits and vegetables. As a general thing our instincts may be relied upon to supply the organism with the necessary amount of common salt.

The human machine, like the steam engine needs to be kept clean. Cellulose, a substance familiar in the long strings of old celery, in lettuce and in cabbage, is not used by the body for food, but cleans out the digestive tract. Among the other vegetables containing cellulose are carrots, green corn, potatoes, parsnips, fresh beets, squash, lettuce and lima beans.

A day's meals should contain some meat or eggs or milk; starchy vegetables, bread, butter, one vegetable which gives iron and one vegetable or fruit which gives lime. The phosphorus is usually insured by the milk, eggs and cereals.

CAMPAIGN WORKERS IN BIG REUNION

Y. M. C. A. Boosters Get Together and Spend Evening "Reminiscing."

"Well, let's go."

It was E. L. Mogge, director of the whirlwind campaign for funds with which to erect a Young Men's Christian Association building conducted here May 16 to 26, last, speaking. It was a familiar expression and brought forth an outburst of noise Friday evening that for a time threatened to raise the roof of the Elks temple, the scene of the first reunion of the workers in that memorable campaign. Mogge always started his noonday meetings with "Well, let's go," and the boys always "went," with the result that more than $340,000 was raised in less than the required time. The reunion was in many ways similar to those famous noonday luncheons and everybody had such a good time that at the suggestion of General S. B. Beechler, of division B, a picnic of the workers is to be held six months later at which time the women workers will be guests. One of the features of this picnic will be a baseball game between teams selected from each of the divisions. Colonel D. N. Foster, of the park board, offered a band of thirty pieces to play on that occasion. Arthur H. Perfect called the meeting to order with some difficulty and after several attempts succeeded in introducing B. Paul Mossman as the toastmaster of the evening. To the surprise of everyone Albert B.

Thomas objected to the selection of Mr. Mossman, declaring that the toastmaster of the evening should be a member of one of the teams. He placed in nomination Henry Beadell and Mr. Beadell was finally selected. Mr. Beadell marched to the front of the banquet hall to assume the new honors that had been so unexpectedly thrust upon him and after a brief speech of appreciation sat down in a chair that had been specially prepared for him. Mr. Thomas again took the floor and suggested that Mr. Beadell should stand while presiding. About this time someone turned on an electric current, charging the chair. It goes without saying that Mr. Beadell arose sooner and jumped higher than he had expected. Mr. Mossman again took charge.

Sid World Beaters.
Mr. Mogge was first introduced. "Fort Wayne men and citizens are still world beaters," he declared. "I am glad to be back in the city they have the genuine brand of spizzurinum." Moving pictures taken during the campaign in this city were shown, after which Mr. Mogge finished his address, he urged the men to keep up the spirit and enthusiasm they had manifested during the campaign. "If this body of men will put their heads together for Fort Wayne you can have anything worth the having," he said in closing.

Toastmaster Mossman expressed regret at the inability of General Arthur P. Hall, of Division A, to be present. It was explained that Mr. Hall was in North Dakota. However, a large crayon picture of the general, attired in his fighting clothes, was unveiled.

E. W. Peirce Speaks.
E. W. Peirce, general secretary of the Fort Wayne Y. M. C. A., was introduced. Mr. Peirce said he had heard something of the boosters of Fort Wayne before he came here, but he declared that the half had not been told.

Among others who spoke were: Lee J. Nindo, Charles McCulloch, Col. D. N. Foster, E. J. Kilbourne, Harry Perfect, Albert S. Bond, William Brenner, Edward G. Hoffman and Rev. Arthur J. Folsom.

E. E. Stacy, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Indiana, said that without doubt three world records were broken in the Y. M. C. A. campaign in this city. First, total amount raised in cities of $0,000 and $0,000; second, the reaching of the goal two and one-half days ahead of the scheduled time, and third, the securing of 10,000 pledges actually signed.

Recites a Poem.
Captain Beadell recited a poem which he had written on the campaign conducted here and made a decided hit. The poem will be published later.

Mr. Perfect explained that the plans now being drawn call for a five-story and basement building, constructed along the most modern lines. When completed it will be one of the finest Y. M. C. A. buildings for a town of Fort Wayne's size in the country, he declared.

Mr. Mogge was accompanied to Fort Wayne by Miss Spill, secretary to Mr. Mogge, who assisted him during the campaign here. Miss Snell occupied a seat in the gallery.

Lowest Point Reached on Saturday Morning Was 4 Degrees Below.

Fort Wayne populace suffered greatly all day Friday. There was a reason. The thermometer hovered below the zero mark the entire day. At 3 o'clock Friday morning the temperature made a fall of 4 degrees and rested at the 3 below mark. During the night it grew colder and although it warmed up a trifle Friday there was never a time that the indicator rested above zero.

The temperature remained at 4 degrees below zero from 8 o'clock Friday evening until 4 o'clock Saturday morning. Then it started to get warmer and by 8 o'clock it had passed the naught and registered 1 degree above.

The forecast Saturday stated generally fair tonight and Sunday, with rising temperature. It is believed that the lowest point that will be reached by Sunday morning will be 10 degrees above.

CAPTIVATING MARY CARSTAIRS

A Modern American Romance By

Starts In Tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune

Tomorrow—in the color section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune—you'll find the opening installment of one of Henry Sydnor Harrison's best novels—"Captivating Mary Carstairs". Tomorrow you'll be given an opportunity to enjoy one of the season's literary treats—a delightful, modern American romance by the famous author of "V. V.'s Eyes" and "Queed".

"Captivating Mary Carstairs" is a story of today. It's full of life—love—action! It's founded on fact. That's what makes it different—and interesting. Mary is nineteen; she's beautiful; she's just the sort of girl all girls would like to be. She's ———— but let Henry Sydnor Harrison tell you about "Captivating Mary Carstairs"—in tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

In announcing the publication of the story—"Captivating Mary Carstairs"—we also announce a new method of illustrating it. Each illustration will be an actual photograph, posed for by models especially selected to portray the characters. The characters in this story have been brought to life and will be shown in photographic reality.

"Captivating Mary Carstairs" has never before been published serially. It will be presented for the first time serially in the Chicago Sunday Tribune—starting tomorrow. If you're a lover of real romance—if you've got red blood and a heart that can stand a throb—if you're interested in reading a story of real, ON-EARTH people—get tomorrow's Chicago Tribune and read "Captivating Mary Carstairs."

Zanesville, Ind., Feb. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Thelma Fisher spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Clarence Dukhammel, near Roanoke.

Mont Chaney, of Fort Wayne, is spending a few days with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. George Myers and son, Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Corll were callers in the home of Mr. Harley Myers, of Markie, Sunday.

Jasper Redding, living north of Zanesville, died Monday morning at 6:30, of heart failure. Mr. Redding was apparently in his usual health when he awoke Monday morning and went about doing his chores as usual. He suddenly fell over and expired before the physician arrived. Mr. Redding was 76 years old and had lived all his life in Lafayette township. He was twice married, his first wife dying a number of years ago. His second wife survives to mourn. There were no children to either union. Mr. Redding was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge of Zanesville. Funeral services were held Thursday at 10:30 o'clock in the United Brethren church, of Zanesville. The I. O. O. F. lodge with Rev. Beauchamp, of Waterloo, officiating.

Rev. Wisc, Rev. Conner and Rev. Sherrill are delivering some very interesting discourses at the union revival now being held in the Radical U. B. church.

Mr. and Mrs. Sim Weaver, O. A. Sink and Otto Scott motored to Fort Wayne Wednesday, to visit A. V. Scott, who has been in the Lutheran hospital for about three weeks, suffering from severe burns. He is reported improving rapidly.

A very critical operation was performed Tuesday upon John Prough by Dr. Graston, of Huntington, and Doctor Northup, of Markie. Mr. Prough has been suffering greatly for over two weeks from pleura pneumonia.

M. C. Hamilton is spending the week with his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Weaver, of Huntington, and his son, A. D. Hamilton, of Fort Wayne.

Ray Keyser and family, of near Sheldon, were the guests Wednesday of his mother, Mrs. Adeline Keyser.

Jewell Clark, who is employed in the electric works, at Fort Wayne, came home Wednesday, suffering greatly from lagrippe.

Mrs. Roy Hartup and son, Earnest, of Fort Wayne, are visiting this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Merchant.

Word has been received here that two of the children of Rev. Frakes, former pastor of the Christian church, of Uniontown, and well known here, died of diphtheria and that Mrs. Frakes is very low with the same disease. Mrs. Eliza Dennis and Chester Green went to their home to render assistance if possible.

HOLD SECOND ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP BANQUETNearly Three Hundred Attend Affair at the Y. W. C. A.

The second annual membership banquet of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the gymnasium of the association building Friday evening and attended by nearly three hundred members. Seven tables were spread, and at 7:30 a three-course dinner was served.

The banquet was finished at 9 o'clock at which time Mrs. B. Paul Mossman, president of the association, called the assembly to order for the program of the evening. Miss Maude Gwynn, the new girls' secretary, sang a solo, "The Queri." She was accompanied by Miss Viola Welty. Following this was the address of Mrs. Mossman as president in which she spoke of the progress of the association from the time when a new building was first planned.

After the address of the president the minutes were read by Mrs. J. R. Meriwether. Reports of all departments of the association followed. The year has been most successful in all the activities.

Miss Anna Louise Cole, general secretary, responded to the question, "What is the Y. W. C. A.?" A new conception of the object of the association was given and the way in which it endeavored to make its spirit felt for the betterment of the community felt was set forth.

WILL OPEN STORE IN KUNKLE BUILDING

R. H. Brothers, formerly manager of the G. W. Gates company, and who is now at the head of the R. H. Brothers Corporation Stores, returned from New York, N. Y., where one of the branches will be opened February 10. The company's new store in this city will occupy the Kunkle building, where the Central Grocery is now located, the latter to move to the new "Central" building at the corner of Wayne and Harrison. Mr. Brothers states that the Fort Wayne concern will make its bow to the public about April 10. It will be a palace of fashion, featuring ladies' and misses' ready-to-wear. This beautiful store will be distinctive for its interior decorations of ivory and ebony, also for its unusual show windows for which the contract alone has been awarded at the price of $4,400. Mr. R. H. Brothers and Mr. M. H. Ankenbrandt are the leading members of the new firm.

30 DEAD, 344 HURT AS ICE BREAKER EXPLODES

Petrograd, Feb. 3.—An explosion occurred on board the ice breaker "Tscheluskine" while the vessel was under way in the Gulf of Finland, according to an official announcement issued today. It is feared that about thirty persons lost their lives. Three hundred and forty-four persons were injured, fifty-nine of them severely. Fire spread to various parts of the wharf and damaged a number of buildings.

SPAIN ASKS GERMANY FOR TIME EXTENSION

Madrid, Feb. 3.—(Via Paris, Feb. 3.)—The government has telegraphed the central empires asking for an extension of time in which Spanish ships now at sea in the blockade zones can return to port. The cabinet met tonight to consider Spain's attitude in regard to the German note and King Alfonso will preside over another meeting which will be held tomorrow. The government is considering the establishment of a scheme for insuring Spanish ships.

CLASS IS INITIATED.
Our Home Lodge, No. 881, I. O. O. F., holds interesting meeting.

Our Home lodge, No. 881, I. O. O. F., held a very interesting meeting in their lodge room last night, where a large number of the members witnessed the conferring of the initiatory degree on a class of candidates. The state famous degree team of this lodge, which recently conferred the first, second and third degrees on a class of candidates at Winchester, Ind., has been authorized by the grand lodge of the state to confer the same degrees on a class of candidates at Columbia City, Ind., Feb. 28. All members are requested to be present next meeting night, business of importance.

BEAUME "COAL SHORTAGE."

Sailing of St. Louis Cancelled Until Sunday.

New York, Feb. 3.—The International Mercantile Marine announced today the postponement of the sailing of the American line steamship St. Louis from noon today until noon Sunday, "on account of a shortage of steam coal."

PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN NAVYFrench Expert Says Officers and Men Are Equal of Any.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Rear Admiral De Gouy, retired, of the French navy, paid tribute to the officers and men of the American navy in an interview on the submarine issue which he gave today to a correspondent of the Associated Press.

"Should Germany's new policy," said the admiral, "bring the United States into the European conflict American sailors may be depended upon to give a good account of themselves in fighting submarines which are now on the other side of the Atlantic or that may get there."

Admiral De Gouy has made a life study of French naval strategy and tactics with reference to Germany and is one of the best authorities on the subject. Some of his ideas, once rejected by the French navy, are now gaining favor, notably in regard to the more comprehensive action against submarine bases.

Speaking of the means adopted by the allies against undersea attacks the admiral said:

"Generalities are only admissible in talking of the means of defense and attack used by the allies in submarine warfare. We are even denied everything but surmises as to how German submarines have been captured or sunk. My impression is that your naval officers know all about defensive and offensive measures and none are more capable of making use of such knowledge. The ruthless campaign announced by Germany will make the deadlines of submarine more certain, more lives will be lost, and something added to material losses, but it cannot win the war. It will, in fact, have but a mediocre influence on the final issue."

"As for the announced blockade by submarines of such an extent of coast, it is a misnomer. Two thousand submarines would not be equal to the task of making the blockade effective in the sense of the term as formerly accepted and I calculate that Germany has something like 200 of these vessels. Only part of these, for obvious reasons, can at any one time be in service. The German government is quite aware of this and has much less confidence in submarines than the German people. It is the people alone who expect great things from them and who seem to have imposed their sentiments upon the heads of the government."

STAMP MACHINES IN ALL THE DRUG STORESAnti-Tuberculosis League Takes Another Step for Disease Prevention.

Through the efforts of the Anti-Tuberculosis league of Fort Wayne sanitary stamp machines have been placed in all the drug stores of the city. In the Wayne hotel, Kresge's 5 and 10 cent store, and the Interurban station. This is another step towards the prevention of spreading of the white plague and other diseases.

It is said that linking a postage stamp may be the first step towards a tuberculosis camp. The pathology department of the University of Pennsylvania states that a large per cent of the serious diseases are transmitted from one person to another through the medium of an innocent looking postage stamp.

The sanitary stamp machine takes care of itself. The purchaser is the first person to handle the stamps, so that there is no danger of contracting a disease which another person might have transmitted to it. The profit of the machine will go towards the fund of the Anti-Tuberculosis league. Four one cent stamps will be secured for five cents.

OVER FIRING CAUSES
TWO CHIMNEY BLAZES

Heavy firing against the below-zero blasts Saturday morning, caused two defective chimneys to ignite their bounding walls. Firemen answered alarms at homes of H. Gleige, 3104 Broadway, and E. O. Wagner, 306 Brackenridge. Damage in both cases were slight.

Third call of the morning was when a pile of coke at the Fort Wayne Gas company plant, corner of Superior and Barr streets, was accidentally set on fire. Firemen had little trouble in extinguishing the blaze.

POTATO SUPPLY CUT OFF.
Severe Cold Endangers Shipments Made to Berlin.

Amsterdam, Feb. 3.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger says that owing to the prevalence of low temperatures, endangering potatoes in transit, the supply for Berlin has been cut off. The municipality, therefore, the newspaper states, will be unable to distribute any potatoes next week and as a substitute bread flour will be distributed.

MEETING OF WILLING WORKERS.

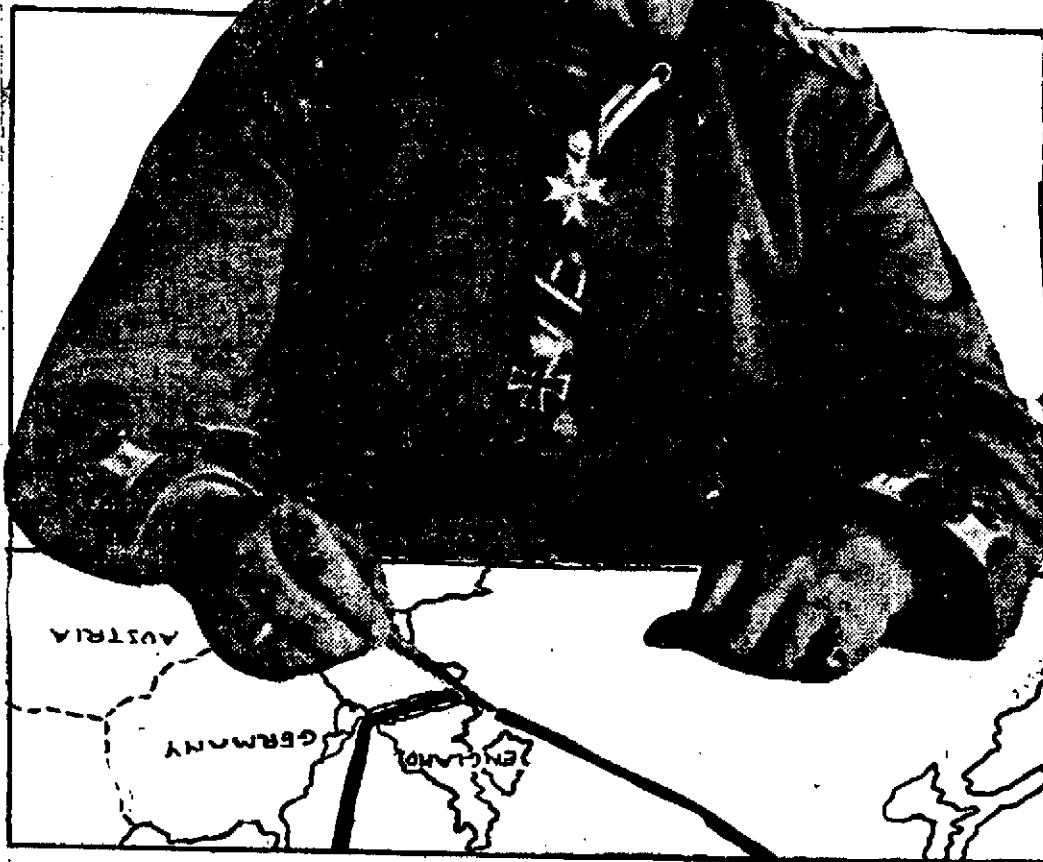

The regular meeting of the Willing Workers Aid society will be held at the home of Mrs. Ed Davis, 923 Liberty street, Tuesday afternoon.

THE MAN BEHIND THE NEW GERMAN BLOCKADE.

Gen. von Hindenburg is commander-in-chief of the German army, but it is said he is the man who conceived the idea of Germany's new campaign of submarine warfare.

This new campaign is regarded even more ruthless than any ever planned by von Tirpitz when he was head of the navy. Von Tirpitz was retired because, it is said, he favored continuance of U-boat warfare after Germany had made promises to the United States.

Admiral von Capelle is the new head of the German navy, but it is reported von Hindenburg went beyond him in putting through the new campaign.

FIFTY-THREE OUT
FOR CITY OFFICEWill Be Sixty Candidates Listed by Saturday Night.

Fifty-three had declared themselves as candidates for city office, before Saturday noon. One-fifth of that number will try for city judge.

Misunderstanding about the filing plan of J. B. Mills had caused his name to be omitted from the list until late Saturday. Mills had declared himself as a nonpartisan, in asking for place as councilman from the Sixth ward. Requirements are that a man be either republican or democrat.

Mills meant for his name to appear upon the republican slips although he is not a partisan man, he said. City Attorney Colerick assisted in adjusting the matter and Mills will appear as a republican candidate.

Gossip had been rife to effect that William Beade wanted to be mayor. It was pretty well understood on Saturday morning that he would file his name. Complications arising later in the day are thought to have brought bearing upon him, so that he declared at noon that he would not talk on the subject.

Office of the city clerk will remain open until seven o'clock Saturday night in order to allow citizens extra time in which to file their names. No filing will be allowed on Monday, the commission ordered.

List of candidates as filed with the county clerk, up until noon, Saturday, are:

For Mayor.
Democrat—Calvin Brown, William J. O'Rourke, Maurice Nizer.
Republican—W. S. Cutshall, George H. Loesch, William LaTourrette.

For City Clerk.
Democrat—Leroy H. Swartz, Otto Koehnig.
Republican—William T. Jeffries, Lewis Sharp, John E. Miller, Theophil J. Kucher.

For City Judge.
Democrat—Cleveland Schlatter, A. George Fleider, John C. Hoffman, Frank H. Klekamp, Henry J. Grabner, August C. Nierman.
Republican—J. Frank Mungovan, Hugh B. Olds, Robert A. Buhler, D. Burns Douglas.

Councilman-at-Large.
Democrat—Charles H. Young, Jacob Hartman, Charles W. Bilcer.
Republican—Fred D. C. Wehrenburg, Ben F. Bennett, Jacob Bill, Samuel Henline.

Second Ward.
Republican—E. M. Buchanan, H. A. Diem.

Third Ward.
Republican—Albert O. Pape.

Fourth Ward.
Republican—Tom Snook.

Fifth Ward.

Democrat—F. M. Trice, J. B. Mills.

Seventh Ward.
Democrat—Michael J. Rielly.

Republican—John W. Reynolds, Walter A. Felger.

Eighth Ward.
Democrat—Albert H. Keller, Frank H. Schramm.

Republican—Ralph Wilkening.

Ninth Ward.
Democrat—Peter A. Ditchel.

Joseph E. E. Till, Otto C. Schaphorst.

Tenth Ward.
Democrat—John Reichardt.
Republican—Charles A. Fissel, A. V. Houk.

INSPECTING SCALES.
City Sealer Is Making Round of Groceries and Meat Markets.

City Sealer Barry Tolan is in the midst of his semi-annual campaign of testing scales in all grocery stores and meat markets. With his round of the business houses about one-third completed, he has found no defective scales.

Tolan has experienced little trouble with grocers and meat dealers for several years, he says. All business houses of that nature vie with each other in an effort to install the latest types and most reliable scales. Tolan claims. He anticipates no trouble from finding poorly equipped scales.

"The business men do not want their scales to be out of order," Tolan says. "They realize that perfect scales are part of a good business policy. They know that short weight, like a lie, will lose out in the long run."

COMPLETING PLANS.
Firemen's Ball on February 8 Will Be Lively Event.

The "light fantastic" will be aided by the pastime of progressive pedro in making the firemen's ball, to be held at the Moose hall on Feb. 8, a feast of pleasure. Final plans are being made for decorating the big Moose hall for the first event of its kind in Fort Wayne.

Picture shows are aiding the campaign of ticket sales by announcing, day of charge, the wonders held out for the evening. All profits from the "ball" will be used for fund of the Fort Wayne Fire Department Mutual Benefit association, which has for its purpose the taking care of all injured and sick firemen.

Firemen announce that the "dear public" will receive more than opulent hospitality and a sense of aiding a good cause by attending the social affair.

Fix Confirmation Date.
Date for hearing of remonstrances on the confirmation of resolutions for paving twelve city streets is set for March 8 by members of the board of works. Resolutions for improving the streets were filed by the board on Thursday night.

Birth Record.

To Mr. and Mrs. Michael Potochi, 1335 Grace street—a girl.
To Mr. and Mrs. Elva Crandall, Ed-sall and Anthony boulevard—a boy.
To Mr. and Mrs. John C. Grossman, South Broadway—a boy.

To Mr. and Mrs. William Hasock, 1908 South Calhoun street—a boy.

Good Skating.

Three days of freezing has restored excellent skating on all the park lakes. Park Superintendent Getz has supervised cleaning of snow from the ice surface and for past two days there has been the constant merry chatter of hundreds of skaters in the parks.

Diphtheria.
Emma Lubkoski, 25, 2604 Finch street, suffers from an attack of diphtheria, health board has been notified.

Roads Congress.

Fort Wayne officials have been invited and urged to attend the seventh annual assembly of the American Good Roads congress at Boston, which opens next Tuesday and runs through remainder of the week. Mayor Hisey has been asked to appoint Fort Wayne delegates from among prominent road builders of the city. Speakers of international repute in the realm of road structure will address the gathering.

Every kind of road improvement implement will be on display.
Grafie is ill.

Fred Grafie, telephone clerk at police headquarters, is ill at his home, 1124 Fulton street. Patrolman Amos is substituting as clerk in absence of Grafie.

AMERICAN DIPLOMATS
QUIT GERMAN TASKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—American ambassadors, ministers and consular representatives in England, France, Russia, Japan, Rumania, Serbia, Greece, Egypt and Morocco were today instructed by the state department to suspend all activities in relation to the German interests which they have taken over and to await information to be conveyed through some neutral government to whom Germany wishes those interests entrusted. Thus comes to an end the great humanitarian work the United States has been doing in caring for German prisoners in those countries as well as the practical task of handling Germany's diplomatic interests.

ALTERS EAST LIMIT OF BLOCKADE ZONE

Berlin, Feb. 3.—The following official statement was given out here today:

"The eastern limit of the blockaded zone around England has been altered as follows:

"The line now runs from the point, fifty-two degrees thirty minutes north latitude, four degrees east longitude, across to the point fifty-six degrees north latitude, four degrees east longitude, to the point, fifty-six degrees north latitude four degrees fifty minutes east longitude. Otherwise the line remains as already announced."

GRAVE EXCITEMENT IS NOW DEVELOPING

London, Feb. 3.—The Berlin correspondent of the National Tidende, of Copenhagen, as quoted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent there, says:

"Grave excitement is developing among the German people in regard to the attitude of America and that all agree the worst period of the war has begun."

Ten members of the crew of the British steamer Esonite, previously reported sunk, were drowned. Lloyds shipping agency reported today. The captain and two men of the crew have been landed.

TWO GENERAL CONCLUSIONS.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Two general conclusions emerge from the mass of comment which continues to fill the columns of the newspapers in regard to the submarine question. The first is that upon the attitude of America depends that of the other neutrals. The second conclusion is that the German threat is a more bluff. Technical writers agree that Germany cannot have more than 130 to 200 submarines available with which, under the new regime, she can hamper still further, but not stop the sea going trade of the allies.

TAPS ARE SOUNDED FOR CIVIL WAR VETERANEverett C. Pierce Passes Away at the Age of Eighty-One.

Everett C. Pierce, a resident of Fort Wayne for nearly sixty years, died at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, 126 East Lewis street, at the advanced age of 81 years and 3 months. He came to this city in 1855 and later went to Wolf Lake, where he taught school for two winters. From there he went to Albion. During the war he served as lieutenant in company F, Thirtieth Indiana volunteer infantry. After the war he went to Massachusetts, where he learned the machinist's trade. He returned to this city and took employment with the Murray Machine company. In 1871 he was employed by the Pennsylvania company, where he remained until eleven years ago, when he was pensioned. He was married in 1865 to Miss Sarah Campbell, who survives him, as do three children: Mrs. Frank Girard, of Spokane, Wash., and Charles and Dr. H. W. Pierce, of this city.

DORLOT.

Mrs. Louise Dorlot, wife of Julius Dorlot, of 520 Masterson avenue, died at 3:45 o'clock Saturday morning at the family home following an illness of one week due to complication of diseases. Mrs. Dorlot was seventy-three years of age last Fourth of July. The deceased was born in Dolphin county, Pa., but had resided in Fort Wayne for over fifty years. She was a good Christian mother and devoted to her home. She was an ardent worker in the W. C. T. U. Mr. and Mrs. Dorlot celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last fall. Besides the husband she is survived by four children—Harry W., of Seattle, Wash., and Frank S., of this city, and Mrs. E. C. Meyer, of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. E. D. Schellmann, of Denver, Col. There are also five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mrs. Schellmann died at the bedside of her mother when she passed away.

The body was removed to the home of a son at 415 St. Martin's street.

GOODSELL.

Mrs. Jennie Goodsell, wife of Frank Goodsell, died Friday afternoon at the family residence, 1508 Hurst street, following an illness of one week, due to pneumonia. She was 42 years of age. She is survived by the husband and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. E. J. Kiefer, Springfield, Ohio; Mrs. John Vogt, of Toledo, Ohio; Miss Catherine Cannon, of Fort Wayne, and Joseph Cannon, of Elkhardt. Private funeral services Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence, Rev. Bair officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

JAMES B. WELLS DIES.

Father of W. S. Wells Passes Away at His Home in Harrisburg, Pa.
James B. Wells, father of W. S. Wells, of Park avenue, of this city, passed away at his home in Harrisburg, Pa., at the advanced age of 84 years. He was well known in this city, having visited here many times. The deceased was the original road foreman of engines of the Pennsylvania company. He was pensioned eighteen years ago. W. S. Wells left for Harrisburg Saturday afternoon to attend the funeral, which will be held Wednesday afternoon.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Ryerly.—Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Ryerly will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, standard time, at the residence in Lake township, and at 10:30 o'clock at the St. John Lutheran church in Lake township. Interment at the El River cemetery.

Lipes.—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Jane Lipes will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the residence, 634 East Washington street, Rev. C. H. Snashall officiating. Interment at Lindenwood cemetery.

O'Rourke.—Funeral services for Bridget O'Rourke will be held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the residence, 2210 South Hanna street, and at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Remains will be shipped to Crestline for burial.

THE COURTS.

Suit for Support.
Nellie M. Wilcox has filed suit against Harry Wilcox to collect $360 as support money. The couple was married Nov. 9, 1908. The plaintiff charges he treated her cruelly, striking, cursing and calling her vile names. It is charged he has failed to support his wife for two years. He abandoned her Jan. 22, 1917, it is alleged. P. B. Colerick is attorney for the plaintiff.

Notes of Court.
Notice has been filed with the secretary of state that the Julliholland Realty company of Fort Wayne has increased its common stock $100,000 and its preferred stock $100,000.

A. W. Grosvenor, county surveyor, has gone to Cleveland to consult with a government engineer regarding whether the St. Joseph river is navigable. This is preliminary to the letting of the contract for the construction of the new State street bridge, contract for which is to be let on February 8.

The Fort Wayne Outfitter's company has filed suit against Sarah Keldinger and Emil Serex to collect $784.25 in repayment.

Mrs. Myra Boyington Grube left Saturday for Chicago and South Bend in the interest of the Williamsburg mission to the Jews.

IS WOOD'S ADVICELafayette Man Tells How Americans Can Show Patriotism.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Representative William R. Wood, of Indiana, author of the "leak" investigation, made the following statement in regard to the German submarine edict:

"I feel it is a very serious proposition. I think that now is the time, when ever there was such a time, when each individual American should show his patriotism by his personal conduct, by permitting no act of his to be even the possible means of involving the country in war. Americans may have the technical right to go upon the armed merchantmen of belligerents, but in this time, if they do, they will show by their action that their spirit of defiance is greater than their feeling of patriotism. The United States, in my opinion, should be very slow in going to war over the conduct of such Americans."

Senator Kern said he regarded the situation as grave, but that the matter is in the hands of the president, and he believed members of congress should allow him to handle it without suggestions that might prove embarrassing.

Representative William E. Cox, of Indiana, said: "I am with the president and I intend to give him such support as I can. I hope for the best and hope there will be no war."

PREPARE TO SAIL
FROM PHILADELPHIAShipping Men Are Loading Their Craft There as Usual.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 3.—Despite the state department's advice that vessels flying the American flag and destined to foreign ports should postpone their departure, shipping men here today said that Germany's action in declaring for unrestricted submarine warfare had not caused them to change their plans in the least. Loading of steamers is proceeding as usual, they said, and as fast as the ships are ready they will sail.

Half a dozen boats with capacity cargoes obtained clearance papers yesterday and some of them were expected to leave today. Among the number is the American tanker, Goldsnel, with gasoline for Bordeaux and Rouen. Two torpedo boat destroyers were today patrolling the lower Delaware river to enforce neutrality regulations. One of them was stationed at the breakwater and the other below Wilmington. Their commanders had instructions to examine the papers of every outward bound vessel and to detain any that could not show proper clearance credentials.

Although officials at the Philadelphia navy yard refused to discuss the matter, indications were that the warships of the Atlantic reserve fleet were being made ready for sea duty. Great quantities of supplies have been placed in the holds of the battleships and mechanics were busy overhauling the machinery. The guard of marines at the yard has been increased and no one is allowed aboard the ships without special permission.

LOGICAL OUTCOME OF TIMIDITY OF NEUTRALSBrazilian Newspaper in a
Rap at Wilson and Own
President.

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 3.—The German declaration of unrestricted warfare, was the logical outcome of the timidity of neutral nations in the opinion of a Nolle. The paper says:

"Nobody will deny the act of Germany is perfectly legal in the face of the attitude of the United States, the strongest neutral nation, with regard to the preceding events. The German defiance is the logical consequence of the timidity shown by neutral nations."

The paper asserts that the German submarine campaign menaces neutral shipping, especially which it says will be unprotected while the allies will effectively shield their merchant ships. It concludes:

"President Wilson must abandon his equivocal position. Brazil cannot persist in its feeble and humiliating attitude. The nation demands that President Wenceslau Braz protest against the action of Germany."

NOTED RIVER MAN DEAD.

Capt. Frederick Kimple Also Prominent in Racing Circles.

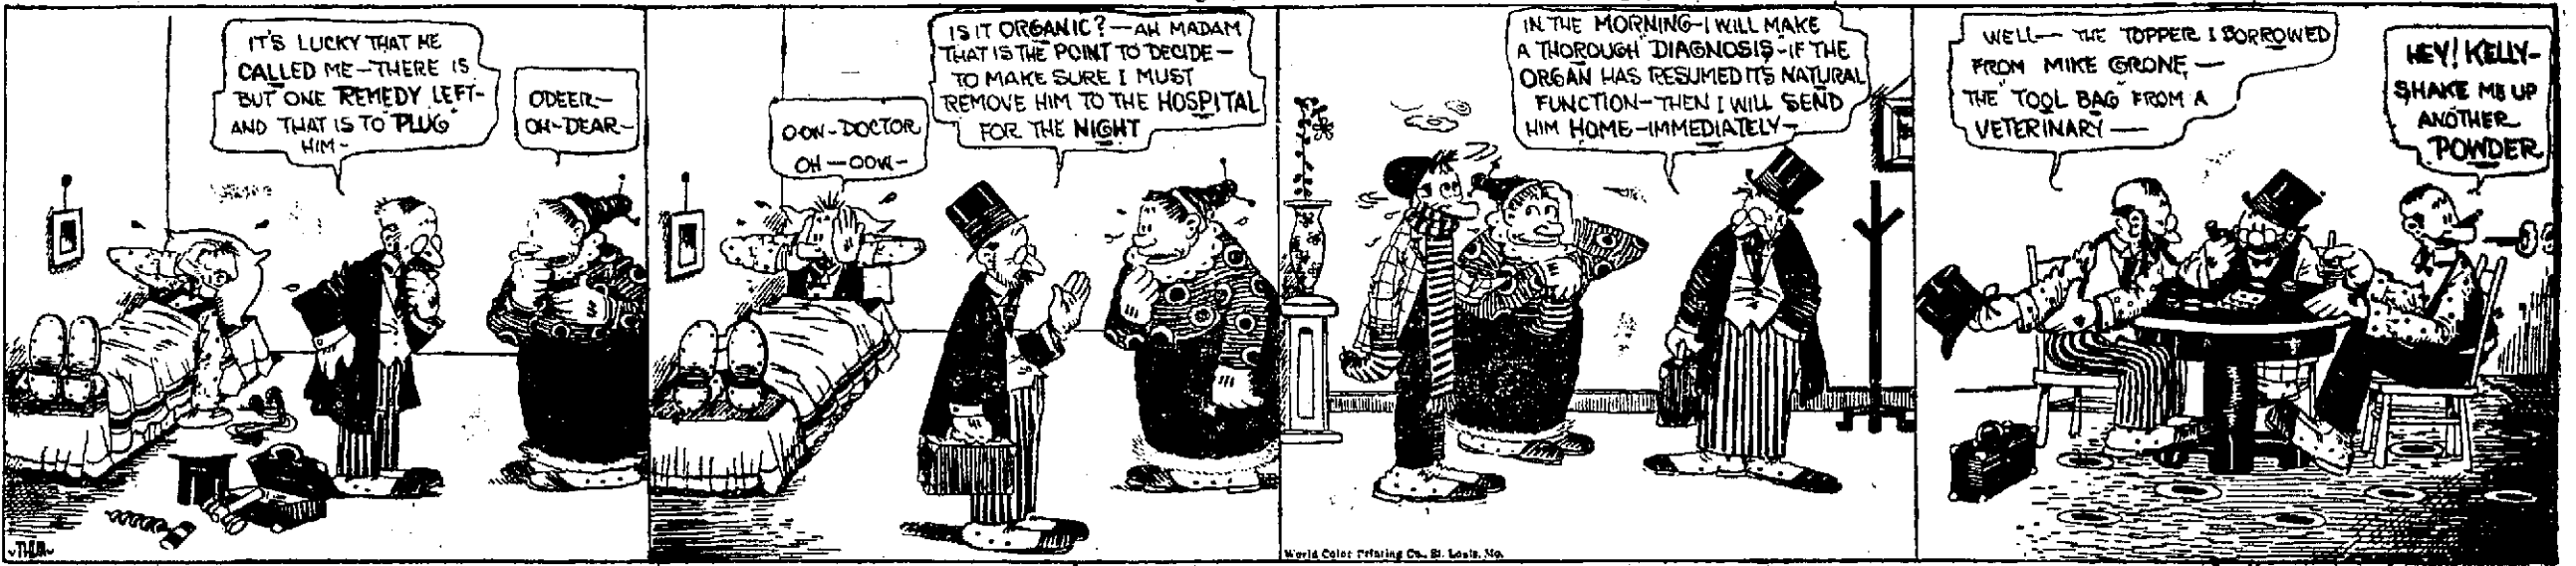

Moundsville, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Captain Frederick Kimple prominent river man and widely known in racing circles, is dead at his home here at the age of 64 years. Captain Kimple formerly owned a number of Ohio river packets.

TWO MORE TORPEDOED.

Madrid, Feb. 3.—(Via London)—The Spanish ship Blon have been torpedoed and sunk by the German submarine U-67. Two Spaniards were drowned in the sinking of the Blon. The rest of the crews of both vessels were landed.

In a game which was a marvel of speed and clean playing the Defiance and Concordia varsities met last night at the Concordia gym with the local students winning by a count of 39 to 21. Although the Concordians were more successful in their basket shooting, their team play and floor work was no better than that of the visiting students, and as a result the game was always interesting. These two schools have been rivals on the basketball court for several years, but in the last four or five years Concordia has been taking the games consistently. The Concordians, through Schiff, started the counting and never lost the lead. Defiance had all sorts of trouble trying to find the cages during the first half and the score at the end of this period was 21 to 6. It was not until near the end of the last period that the visitors found themselves in regards to shooting the goals and then they went like well-lubricated lightning. At this time they drew up within five points of the Concordians. The locals started to pull away, however, and were soon out of danger again. Heine and Henrichs were in the line-up in place of Wacker and Metzdorf last night and both played mighty good basketball. Schiff played to be the individual star of the game, shooting baskets from all sorts of difficult angles.

In the preliminary the College Seconds staved a walkaway by a score of 30 to 13, winning from the Arrows. Schuessler starred for the Seconds. Although the Arrows worked hard they were outclassed in every department. The line-ups and scoring:

TENNIS ASSOCIATION
WILL DISCUSS RULING

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Objections of the middle west to recent changes suggested in the by-laws of the United States National Lawn Tennis association will be discussed and perhaps acted upon at the annual meeting of the Western Lawn Tennis association to be held here Monday, February 5. The meeting was called for yesterday, but inability of a quorum of members caused postponement. One subject of particular interest is the suggestion of the national association that the amateur rule be made more stringent following the lead of the governing body of golf in disbaring from amateur competition any one who capitalizes his athletic prowess in any way.

Expressions of individual members of the western association have indicated that President L. Harry Wagner, who will represent the association at the national meeting in New York, February 9, will be instructed to oppose the strict ruling imposed by the national executive committee and to favor a compromise suggestion. Western players have indicated approval of the suggestion advanced by E. Norris Williams II, national champion, that only those players who hereafter enter the sporting goods business on the strength of their tennis reputations be designated professionals. Officers of the western association will be elected Monday.

JACK MONROE'S FAMOUS RIGHT WILL NEVER WORK AGAIN—WAR GOT HIM.

BY PAUL PURMAN.

Jack Monroe, whose name will go down in pugilistic history as the only man who ever knocked Jim Jeffries off his feet when Jeff was in his prime will never bounce his right first off another jawbone.

Jack has just returned from Europe, where as a member of the famous Princess "Pat" regiment, he received wounds in his shoulder which paralyzed his right arm. Monroe joined the crack Canadian regiment a few days after war was declared and was the first Canadian soldier to set foot in France, leaping from the boat before it reached the landing and swimming to shore.

While his regiment was rapidly decimated in early engagements in Flanders, Monroe escaped serious wounds. But last fall a piece of shrapnel buried itself in his shoulder, permanently disabling him.

After his convalescence Monroe started from England but was delayed between boats in Liverpool, when his collar, "Bobbie Burns," mascot of the Princess Pats, became separated from him on the docks. Monroe hunted for the dog for two days and took the next boat.

Monroe's career in the ring was meteoric. He first achieved fame in December, 1902, when he met Jeffries in a four round bout at Butte, Mont. Jeff was meeting all comers in four round bouts, and paying a forfeit in case he did not knock them out.

Jeff had been so successful that he became careless and when he met Monroe he left an opening which the Pennsylvania giant was not slow to take advantage of. In the fourth round he caught Jeff on the point of the jaw and

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

Many State Legislatures Training Heaviest Guns on Liquor Traffic

Twenty-three states, whose legislatures are in session, have passed, or are practically certain to pass, laws advocated by the enemies of the liquor traffic.

Wyoming has, by unanimous action of the legislature, submitted prohibition to a vote of the people. The election will be in 1918 and the law will go into effect January 1, 1920, if approved. It is asserted that a prohibition statute would pass the Wyoming legislature by a good majority.

The Tennessee legislature has enacted four laws which, according to the Nashville Tennessean, "give complete and final victory to the prohibitionists." One law prohibits the so-called "locker system," one prohibits the receiving of orders for liquor to be shipped in; another closes the wholesale liquor houses which have been permitted to distribute liquor to other states; the nuisance law is perfected and bootlegging is made a felony on second offense. A "bone dry" law prohibiting the importation of liquor for any beverage purpose has passed first reading in both houses and will almost certainly become law.

The Iowa legislature is proceeding to the submission of a prohibition amendment to reinforce its present statutory law and it is very possible that the amendment submitted will be "bone dry."

The governors of Mississippi and Georgia are considering the advisability of calling extra sessions of the legislatures of those states to pass laws prohibiting liquor importation.

Similar measures are under consideration, with strong probability of passage in Colorado, Kansas, North Carolina, South Carolina, Washington, and West Virginia. In the last-named state the shipping in of liquor is already prohibited, but at present it may be brought in. In North Carolina and South Carolina other stringent enforcement measures are having comparatively easy sailing.

The Delaware legislature, which is in session, will probably submit prohibition for the one remaining wet county, which includes Wilmington; the Illinois legislature is facing a fight for submission of state prohibition; while in Indiana a straight contest for a dry state has just been fought and won. In Minnesota and Missouri state prohibition is under consideration, with the odds in its favor in the former state. In New Mexico the prohibitionists are in absolute control. Oregon is proceeding to the passage of a "bone dry" measure approved by the voters at the last election; South Dakota will pass a very drastic law, with the "bone dry" feature the only thing in doubt. Utah will pass a prohibition law which is exceedingly strong and the Texas legislature is under mandate to submit the question for a vote in July. Even in Wisconsin the prohibitionists are beginning to wax strong and aggressive.

The man in public life who votes for the liquor traffic or who votes against a constructive prohibition measure is tying his future to a dead body.

Gospel Life in Prophetic Days

It is a mistake to imagine that the gospel spirit had no existence until the gospel was preached.

What the preaching of the gospel did was to make conspicuous the gospel spirit.

Isaiah was a gospel prophet who lived several centuries before the gospel was preached, and he wrote gospel history as it were before the history had transpired.

Here and there throughout Isaiah's writings gospel light may be seen flashing and the gospel life developing amidst the darkness of the ancient days.

Here is one bright passage: "They helped every man his neighbor, and every man said to his brother, Be ye of good courage."

Here we have pictured the true gospel spirit and language. Every man helping his neighbor, and every one encouraging his brother.

There is no earthly ideal higher than this. To realize it is to illustrate the Christ-life in the most practical way.

In the parable of the good Samaritan the world is taught what a "neighbor" is.

A neighbor is the next needy person you can succor.

In the four gospels the world is taught what a "brother" is. A brother is any man who needs encouragement.

The gospel ideal whether old or new is that of helping a brother and cheering a brother.

The ideal can be realized when "every man" does this.

It costs little to speak a gladdening word, and that word may be worth a world to some fainting heart.

WHY I KEEP WELL.

(By J. M. McClellan.)

In point of importance, next to the soul is the body. The body is the home of the soul. The relation between the two is mysteriously blended. Each needs the other. Each is influenced by the other. The soul is I; the body is mine; it is the home where I live.

One should keep well because it is far more delightful than to be sick. A sick person cannot be happy—no, not even contented. Many grumble and complain, not because there is really anything to find fault with, but simply because they do not feel well. I have letters in my possession that did not come from the heart, as I verily believe, but from overworked nerves. They misrepresent those who sent them.

I also keep well because it gives me more will power, and in dealing with young men one needs no little. Many who come to me have never known obedience. When little boys, they grew up to have their own way and to do as they pleased. Kindness, of course, is always in order; but it will not do at all to show weakness of will power, or things will go bad, and from bad to worse.

Again, I try to keep well because I can do so much better work and a great deal more of it; not only so, but it becomes a delight instead of a burden. When well, I can push my work instead of letting it drive me.

I want to keep well because I "love life" and want to "see good days." God gives us life that we may enjoy it and be happy. The Creator never intended that we should get soured on the world generally and go about with a chronic frown, but that we should "make the world brighter with a smile." In view of such reasons as these, can you wonder that I make some effort to keep well? Rather, the wonder is that every one does not give more attention to the care of the body, God's temple.

The Real Life Beyond.

A thousand times—yes, every perilous moment—God saves us from dying. There is a moment on the way for every one of us when that preservation will be possible no longer.

We shall pray, O Father, spare him; let him live! And then the answer which is looked for will not come and he who has been so often saved from dying, at last will die.

Will it be a sign of God's forgetfulness? If so, then God has forgotten all his children, and let them, every one, either in childhood or as life-worn veterans, slip through his careless hands; for they all have "died" or will die.

But no; if, as we know is true, the real life lies beyond, and can be reached only through death, then the old miracles are nothing to this new one.—Phillips Brooks.

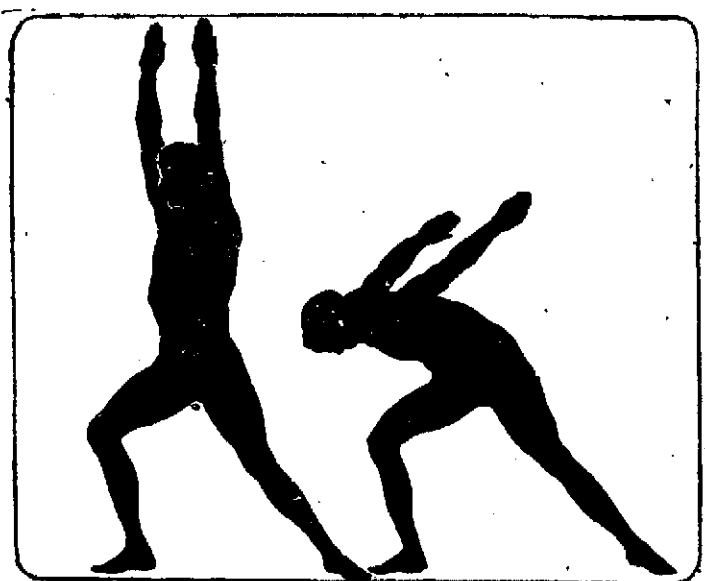

WHAT WE SHOULD SEEK.

We should seek to make our lives straight, and true, and beautiful, and beautiful, because that is what they were meant to be, just as a tree grows upright, and broad, and leafy, because it is the natural thing for it to do. Think how deep it must send its roots to draw nourishment for all that verdure—how wide and free its arms are spread to catch the health-giving air, and sun, and rain! This is what you should be—always ready to draw good from whatever of the good and beautiful is around, above, beneath you.—Helen B. Bostwick.

A THING FOR USE.

Religion is for every day. Its blessings and benefits, its comforts and sweet consolations, its guidance and its inspiration are for the commonplace men and women. It is something to take with one, something that will never be out of place anywhere, something that will add to life's joy its best touch of sweetness, and will mix with all life's sorrows, hope and courage and power. A man who has every-day religion in good, whose every-day life is easily affixed to without a good many other things.—Christian Guardian.

Uncle Sam Tells How You May Become Strong

Army officers pick the following exercise as a model for straightening the back and strengthening the abdominal muscles:

Bend trunk forward and swing arms downward and upward, as at right.

Resume first position, then attention.

HOLINESS IN JOY.

Holiness is the abolition of sin, and the enthronement of God. It is harmony, it is health, it is union, it is victory, it is joy unspeakable and full of glory.

It is the work of the Holy Ghost, begun in pardon and adoption, made complete through body, and soul, and spirit in the maturity and fruitfulness of an obedient heart and consecrated life.

The power of holiness is the eternal God. The way of holiness is straight and leads to the cross. The testimony of holiness convicts the sinner. The fruit of holiness is love. The test of holiness is hard work and real sacrifice for the salvation of the bodies and souls of men. Its watchword is "otherness."

If holiness is possible anywhere to any one, at any time, it must be possible everywhere to every one, and at the time, therefore to you and just now. Desire it above everything else. Seek it above everything else. Pay the price marked on it. Nothing less than the sum total to your all, and begin now to believe God is true, and you shall have it. He is faithful. I have proved it.—W. Bramwell Booth.

THIS IS MY FRIEND

Let me tell you how I made His acquaintance.

I had heard much of Him, but took no heed.

He sent daily gifts and presents, but I never thanked him.

He often seemed to want my friendship, but I remained cold.

I was homeless and wretched and starving and in peril every hour, and He offered me shelter and comfort and food and safety, but I was ungrateful still.

At last He crossed my path, and with tears in His eyes He besought me, saying, "Come and abide with me."

Let me tell you how He treats me now:

He supplies all my wants.

He gives me more than I dare ask.

He anticipates my every need.

He begs me to ask for more.

He never reminds me of my past ingratitude.

He never rebukes me for my past follies.

Let me tell you further what I think of Him:

He is as good as He is great.

His love is as ardent as it is true.

He is as lavish of his promises as He is faithful in keeping them.

He is as jealous of my love as He is deserving of it.

I am in all things His debtor, but He bids me call Him friend.—From an Old English Manuscript.

BIGNESS OF LITTLE THINGS.

It is said that the fuchsia was first introduced into England by a sailor boy, who brought a single plant from some foreign country as a present for his mother. She put it in her modest window, and it became an attraction to all who passed by. From that little plant came all the fuchsias in England. The boy did not know when in buying thought for his mother, he carried home the little plant, what a beautiful thing he was doing, what a ministry of good he was starting, how widely the influence of his simple thought of love would reach. We never know when we do our smallest thing in love for Christ what the end of it will be, what a harvest of good will come from it.—Westminster Teacher.

THE FAMILY ALTAR.

What has become of the family altar? Have its fires died out? If so, what has taken its place? Recently I read a sermon by Rev. C. M. Sheldon, of Topeka, Kan., in which he says: "Within the last five years I have met thousands of ministers of different denominations, and almost without exception they deplore the fact that the old habit of family worship has gone out of nearly all the homes in their parishes." It was the custom once; now I seldom enter a home where it is kept. What is to be expected of children reared in homes where there is no altar and where they never hear father and mother pray?—Miss S. E. Lyle.

Church is More Attractive to Some Than Even the Movies

(By Rev. Charles Stebbins.)

Perhaps you too have said that when they make the church as attractive as the movies or a base ball game, then you'll go to church.

Well, the chances are you'll never go to church—assuming that you mean the church must be as attractive in the same way that the movies and base ball are.

Did you ever stop to think that there are literally millions of people who go to church, but who never go to a movie show or a base ball game? And most of them like fun and life as much as you do.

But somehow they look to the church for every phase of their social life. These people must have found something in the church which has taken the place of movies and base ball.

What do you suppose it is? Well, in the first place, they have discovered that the biggest thing in life is not GETTING, but GIVING.

They have come to realize that Jesus was right when he said: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

You may laugh about this as much as you choose, but it's true, and these people have seen it. And the giving here referred to means not merely money, but, principally, personal service for others.

Then they have discovered that life is not all fun. If you insist that you will never patronize an institution that is above the level of the movies and base ball—why, the movies and base ball for you—that's all. And this is said with a full appreciation of the real value of both; for they are mighty wholesome in many ways.

But once in a while there's a longing in every man's soul for something more substantial than movies and base ball—something that will satisfy one's heart-hunger. These people have apparently found it in the church.

Furthermore, going to church gives one a broader outlook on life, bringing one into touch with world movements, so that the narrowness which is the curse of most men is largely overcome.

Making the church as attractive as the movies and base ball would not be very hard to do, if that's all the church wanted to accomplish. But the church is after bigger business—and it's getting the biggest men and women in the country interested in its program.

This is worth considering when you think about the difference between the church and the movies.

THE SEARCH FOR VIRTUES

Do you ever meditate on the good points and fine qualities of those about you and with whom your fortunes are cast?

The occupation is productive of much quiet happiness to yourself as well as of good to those on whom your attention is exercised.

For nothing rejoices the mind like the contemplation of virtue, and you can not be indifferent to one who has afforded you that pleasure. Moreover, to contemplate the good gifts and faculties of another, you must first have the desire to seek and the willingness to appreciate them. The great heroes of these and other times furnish ready examples of virtue, which leave nothing for you to do but join in the general acclaim of wonder and approval. Such a one is brave, steadfast or skillful—you would travel some distance to see him. Another is wise—you would hear him speak. This is second-hand contemplation of virtue, but it is thrilling at that! You accord hero worship to a soldier, a politician, a philosopher, whose performances on the battlefield in the offices of statesmanship or the world of letters have brought him into world renown, and the very fact that he is known to have these virtues and accomplishments, inspires your applause. If then you can readily admire virtue in those whom you have never seen, how much more profitable to seek and recognize it near at hand! You would then have all the advantage which a knowledge of the trials and obstacles overcome and the bearing of immediate circumstances could command.

One is of cheerful disposition against the odds of poverty and illness; another courageously persistent in the face of constant failure, another is generous, another helpful, another studious, prompt, even tempered, just, faithful or lacking conceit. In the process of picking out, discriminating and comparing the virtues of one with another, you will unconsciously disregard faults or balance them with virtues and finally excuse them altogether. When you know a man to be helpful, considerate and kind, how can you demand that he be wise? Or if he is wise, how readily you absolve him from petty faults! Four judgments have become more sound and balanced; in fact, so merged with appreciation that it has almost ceased to be judgment at all.

The direct benefit of this daily practice is your altered manner toward those under your consideration. For you can not contemplate a man's virtues separately and distinctly, acknowledging them to yourself, without an increase of respect for him. You must treat such a one according to his deserts. To a kind man you will return kindness, to a just man justice and be as generous as you can toward that one in whom you have remarked particular generosity. Also you are bound to be true to something of that new admiration you have for his special virtue, and he will not long be unconscious of your appreciation.

Becomes scientific when you are capable of finding them in persons you have hitherto regarded as possessing only faults. Look for a man who appears arrogant. Perhaps he is easy to find. What do you know of him? Are you entirely acquainted with his life, his habits, his struggles, his ambition and therefore competent to judge him correctly? If not, be cautious in dealing with his case. You may have the golden opportunity, which this practice affords, of overcoming a prejudice here.

Search until you find at least one solitary virtue. When you have found it at last and its possessor has become aware of your discovery, see if that former arrogant does not dwindle away. It is possible that his pride was only an attempt to conceal the consciousness of being misunderstood. The search after virtues, among your acquaintances, will be full of delightful surprises, for even as you look they will spring up faster than you can count them.

THE HOME.

By J. W. Hedgepeth.

The home is the builder or destroyer of nations.

The home is largely responsible for the making or unmaking of men.

Parenthood is imposed with a responsibility measured by life and multiplied by eternity.

The standards of home life today will be the basis of the standards of the people the next generation. The moral and religious principles inculcated in the children by example and precept today will largely be lived out, though no doubt ruined by the men and women of the next generation.

The home today will furnish men for the ministry, for the professions and avocations of life to take up the work of the men of today when they are forced to retire. The home will furnish women who will lead society, who will preside over the home and who will be forced to accept the responsibility of motherhood. We, of this day, owe it to humanity to prepare the boys and girls for the new duties which will be imposed upon them in due time. We owe it to the children to instill within them the highest thoughts and erect for them the highest ideals.

The home is the place a child gets his first primary lessons in life. It is where the framework of character is built and where he is taught that after that he must complete a well-rounded life. It is where the seed of morality and religion are planted and nurtured in the hearts of the adolescent, or where these virtues are choked out by impressions for good or bad that may seal his destiny.

Parents, for the love of the dear ones entrusted to your care by the goodness of God, for the love of humanity in general, for the sake of posterity, wake up to your duty!

Give them an education, for that is necessary to mental development; give them wholesome food, plenty of fresh air and exercise, for that is essential to health and physical development; teach them to be temperate in all things, for that is in keeping with the constructive principle of nature; but after you have done all this do not make a blunder that is frequently made, and which is tragical in effect, by omitting from your "Menu of Child Training" the fundamental principle of life, all other virtues being in-

THREE KINDS OF PEOPLE.

There are three kinds of people in the world, the wills, the won'ts and the can'ts. The first accomplish everything; the second oppose everything; the third fail in everything.—Electric magazine.

HENS AND MISSIONS.

Two dozen hens, bent on business, will scratch up more mission money in a year, than many churches with fifty to one hundred members. And hens are not Christians, either. Christians ought to do as well as hens.—J. B. Gambrell, D. D., in Baptist Standard.

GEMS OF TRUTH.

Politicians will not regenerate the world.

Heaven would be a failure if Satan had charge of it.

It is a wonderful thing that Jesus has come into history.

I have no right to surrender my freedom unless overpowered.

Christianity comes to make men brave, to make nations mighty.

There can be no grand national life without courageous citizenship.

Lucifer was cast from the skies because he became a corrupt politician.

God endorses government, but he does not always endorse the governors.

The best conditions for business are found in the midst of universal integrity.

Correct principles executed by upright men, is the only safeguard of the nation.

It is evident when we look out on the world that the millennium has not yet come.

The brain power of the world is Christian brain power, in every sphere of activity.

Man should be not only holy, but great while he is holy, and greater because he is holy.

Let the tongue be palsied that would charge the gospel with making men craven-hearted.

There is nothing in learning, to whatever extent it is carried, that puts a check on ambition.

The question, How can this world be reformed? cannot be answered with this Bible closed and changed.

The divine law, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," is realized in the spirit and life of but few human beings.

If the teachings of the gospel were imbedded in our lives so as completely to dominate all the forces this would be a perfect world.

Take the sun out of the solar system

Winter Colds Are Often Caused by Wrong Sort of Dress

Overdressing is to blame for more colds and other common winter diseases than a lack of warm clothing.

The school child, especially is apt to be overdressed. If it were to be out of doors from the time it left home until it returned, the usual smothering with clothes would not be so bad. But it gets to school, plays violently and rushes into the school building too late to properly take off its garments. Many children wear rubbers and leggings until recess. The child soon shows the effects of uncanceled body changes by sweating feet, running nose and other hot house symptoms.

The same thing is true of elder people to a lesser extent. Clothes are no longer chosen for their warmth or coarseness, but for their appearance. Durability is no longer a virtue. Style comes first. This is another reason why there are so many winter colds.

For this season of the year the body should be covered from neck to ankle with one layer of the same material. This is best accomplished by the union suit. Stockings of similar texture should be worn, and thick soled shoes.

The sole of the foot is one of the most delicate parts of the body. It must be protected against sudden changes in temperature.

One should dress according to the kind of atmosphere in which he works or lives. The weight of the coat or cloak should be governed by outdoor conditions.

Exposure of the upper part of the body, notably the chest or back, is apt to affect the breathing apparatus—first the bronchial tubes and then the lungs.

Exposure of the neck and chest is less dangerous than the exposure of the back, because the lungs do not lie so close to the chest wall as to the back. The circulation through large vessels that lie in the chest also prevents sudden congestion of the lung tissue.

That is why many women can wear long neck dresses with impunity in the coldest of weather. This is also partly made possible by the changes that take place in the skin that is continually exposed to sun, heat and cold.

The hands and face are constantly exposed to the air and it is not often that their exposure lowers a person's vitality.

Contagious diseases are more common in winter than in summer because winter is the season of the year when we live in closest contact with our fellows.

Beginning with fall, we stay indoors too much. We eat heavily, take little or no exercise, keep windows and doors closed against the light and fresh air, muffle our bodies in heavy clothing and invite disease.

It is true that most diseases are caused by germs, but if the system is kept healthy and vigorous by sufficient resisting power to overcome the germs. It is as a rule, when the body has become weakened that it becomes a prey to these germs.

Among the causes that destroy man's power of resistance may be mentioned lack of proper food, exhaustion from overwork, loss of sleep, poverty, overcrowding, dirt, ignorance, impure milk and water, abuse of alcohol, lack of sunshine and fresh air, indoor life with sudden exposure to cold, mechanical injury, constitutional disease or any unhygienic way of living.

As a result of our irrational living our mouths have become the breeding place of dangerous bacteria. Germs of diphtheria, tuberculosis, pneumonia, and probably whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever and other ailments have their homes in our mouths and noses.

They are thrown out in the air and spread in the act of sneezing, coughing and spitting.

The unventilated street car is one of the largest factors in the spreading of disease. In these usually at the approach of winter the windows are sealed down so that it is almost impossible to open one. In some cars the only way that foul air can get out or pure air get in is through a small opening at the top.

Howard Lanaster, commissioner of health of St. Paul, Minn., declares that ninety per cent of all respiratory diseases are caused by poorly ventilated street cars during the winter months.

DROWNED IN OIL IN TURNABLE PIT

Hurl Shafer Falls Unconscious With His Face in the Fluid.

Hurl Shafer, 19 years old, was drowned in the turntable pit at Peru Thursday in a most peculiar manner. He operated the turntable and had left it to open a door to the roundhouse to admit an engine. Comrades missing him some moments later, started a search and found his dead body in the turntable pit, with the face submerged in a few inches of oil and water in the drain of the pit. Shafer struck his head against some part of the turntable when he fell, rendering him senseless, and in that condition fell with his face in the water and drowned. An examination revealed the fact that the wound which made him unconscious was not serious in itself and would not have proven fatal. The young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shafer, his father being employed as stationer engineer at the roundhouse. The funeral will be held tomorrow and several Fort Wayne people will attend it. Hurl Shafer was known to all the engineers and firemen on the Peru division of the road and by many other employees of the company and his sad fate was a shock to those who heard it.

HOWARD COLMEY TO C. & N. W.

Howard Colmey, a member of the corps of Division Engineer Guy Scott of the Pennsylvania, has resigned and accepted a position in a similar capacity with the Chicago & Northwestern, with headquarters at Chicago. The young man is a graduate of Purdue university. For several years he was out of railway work at the request of his father, the late C. R. Colmey, and during that period he conducted a store on Calhoun street.

FOR CITY JUDGE

Frank H. Kleckamp, democratic candidate for nomination of city judge at the primary election, Feb. 14, 1917, respectfully solicits your support at the polls.

With a law training at Notre Dame university, and a graduate of the University of Michigan law school, and an active member of the Allen County Bar association for more than twenty-four years, a householder and taxpayer, Mr. Frank H. Kleckamp feels himself especially fitted to discharge the duties of city judge. —Advertisement.

TO RUN FOR COUNCIL FROM NINTH

DICK ORR.

Dick Orr, republican candidate for the nomination of councilman of the ninth ward has lived in Fort Wayne all his life and has resided in the ninth ward for the past fifteen years. He has always taken a great interest in the welfare of the ward which he is seeking the opportunity to represent in the city council.

Mr. Orr is a young man 32 years of age, is married and has two children and at the present time lives at 1314 Wells street. After attending the public and Fort Wayne high schools, Mr. Orr was employed for six years at the Coverdale & Archer grocery and for the past 10 years has been a bread salesman for the Perfection Biscuit Co.

The Wabash, was advised this morning that all embargoes from one point to the other on the Wabash system and those to eastern points not affected by embargo of connecting line had been raised and that the company was now ready to conduct a normal business in the freight traffic line. The cold wave seems to have had no ill effects at Detroit, where the company trains are ferried over the river.

COMPLETED JULY 1.

New Pennsylvania Chicago-Louisville Line Nears End.

The Pennsylvania expects to be running trains over its own line from Louisville to Chicago by July 1. This is being made possible by the construction of a road from Indianapolis to Frankfort to connect at the latter place with the Vandalia for Logansport. For over forty years Pennsylvania has been using the Lake Erie and Western tracks on a part of the line between Logansport and Indianapolis. When the Pennsylvania quits that line the number of trains will be reduced one-half.

HAD THEIR EARS FROZEN.

Elmer Wiebke, C. H. Gerke and E. H. Fritz, clerks in the Pennsylvania machine shop office, went there this morning with greatly enlarged and pretty sore ears. Those very important and more or less ornamental appendages were badly frosted last night, when the owners were on their way home from the shop office. Neither of these young men had seemed it necessary to get new and heavy headgear for the winter and had on light summer caps when they had the encounter with Jack Frost. They have secured heavier caps now.

BACK IN HIS OLD PLACE.

R. E. Penfold is again clerk for Foreman Harry Emmerson, of the lathe department of the Pennsylvania shops, after an absence of two months. When the call came for extra firemen on the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania system, Mr. Penfold responded and his place as clerk was taken by C. E. Foster, a high school student. The latter now resigns to return to school and Mr. Penfold takes up his old duties. After he returned from the east he was employed in the tool room a short time.

ORGANIZING BOOSTER GANG.

The organization of a "booster gang" to back the General Electric basketball team in the contest next Thursday night with the Bowser team, is taking on immense proportions at the big Broadway plant. The General Electric team is ahead in the league games and the friends of the boys want to maintain that position. Of course, the Bowser boys' friends will have a well organized booster gang at the game also.

COLORED MAN LOSES FINGER.

While handling some pieces of steel this morning, one of them fell upon the hand of P. L. Jones, in the erecting shop, and crushed the index finger of his right hand so that it was later amputated at the first joint by Dr. Van Swearingen, at the Lutheran hospital. Jones is a colored man and came here a few weeks ago with others of his race to work in the Pennsylvania shops.

PORTER GOES TO LIGHTS.

N. D. Porter has been transferred from another department to office of S. E. Uncapher, of the fractional horsepower motor production department of the General Electric works. Mr. Porter has been at the Electric works only about a month, going there from the Wabash, where he was division storekeeper for some time. Mr. Porter succeeds D. F. Hines at the office of Mr. Uncapher.

ASH IS AGENT AT DOLA.

H. J. Ash is now ticket and freight agent at Dola, O., for the Pennsylvania, succeeding V. E. Negelsbach, who has taken an indefinite leave of absence on account of poor health. Mr. Ash had been agent at Maples and has been succeeded there by L. G. Carey. Before going to Maples Mr. Ash was employed as chief clerk in the freight office at Valparaiso.

SIXTY-EIGHT SIGNED CHARTER.

Sixty-eight have signed for the charter of the Electrical workers, which is expected here soon. It is expected that many more signatures will be secured before the charter is closed. It is estimated that 230 electrical workers attended the mass meeting, at which the charter members were secured.

TURNED OUT FOUR ENGINES.

The output of repaired locomotives from the Pennsylvania erecting shop was slightly better than for the several previous weeks. There were just fourteen of them, one belonging to the G. R. & I., the list being as follows: Nos. 99, 7451, 7229, 7234, 7630, 9086, 7048, 7301, 9047, 9067, 9957, 9991 and 9249. The No. 99 belongs to the G. R. & I.

RETURN FROM BUSINESS TRIPS.

Electrical Engineer Theodore Titus and Air Brake Instructor H. A. Burson of the Pennsylvania have returned from business trips east. Mr. Titus was at Pittsburgh and Mr. Burson was at Mahoningtown, where the air brake car is located at present.

TAKES UP INSURANCE WORK.

H. C. Eckels, a member of Chief Draftsman W. H. Crighton's force at the General Electric works, has accepted an offer from the Prudential Insurance company. He has resigned his position at the Electric works and Monday morning will take up his new duties.

MOULDER HAS TOE CRUSHED.

F. H. Borcherting, a moulder at the Pennsylvania shops, had his left foot bruised and one of the toes crushed yesterday, when a cross head of an engine fell upon the member. He was sent to his home, on Erie street, after the injured foot had been dressed.

GOES EAST ON BUSINESS.

Tonight H. J. Peters will leave for Schenectady, N. Y., on business for the General Electric company, which will keep him there about a week. Mr. Peters is the general foreman of the tool supply department at the big plant on Broadway.

LOST PART OF A FINGER.

Gerald Burnett is minus the end of the index finger of his left hand as the result of getting it caught between the dies of a punch press he was operating at the General Electric works at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He is off duty as a result of the accident.

FOREMAN BIERBAUM RECOVERS.

William H. Bierbaum, foreman of the meter department of the General Electric works, resumed that duty this morning. He had been ill a week with the grip.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Charles A. Sink, of the Pennsylvania paint shop, is sick and off duty.

T. R. Hunter, a Pennsylvania boiler-makers' helper, is off duty on account of sickness.

E. C. Mennewisch, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, is sick and off duty.

Pennsylvania Blacksmith I. Sorg is off duty on account of the illness of his wife.

Fred Woehner, assistant timekeeper at the Wabash main shop office, is sick and off duty.

H. F. Wass, who had been sick a week, has returned to his duties in the Pennsylvania shops.

N. M. Weidner, a tinner at the Pennsylvania shops, is attending the automobile show in Chicago.

E. P. Galland and J. H. Deck, machinists in the Pennsylvania erecting shops, are sick and off duty.

Oliver Carbau, a Wabash car repairman, who was sick a week, was able to resume work this morning.

Chester Spry, late of Masonville, Iowa, has taken a position as electric welder at the Pennsylvania shops.

Crane Operator F. B. Putt, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, was off duty yesterday on account of sickness.

E. E. Richey, of the Pennsylvania shops, went to Van Wert this morning to spend a couple of days with relatives and friends.

Herold Houck will take a position in the stock room of the receiving department of the General Electric works Monday.

Herman Michael, who had a finger injured in the meter department of the General Electric works last Tuesday, reported for duty this morning.

Edward Nast, of the Pennsylvania vice shop, went to Inwood, Ind., yesterday to do some special work for the company.

Machinist J. W. McCoy of the Wabash ships is still unable to work. He was taken ill last Sunday and has been unable to work since.

W. H. Polhamus, of 624 East Lewis street, a Pennsylvania engineer, was summoned to Valparaiso yesterday by news of the death of his aunt.

Machinist T. J. Errington, of the Pennsylvania tool room, and his wife, have planned an over Sunday visit with relatives and friends in Toledo, and will leave for that city tonight.

E. W. Koehl, stenographer for Foreman M. W. Kemp at the Pennsylvania shops, will be the guest of relatives and friends at Lima over Sunday.

The cold wave has had a bad effect upon train schedules. Not a passenger train entered Fort Wayne on time today and freights were "away off."

The Nickel Plate, which maintains a big ice houses at Bellevue, Ohio, has commenced to fill them. Eighteen car loads were delivered there this week.

Harry C. Holliday, chief clerk for Trautman R. E. Casey of the G. R. & I., is at his desk again after an absence of a day or two on account of sickness.

Machinist John O. Bryant, of the Pennsylvania, who resides out near Brookside farm, failed to show up for work this morning and it is presumed he is sick.

John W. Colchin, of Chicago Junction, O., is here to spend some time with his relatives. He is the father of Mrs. Daniel Petgen. Mr. Colchin is about 80 years old and has retired from active work.

The demand for good mechanics, helpers and laborers is still beyond the supply, particularly at the railway shops. The Pennsylvania is in the market for some good men and is promising steady employment.

Good cheer and jollity will attend the gathering of Pennsylvania employees at the home of Fred W. Ropa, the retired shopman, on Weisser Park avenue, tonight. The boys have been invited there by Mr. Ropa, who is quite popular with them.

W. F. Koehlinger, F. Sperry and A. Peterson, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, are off duty on account of sickness. Eight or ten other employees of the department failed to show up this morning, but the cause was not given.

Assistant Foreman Gus Gruber, of the Pennsylvania tin and pipe shop, who was severely injured in a fall on the ice nearly two weeks ago, is now on the mend and it is believed he will recover in a week or two sufficiently to resume work at the shops.

Mrs. Ella Bontor has returned from Bellevue, Ohio, where she was the guest of Conductor and Mrs. C. Sauer, for three weeks. Mrs. Bontor is one of the officers of the Grand Lodge of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors and was the recipient of several social honors conferred by the auxiliary ladies of Bellevue.

One week from today occurs the second howling game between teams in the Fort Wayne shops and the Allegheny shops of the Pennsylvania. The battle will come off in alleys in Canton and it will be the second of a series of three. The first one, which

George H. Loesch today filed his formal intention under the law to be a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor. Mr. Loesch has been meeting thousands of the voters with every reason to believe that he will receive the support of the majority of the voters.

"If nominated," he said today to a reporter, "I will give the campaign the most careful and energetic effort to win the election. If elected I will give the city an administration that will aim at economy and the best public service. The home and public interests of the entire people will be my constant aim. In that attitude I appeal to the voters to go to the polls and favor me with the nomination." —Advertisement.

was played at Mansfield, was won by the Allegheny boys, but the remaining two games, it is said, will have a different termination.

"Information," the pamphlet issued by the publicity department of the Pennsylvania under date of January 29, contains good portraits of D. F. Crawford, general manager of the lines west of Pittsburgh, and P. F. Smith, Jr., general superintendent of motive power of the lines west, who formerly resided in Fort Wayne. Mr. Crawford was here from 1892 to August 1903 and Mr. Smith was here from August, 1903, to November 10, 1896. Each was well known in railway circles in the city.

SCHIEFER ANNOUNCES CHANGE.

Division is Made in Sales and Storage Department.

Owing to the rapid development of his business Mr. Chester Schiefer has made a division in the sales and the storage and repair departments of his garage business on Barr street. As distributor of the Paige cars Mr. Schiefer has found that the sales end of the business requires all of his attention. The storage and repair division has been taken over by Mr. Clarence Paige, who was a dealer for the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company in the Columbia City territory, and being a man of practical knowledge of the business, Mr. Paige will continue that branch of the Schiefer garage in the very efficient manner that has always made that concern popular with car owners.

Property Sold by the K. Vorndran Agency This Week.

The business property of Frank Deck, just north of the Hayes hotel, was purchased by William J. Steckbeck for $10,500. Mr. Steckbeck plans to put a two story brick building in the rear and have it arranged for six bowling alleys in same, as he is the owner of the Star Bowling alleys, and the Deck property adjoins him on the south.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

FOR seven consecutive years, the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company has demonstrated its ability to conceive and produce the type of automobiles that appeal instantaneously to the American people.

All Paige models have been immediate successes. Paige announcements and the endorsement of the public have been almost simultaneous. As a consequence, the history of Paige at the automobile shows has been one long, unbroken series of triumphs.

Such being the case, it must indeed be significant when we say the reception accorded to our new models has far surpassed anything of the kind that we have ever experienced.

At the earlier automobile shows it has amounted to a genuine ovation.

The Paige booths have been thronged with visitors from morning until night. Hundreds of disinterested men and women have personally sought out the officials of our company and congratulated them in the most glowing terms.

Seasoned motor car distributors from all sections of the nation have been equally lavish in their praise, and each day our mails are filled with communications expressing the same enthusiastic approval.

So you can see we have reasons to feel proud—and do feel proud. We know, too, that every Paige owner will share this feeling with us when he first sees and rides in "The Most Beautiful Car in America."

EDDYTORIUL ON "IGNOR-UNTS."

Ignorunts is a turrible awful calamity to have happen to you. In other words there aint mutch hope for ennybuddy who is steeped in ignorunts. Sumbuddy has said that "Ignorunts & Sooperstition goes hand in hand together," and we believe it. Wherever you find ignorunts you will also find sufferink becuz sufferink is the penalty of ignorunts.

The motif what mooved us to dash off this eddytoriul on "Ignorunts" happend down to Hen Weathersbys store tother evg. where we happend to of went after we had got our supper to purchase a pkg. of smokink tobacco and also to indulge ourself in the luxshury of soashal intercourse amoungst some of the most respected citizens of Bingville who is accustomed to congregating at Hens store of an evg and congesting theirselfs around the stove in a effort to keep warm whilst they discuss the current topics of the hour.

Well, as we were there smokink our eddytoriul pipe and warmink our shins by the stove in Hens store we chanced to remark apperpo ("apperpo" is a Latin word which we haft to use here to express ourself) of nothink in particular—we repeat that we happend to remark as follers: "My goodness sakes, how time flies! Here it is almost the middle of Febuary already—it wont be long enny more until spring."

There was a silence greeted our remark on the part of them as was clustered around the stove fer a minnit until Abe Witherow give a gurglin pull or two on his pipe and said, "Middle of Febuary! Huh!—it aint nuther—Febuary aint skeerely a third consumed as yet—accordin to my kalkilatin 14 and a haif days has to pass by afore Febuary is haif past."

"We regret exceedink, Abram," says us to Abe, "to inform you that your kalkilashions is not correct—the haif of Febuary does not consist of 14 and one-haif days, as you surmise, but 14 days."

"You cant make me believe that," says Abe bristling up a good eal; "my last yrs. callerd which I got for nothink at the co. seat had great big plain figgers on it and was as good a callerd as there was in Bingville and I remember partickler that Febuary had per-zackly 29 days in it becuz I counted em several times & if Febuary of last yr. had 29 days in it it stands to reason that Febuary of this yr. has 29 days in it. Enny fool ort to know that. I diddnt happen to git no callerd this yr., but you cant make me believe that this month aint got 29 days in it. If it aint, why aint it?"

"Becuz," says us in deep disgust, "last yr. was LEEP Yr. and this aint, that's why."

"Leap yr.," sneers Abe; "whats LEEP Yr., and whoever heard of sitch a ridicklus thing!"

Right there was where we almost lost our temper and we told Abe rite to his face what we thort of enny citizen of Bingville who was so pitiful ignorant as not to know that evry 4th yr. Febuary has 29 days in it whereas on other yrs. its only got 28 days. Then giving Abe a look of withering contempt we left the store in deep disgust.

In concloushion of this eddytoriul on "Ignorunts" we wish to state for the benefit of the young ladies of Bingville as well as for the benefit of them who is no longer yung but have passed the flour of their youth, as we mite say, that they must not lose their courage becuz LEEP Yr. wont come again for a period of four yrs. If during the LEEP Yr. of 1916 you diddnt happen to ketch a man, girls, do not repine. It may not be the custom for a marriageable woman to perpose to a man on a yr. that aint LEEP Yr., but if she is swiftly becoming a old maid, it is perfectly justifiable in self defense and we urge all sitch ladies of Bingville who happen to be keeping company with gentlemen who aint as yet popd the question to ask em plint blank if they are merely triffling with their feminine affekshions, or if their intensions is honorable.

Personals

The cold weather hangs on like a burdock burr in a dogs tail. Generally the turrible awful cold begins to sorter peter out about this time of yr., but it aint peterd out mutch so far being as a person has to sleep nights with about as menny quilts and blankets over em to keep from freezin togeth as they did thro Janooary. Clem Gookins says he has to have so menny puffs and quilts and things on him all night to keep warm that when morning comes he has smashd flatter a road drag.

In view of the above personal there aint been what you might call enny signs of spring reported as we go to press. We went down to Snake Creek speshial tother day to see if there was enny pussy willers out in bud. There wasent. Not only that, but there diddnt look as if there would be for quite a spell—a close inspekshion of the pussy willer bushes peard to indykate to us that all the pussy willer buds was froze dead in the shell.

Speakin of signs of spring, Old Dad Henderson who pretends to be the greatest wether profet in Bingville, says he seen a robin in a apple tree in his back yard tother day. We have made several in quires from others of our well knowd citizens as to whether they had saw enny robins and being as nobuddy else bud Dad had saw one we have about come to the concloushion that what Dad seen instead of a robin was probably a bluejay or a crow. Dads eyesight aint what it used to be.

Mrs. Amos Hillier, wife of our esteemed townsman, also longer, legal lile & J. of the P., while stepping out of the kitchen to empty a pan of dishwater tother day, fell and bruised herself considerable.

Miss Amelia Tucker, our raining sossiety queen & leader of the Bingville 400 is havink a new dress made by a gentleman ladies tailor (whatever that is) at the co. seat. We hope it wont be as short at the bottom as Amelias last dress was which scandalized the entire neighborhood. This is the 1st dress Amelia has ever had made at the co. seat. Here tofore Miss Phoebe Hilderbrand, our fashionable Bingville dress maker has made all of Miss Amelias dresses, but it pears that Amelia is getting so hifalutin that clothes made in Bingville aint good enuff for her. Miss Phoebe is a good eal put out about it, too, and she says she hopes that Amelias new dress from the co. seat wont fit her a tall being as that would serve her rite for not paternizing home trade.

We have it on good authority that Hank Dewberry has hired out to help Cy Hoskins thru his harvest next summer at the rate of a dollar a day and found. LATER—Hank has jest been to the Boogie offits to deny this roomer about him. Hank says he would be a fool to hire out so far in advance to ennybuddy being as how would he know whether he mite have roomtyx or general ability or some other sickness the matter with him by next summer. Hank says he would like to know who in Sam Hill starts sitch roomers about him ennyhow. We would, too, but its generally safe to perdict that enny roomer which says that Hank Dewberry is a going to do fizikall labor not only aint true, but is also absurd & ridicklus on the face of it.

Bill Hepburn did not make his usual trip to the co. seat after licker last Saturday & come home either under the wether or in a comatose condition at eventide as usual—no, Bill styd at home and sent Ransie Smiley in his place for a jug of rye and instid of Bill comink home full he got full as soon as Ransie arrove back with a jugfull of Demon Rum and as far as thats concerned Bill is full yet and probably will remain so until the contents of the jug is exorted.

These is all the "Personals" which happens to occur to us at this particular writing & sitting. The next thing on the programme for this issue of the Bugle is "Lokal Breefs" which we will now proceed to write.

Lokal Breefs

Simc Gookins who lives two miles west of Bingville was in town tother day and informs us that he had a yearling steer to die on his hands a few days ago. To complykate matters moren ever Simc dont know what the dogmashion the steer didd of neither, and praps this will allus & forever remane a mistery. Simc has the sympathy of the entire community in his sad loss & bereevment.

Jobe Hanson who holds a very looker-tive position running a elevator in a store at the co. seat is at home on a few days vacation with his parents of this town. Jobe has sprooced up a good eal during the three months he has been working to the co. seat and is quite citydine in his ways. Jobe has lent to smoke cigaroets and to wear a stiff collar three inches high without chokin todeath. Jobe says he couldnt stand it to come back to Bingville to live now after gettin a taste of city life being as there aint no opportunity in a one horse town like Bingville for a smart boy like him. The only thing were afraid of is Jobe is likely to git so almighty smart and sharp that he'll either punkshure or cut hisself todeath!

If as editor & prop of the Bugle we could only collect the muifficent sum of say $100 there aint skeerely no limit to what we could do with it tothrs paying our detts—and yet even $5 or $10 or even $75 ets. would be welcome and would be received with great cheer.

Eph Higgins our accomodating P. M. tother day received from the P. M. General at Washington 2 doz. speshial delivery stamps which Eph orderd about a month ago. Now that Eph has these 2 doz. speshial delivery stamps on hand he says he dont know what the dogmashion made him order so menny of em being as he must of been outen his head at the time to of didd so. Be that as it may, Eph says in order to stummiyate the market for speshial delivery stamps he will sell em at the rate of 9 cts. each until his present supply is exorted thus losing one ct. on catch stamp so to speak, or 20 cts. on the 29 stamps. Here is a chance to git speshial delivery stamps cheap—a opportunity which may never come to you agin. Simc Eph is sport enuff to sell these speshial delivery stamps for a ct. less per catch than he paid for em whoose sport enuff to buy, somethink they dont need enuff becuz its cheap?

Missus Martha Tucker is almost laid up with being crippled. Missus Martha went to the co. seat with Gabe Tucker her husband last wk. and purchased a new pr. of shoes which was No. 78. Being as Martha weighd, neerly 300 lbs. and has a No. 9 foot instid of a No. 7 when she put on them No. 7 new shoes on her big feet last Sunday and went to church she diddnt git mutch spiritcheol comfort as we mite say—on the contrary Martha suffered the torchoors of the lost whilst the stormen lasted and she cold sweat stood out on her forehead like beads and run down and dript offen her double chin. Then she limpd home with a groan at evry step and has been lame ever sinst. Why will wimmen be so fool-ish we ask? Anser—Providence only knows! Hen Weathersby, prop of our general store, from who Martha has al-lus purchased her shoes in the past says it serves her rite for not paternizing home trade.

Jaspar Hawkins while about to enter the P. O. tother day to see if there was enny mail matter for him (there wasent) jest as the Rev. Moore, our be-lueved pastor, was coming outen the P. O. door, Jaspas foot slidd on the ice and as he started to fall he grabd holt of the Rev. Moore for support and as a result Jasp dragged the Rev. Moore along with him and they both fell with a dull sickening thud on the P. O. steps on top of each other. The Rev. Moore diddnt like it very well, and after he had gath-ered hisself up and put on his tall beaver hat which was considerable dinged up in the scirmmage he spoke purty sharp to Jaspard but Jasp was as pleasant as could be and told our belueved pastor that he thort a minister of the gospel was the proper person for a poor sinner in distress to grab holt of for aid when he found hisself going down in slippery places. The Rev. Moore stuck his head up into the air and marchd off without never ansering a word to Jasp.

Samantha Deever is still on the sick list as we go to press. We was trying to figger up tother day how menny yrs. its been sinst Samantha has been on the sick list and we kalkilated it must be over 15 but Jim Parker says he thinks its all of 20. Be that as it may, we have al-lus aimed to mentchion the fack of Samantha being on the sick list in evry issue of the Bugle becuz when we dont do so Samantha gets turrible put out and takes us to book for it the 1st time she sees us. Samantha shurely does like to see her name in the paper.

Sossietty

Miss Amelia Tucker of Bingville who is leader of the sossial whirl there was the guest of Miss Polly Winslow of this town for two days last wk. and discuss sossiety doings in Hardscrabble in Miss Polly.—Item in the Hardscrabble Banner.

Go to Hen Weathersbys store for dry-goods, groceries, noshions et cettery too numerous to mentchion. SPESHIAL—A fresh box of prunes jest received! (Advertisement.)

Miss Martha Hillier had some new cards printed with her name on recent so last Saturday afternoon she paid sev-eral fashionable calls, leaving her cards behint her wherever she cald. We dont know where Miss Martha got her cards printed, but we do know that its a botched job of job printing. If you want nice cards with your name on come to the Bugle offis.

Missus Jabez Prime has purchased enuff wall paper with which to paper her front parlor and as soon as the wether moderates a leetle mite the job will be didd. Missus Prime will do the work herself.

Mrs. Jasper Hawkins a nounces that on Wednesday afternoon of next wk. from 2 to 5 p. m. she will give a "at home" (whatever that is) at her residence on Main st., opposite the school-house.

Mrs. Cy Hoskins was to of gave a tea party at her home last Saturday from 2 to 4 but she postponed it on acct. of a healing in her ear and all Missus Hoskins had from 2 to 4 on Saturday afternoon was a carake.

Several taffy pulls is skeduled amoungst the yung fokes of Bingville in the near fuchure.

If your back akes you or you have spots before your eyes, take warning before it is too late. Praps you are a going to have newmounya or grip or somethink else that will take you off sud-dint. See Doc Livermore for sickness.—(Advertisement.)

is a

Empty Bottel?

ANSER--

'No Good!'

That is a empty bottel aint no earthy use to YOU but IT IS TO ME. In other words I am a reglar licensed medical prackitshener & sirgun & vetyernary. In short I am the only dockter in Bingville and I minister to man & beest alike. This being the case, I compound medisins in likwid form to say nothink of pills and powders & poshions too numerous to mentchion. Well, whereas a empty bottel aint no good to you I can often use a empty bottel in my busi-ness. Being as empty bottels have been purty skeerew with me lately I thort I would try this ad into the Bugle to see if I could git some empty bottels which you happen to have about the house. As long as they aint no use to you I will be glad to call for em and remove em from the premises if you will let me know. The bigger the bottels the better I will like it. Not only that, but its dangerous to keep empty bottels kickin around the house—they are liable to break and then like as not you'll cut your fool self on em! Or its dangerous if they're a quarter or half full of medisin or likwid and aint got no label on em and you dont know what's in em. Menny a person has met their doom by takin a dose of somethink outen a bottel like that and being piked todeath! Be on the safe side and have I thort I bottels removed from your home at once! I will remove them promptly if notide.

LOCAL MARKETS ARE QUIET ON SATURDAY

Prices Remain the Same and Receipts Light at End of Week.

The dullness of Saturday outdid the dullness of Friday in local markets, there being no changes in quotations and hardly any receipts to relieve the monotony. Wheat prices remained the same and, although early Saturday a further drop was expected, dealers were pretty much on the fence in the afternoon following the announcement of the break with Germany. A prediction as to what changes might be made was impossible according to one local dealer.

Hogs were steady but a possible change was anticipated. Everything else remained steady at the end of the week. The receipts on the city scales were almost nil, four loads being weighed during the day. Three of these were hay, all of which sold at $11.00 a ton. One load of corn brought an even dollar per bushel. Oats were on the absence list.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Although wheat prices dropped 5c on the announcement that diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany had been severed the excitement in the pit did not equal that which had followed Germany's notice of unrestricted naval warfare. Opening prices ranged from the same as last night to 15c higher, with May at $1.01@1.02 and July at $1.04@1.05. Word began to spread of the developments in Washington and a selling stampede was on.

Corn, like wheat, broke sharply in response to the news of the diplomatic rupture with Germany. The extent of the decline, however, was not sensational, 2 1/2c at the greatest.

Provisions plunged lower with grain.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Feb. 3.—Today's short session will go down in history as one of the most memorable in the annals of the stock exchange. Announcement of the break with Germany came at the end of the first half hour, the market then following an uneven course evidently in anticipation of momentous developments. The first flash from Washington resulted in moderate declines. These gained headway on accelerated operations, rails dropping 1 to 2 points with greater losses in industrials and specialties. In the last half hour a broad and general buying movement under lead of United States Steel soon turned many previous losses to substantial net gains. Steel rose to 104 1/2, a gain of 4 points, with 3 to 6 points in war issues, Utah Copper and shipments and 30 points in Bethlehem Steel. The close was extremely feverish and strong as to important stocks. Sales exceeded 1,000,000 shares. Bonds were irregular. The tone of the market at today's opening was exceedingly irregular, reflecting the increased uncertainty growing out of the tense international situation. Early gains included 2 points for Best Sugar, 1 1/2 for marine preferred and a point for Crucible Steel. Union Pacific and St. Paul also made some recovery from yesterday's heaviness, but these were more than balanced by further declines in New York Central, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific. Among the heavy specialties were Airbrake, Lackawanna Steel, Pressed Steel Car and United States Rubber. United States Steel made an initial gain of 3, reacted and again advanced. Bethlehem Steel lost 5 points. Among

WHAT HAS BECOME OF—AND YOU LEAVE IT ON TOO

The speaker then likened himself unto a prosecuting attorney, arranging John Barleycorn before him. The latter was the defendant in the trial and the audience the jury. Witnesses were then called. The medical man testified that it shortened human lives.

Statistics furnished by the life insurance man bore out the statement made by the preceding witness and further testified to the jury that he did not care to assume the risks of John Barleycorn's friends.

The man of science was next to testify. His remarks forced the court bailiff to ask for order. He stated that liquor was the same as poison and that it ought to be labeled with the skull and cross bones.

"We will have nothing to do with the defendant's friends," said the business man on the witness stand. The railroad man said as much.

The last witnesses to be called were the wife and the mother. Between those they gave their testimony to the wreck and ruin which the defendant had caused to come upon them.

The prosecutor then called in the raw materials and finished products to test the accuracy of the statements made by the witnesses.

Mr. Howard said, "The saloon puts its tools at the front door and its finished products in the alley."
